CENTENNIAL FARM

Fifth generation on the farm

Herrmann Farm's history dates back to German ancestor in 1911

By COLLIN FAIRFIELD
For The Weekly Post

EDELSTEIN – Most people know the Herrmann House on Illinois Route 90 in Edelstein as the house with the red caboose. But the Herrmann name has been synonymous with agriculture for over 100 years.

Dennis Herrmann (fourth generation) said, "It started with Gottlieb Herrmann born in 1865 in Germany. Gottlieb's family decided to move to the United States to pursue better farm opportunities."

Gottlieb's family settled in Leo, Ind. But when he was 17, Gottlieb's father died, so the family moved to Morton. There Gottlieb got a chance to work on a farm near Princeville. Gottlieb also found love in Princeville, marrying Sophia Streitmatter and starting a family. They were blessed with two sons, Albert and John, before Gottlieb died in 1938 at the age of 73. Before that, he saved enough money to buy the family farm in 1911.

Albert started the second generation by farming 500 acres. Albert was the first to install electricity at the farm. He married Louise Siebenthal and the family was blessed with five children (Eugene, Noah, Harry, Walter and daughter Margaret).

Harry Herrmann started the third generation on the farm, but Uncle Sam halted his farming ca-

Services resuming

Many churches gathering again

By LORI HEROLD
For The Weekly Post

While the majority of local churches have resumed worship services, it may be a while before sanctuaries are filled with bare-faced parishioners shaking hands and sharing hugs.

The return to services in sanctuaries – that began last weekend and continues this weekend – has been well-received, according to local ministers.

"Older people say how wonderful it is to be in front of the altar again," said Pastor Michael Liese, of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Brimfield.

That being said, area churches emphasize that people should stay home if they have a fever, have health conditions that make them vulnerable, have been exposed to the virus, or if they simply feel uncomfortable being part of a gathering just yet.

As the website of St. Joseph Catholic Church in Brimfield states, "The bishops have completely dispensed (excused us) from the obligation to attend Sunday Mass for the foreseeable future. This means that no one should feel guilty about staying home or missing Mass on the weekend. ... It is not a sin if you decide to stay home."

Here is information on which churches are open and special requirements.

Child-care providers seek additional aid

By BILL KNIGHT
For The Weekly Post

Getting legislation approved on Capitol Hill sometimes seems as hard as getting toddlers to wear face coverings, but both area Representatives in Congress favor support for child-care providers, who increasingly need help, advocates say.

Illinois child-care centers are where masks should be worn by kids 2 years old and up – one of several new guidelines child-care centers are implementing after Illinois reopened many businesses in Phase 3 of the state's Restore Illinois plan.

Last week, the non-partisan/nonprofit Hechinger Report said current financial circumstances could mean half of all child-care centers may have to close, and almost 500 national and state groups have asked policymakers to provide at least $50 billion for the child-care sector to help reer for a few years. He fought in the Korean War for two years with the U.S. Army. Harry would farm on Route 90 for 60 years.

HERRMANNS: Memories of Visit a Farm Day

"That's where the current house and farm currently reside," Dennis said.

In 1957, Harry married Bertha Jean Kieser, a Wyoming graduate who came from a farming family as well. Harry and Bertha Jean were married for 54 years until Harry's passing in 2011.

"He had the current house built in 1974 and completely changed and modernized the buildings. Some to this day are still standing," Dennis said.

When Harry wasn't in the fields during planting or harvest time, he was busy in the community. He was a Peoria County Farm Bureau Director for two years, Vice President for one year and President for eight years. Harry also served as President of Peoria Pork Producers and the Peoria County Beef Association.

Dennis said his dad, in 1988, was named Prairie Farmer Master Farmer. Harry and Bertha Jean also got media attention when they hosted Visit a Farm Day for several years, giving kids from the city a chance to experience farm life for a day.

"It was a culture shock to most of the those kids!" said Dennis, whose siblings are Cheryl, Crystal and Cynthia.

Unfortunately, Dennis said Harry died just two weeks before the farm turned 100 years old.

As in previous decades, the 1990s also saw changes. First Harry and Bertha Jean decided to move to Ostrom Meadows in Princeville and Dennis became the fourth generation on the family farm.

In 1992, Dennis married Renee Stieglitz. By 1994 Dallas was born and then came Victoria (Tory), Daniel and Destiny. Dennis is approaching his 50th year in farming. "Just like my dad, I found myself in the media, the Chicago Tribune ran an article about conservation featuring (me)," Dennis said.

In November 1999, tragedy struck the area, as a Union Pacific derailed and spilled coal onto the farm property. After the spill was cleaned up, Dennis had a unique request for compensation.

Dallas Herrmann works to get a planter ready for use at his family's Centennial Farm earlier this spring. Dallas is the fifth generation working on the farm. Photo by Collin Fairfield

"We only had two kids at that time and Renee wanted a caboose," he said, explaining that his wife thought the caboose would be a unique way to home school.

As the calendar flipped to 2000, Union Pacific delivered the tracks and caboose. Dennis said the only thing he did was to paint the car.

This year, Dennis is slowly stepping back and letting son Dallas – the fifth generation of Herrmanns – handle more responsibility. A 2008 Princeville High School graduate, Dallas is also studying diesel mechanics at Illinois Central College. When he is not studying, he keeps the farm machinery running.

During planting and harvest time, Dallas estimates he will work 12-hour days – unless there's rain coming, in which case the days can stretch to 14 to 16 hours.

Last year, neighbor Brian Elsasser helped with harvest when Dennis was unable to work for medical reasons. Dennis has recovered now and is back working at Caterpillar, Inc.

Asked about the sixth generation, Dennis said, "Not for a few years. But when they do arrive they can tell people their house had the big red caboose."

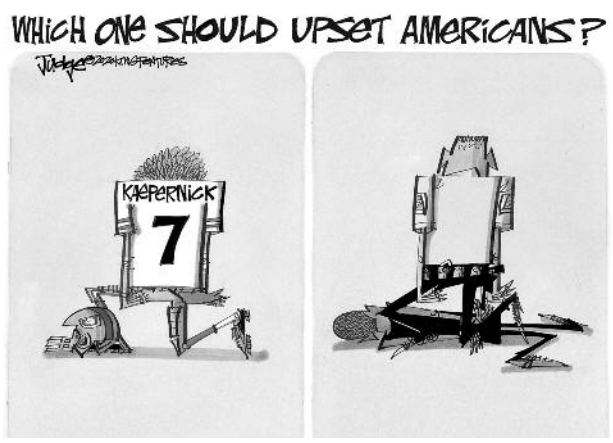
GUEST VOICES



Congratulations to the Class of 2020!

To the Editor:

The last couple of months were so much different than all of you graduates anticipated, but you persevered and finished! I am praying for you as you start the next stage in your life amidst this time of uncertainty.

Maybe you have questions: What lies ahead in my life? Will I get to pursue my ambitions and dreams? One thing you can be sure of: Jesus loves you, cares about you and He wants to be your Savior.

John 4:13 – "Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again" (referring to all the world has to offer).

John 4:14 – "But whosoever shall drink of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst" (Jesus satisfies).

Romans 3:23 – "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

Romans 6:23 – "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Romans 2:4 – "Or despisest thou the riches of His goodness; not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance?"

Luke 13:3 – "...except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."

Revelation 21:8 – "...in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone."

John 3:16 – "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Titus 3:5a – "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy He saved us..."

I John 1:9 – "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

God's invitation to you: Revelation 22:17 "And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take of the Water of Life freely."

– Danelle Reed, Elmwood

The big, bulbous truth about many selfies

To The Editor:

I have a theory about the popularity of selfies – people think everyone wants to know where they are all the time. That may be true.

There is an additional truth. Selfies do not present a complimentary image of the taker. Selfies taken with one of the wands that gets the camera further from the photographer can be exceptions.

A normal arm-length selfie makes the photographer's nose look bigger, much bigger, and does nothing to enhance the rest of the image – all that time you may have spent putting on make-up or eyelashes, wasted.

Have you seen the footage of the "stars" broadcasting from home. Their careers have not included spent time behind the camera, and they have really looked bad. They have started standing further from their multi-purpose device. Even Al the Weather Man understands.

Geppeto's little wooden man didn't want a really big nose.

CHURCHES: More services open in Phase 4

Brimfield: Services resume in the building June 14. Through the month of June, masks are required except when properly distanced in the pews, then wearing them is optional. Families may sit together.

"We don't want people to feel like they're in jail, we want to be inviting, to feel like church," said Doug Seeley.

• St. Joseph Catholic Church: Services have resumed in the building on an RSVP basis by going to parish website and choosing desired Mass. Holy Communion will be distributed to those in cars in the parking lot. Confession will be heard in the parking lot.

• St. Paul's Lutheran Church: Services have resumed in the building though they are shorter, "more like devotions than sermons," according to Liese. Masks can be worn but are not required. Parishioners should properly distance and families can sit together.

For those not ready to return to a gathering, Holy Communion can be administered privately at church or home.

• Brimfield E-free Church: Services have resumed in the building following CDC guidelines. Pastor Donald Blasing said, "We have marked off 6-foot sections in our fellowship hall for social distancing and taped lanes for traffic in and out of the church. We do plan to have coffee available soon, but it will be in cups with lids already on them so our people can pick them up before the service."

Front doors will be open to avoid touching them, hand sanitizer will be available, masks will be required and available for those who don't have them.

• Brimfield United Methodist Church: For now, worship is available via Facebook only.

• Union Church at Brimfield United Church of Christ: There will be no services at the building through June. Physical attendance will be revisited once the area enters Phase 4.

KICKAPOO-EDWARDS

• Bethany Baptist Churches: No services in the building yet. Pastor Bob Castle said, "Our plan is a working draft at this time and we continue to discuss as a church family."

• Christ Alive! Church: According to information on Facebook, Christ Alive has resumed services at the building.

• St. Mary's Catholic Church: Services have resumed on an RSVP basis for two weeks at a time. Collection baskets will not be passed, but be in the spaces indicated. There will be no sign of peace. According to a letter sent to parishioners, "The faithful are strongly encouraged to receive Communion in the hand and to carefully avoid any physical contact with the minister's hand when receiving. Those who do not wish to come forward at Communion are encouraged to remain in place to make an Act of Spiritual Communion."

ELMWOOD

• St. Patrick's Catholic Church: Refer to St. Mary's in Kickapoo-Edwards.

• Crossroads Assembly of God: Services in the building will resume on June 28. Masks will be required, as is properly distancing. Every other row will be required to stay empty. Hand sanitizer will be available.

• First United Presbyterian Church of Elmwood: Services have resumed in the building. The website states, "Our main guidance came from Governor Pritzker's 'Guidance for Places of Worship and Providers of Religious Services' on the Illinois Dept. of Public Health webpage.'"

Parishioners are asked to use hand sanitizer when entering and exiting and avoid touching doors, light switches, pews, pew Bibles and hymnals. Masks are recommended but not required. Distancing will be at 10-feet apart "because we will be singing and joining in responsive reading," though family groups may sit together. Greeters, ushers, liturgists and musicians will not be used until further notice.

Holy Communion may be picked up on the way out of the sanctuary.

FARMINGTON

• New Hope Fellowship Assembly of God: Services have resumed in the building though services will continue to be available on Facebook as well. Attendees who wear masks will be separate from those who don't. Parishioners will be required to use hand-sanitizing stations upon entering and exiting. Temperatures will be checked beginning June 14 and parishioners asked how they are feeling.

• Farmington Bible Church: Services have resumed in the building. Proper distancing is required. Masks are voluntary.

• First Presbyterian Church of Farmington: No services in building yet, though they will continue online. According to Pastor Andy Sonneborn in the church newsletter, "We need to take things slowly and not rush to reopen everything immediately. When we do worship together again, worship is going to look different than what we are used to, and it will be like that for some time. ... As one of your spiritual leaders, I worry about reopening too soon. ... The last thing I want is to know that people got sick and/or died under my watch. So we will be cautious."

Of the ideas stated in the newsletter, the earliest reopen will be once state has entered Phase 4, and then there may be two worship services to accommodate 50 people or less.

PRINCEVILLE

• Princeville United Methodist Church: Services have resumed outside the building on the lawn during the month of June. Masks will be required though attendees may stay in their cars without a mask. Attendees are invited to bring lawn chairs. After June, location of services will be determined on a month-by-month basis.

• St Mary of the Woods Catholic Church: Services have resumed in the building on an RSVP basis.

TRIVOLI

• Trivoli United Methodist Church: Services have resumed outside the building as weather permits. Parishioners are welcome to bring lawn chairs. In the case of inclement weather, Sunday programming will be on Facebook and Zoom.

WILLIAMSFIELD

• St. James Catholic Church: Refer to St. Joseph's in Brimfield. Confession will be made in the "machine shed."

Black lives matter protest held in Princeville

By ERIK DAVIS
For The Weekly Post

PRINCEVILLE – A crowd of more than 70 people gathered Saturday at Stevens Square to speak out against police violence towards the African American community and specifically the death of George Floyd.

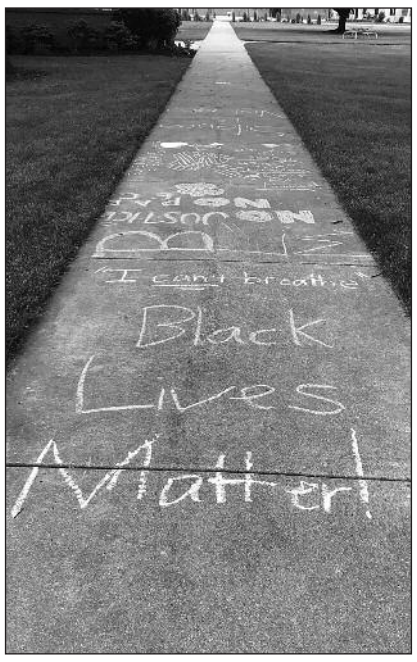
Floyd was a resident of Minneapolis, who was suffocated while a Minneapolis police officer knelt on his neck. Floyd's death has ignited nation-wide protests.

The Princeville rally was organized by Amber Emerick, a lifetime Princeville resident.

"I had to step up because not being racist is not enough anymore," Emerick said.

Many in the crowd brought signs expressing support for Black Lives Matter and George Floyd.

Emerick thanked those gathered before proceeding to speak about her motivations for planning the rally. Emerick described her emotions right before speaking saying, "I never felt more vulnerable and uncomfortable ... in my entire life than I did standing there sharing my story but that's also where change begins. We have to get comfortable being uncomfortable."



Protesters wrote chalk messages on sidewalks at Stevens Square park in downtown Princeville after a Black Lives Matter protest held Saturday.

Emerick's talk was followed by that of her daughter, a biracial teen, who expressed how supported she felt that so many had come out to the rally. She also implored those gathered to discuss issues of race more openly. Emerick then invited everyone to participate in a nine-minute period of silent refection to honor the memory of George Floyd.

After the period of silence others in attendance spoke, including Peoria County Sheriff Brian Asbell.

"Sheriff Asbell even shared kind words with my daughter and the rest of the youth in attendance," Emerick said. "I'm glad to see their hard work did not go unnoticed."

Following the speakers, the crowd then chalked messages supporting Black Lives Matter and Floyd on the sidewalks in Stevens Square before dispersing.

Elmwood aids Eagle Scout, FFA

By JOHN A. BALLENTINE
For The Weekly Post

ELMWOOD – The City of Elmwood council approved two donations for up to $1,500 during a June 4 meeting held at City Hall.

First, up to $1,000 will be donated for an Eagle Scout project that will benefit the Elmwood Youth Baseball League. Andrew DeSplinter, who will be a junior at Elmwood High School, has a plan to refurbish sheds at Sweetwater Park that house the league's pitching machines. The project is slated to be completed by July.

Second, $500 will go to the Future Farmers Association's tractor pull, scheduled to be held later this year.

In addition, the council approved transferring $500 from the general fund to the police fund specifically for the K-9 unit maintenance.

Police Chief Aaron Bean reported zero arrests, 12 traffic stops, no citations, 12 warnings, 34 reports taken and one open door for the month of May. Also, there were 12 ordinance violations – mainly for illegal dumping in Sweetwater Park.

Amy Davis, Economic Development Director, reported that the Strawberry Festival was cancelled for the year, but strawberry treats and confectionaries were available at Elmwood businesses this past weekend. Davis said the Farmers' Market would be held beginning June 12 on Friday evenings from 4-6:30 p.m., plus band concerts are still scheduled for later this summer, with starting dates to be announced.

Concerning committee reports, Mayor Bryan Davis said the city purchased 330 feet of chain-link panels that would be required for alcoholic service establishments. City workers set up the fencing on South Magnolia Street in time for last weekend.

The city plans to purchase eight more picnic tables for Elmwood establishments to utilize while under COVID-19 restrictions. The city plans to use the panels also for other purposes that arise.

Finally, Councilman Nathan Brunnelson stated that drainage work at Sweetwater will occur during the next couple of weeks.

Tomato choice depends on flavor, perception

By RON DIETER
For The Weekly Post

If you're an average American, you eat nearly 100 pounds of tomatoes a year. You consume about 20 pounds of fresh tomatoes from the produce department and over 70 pounds from the canned and frozen goods section. That's around two bushels – a lot of tomatoes!

For kids, most of whom are "allergic" to fresh tomatoes, that's a lot of ketchup.

While we all agree that a fresh tomato from the home garden tastes best, each of us has our own idea of the perfect tomato flavor. I suppose that's why there are more than 10,000 varieties in cultivation today.

So what makes for the best tasting tomato? Is it the tomato's chemical composition that accounts for its flavor, or is it all in your head?

Well, it turns out it's both. Scientists at major universities are working hard to figure out tomato flavor and they're finding the whole thing pretty complicated. In the past few years, however, they've made some progress.

Over the years, as breeders targeted commercial traits such as shelf life, shipping tolerance, color and fruit size, some of the genes for flavor and aroma were lost. But now researchers at Boyce Thompson Institute and Cornell University have documented the entire genetic data from more than 700 cultivated and wild varieties.

In the process they found more than four thousand "new" genes, including one, TomLocC, that improves tomato flavor. This genetic data will help breeders develop flavor and other important traits such as productivity and disease resistance.

Meanwhile scientists at the University of Florida are working to understand the flavor components of the tomato. They're trying to figure out how the volatile chemicals from certain carotenoids, fatty acids, and amino acids work with the acids and sugars to produce good tomato flavor and aroma. Once they discover the perfect combination, the trick is to find the genes that will produce it. Then we'll have the perfect tasting tomato.

Simple as that – except not everybody will be happy. Because flavor depends on how we perceive it. A tomato's flavor is part taste and part aroma. Your taste buds detect the sugars and acids. The aroma is detected two ways, through your nose and in the nasal cavities above your palate as you chew and swallow. That's where the volatile compounds come into play.

The researchers discovered that aroma is the most important factor in a tomato's flavor. And they have learned that certain volatile compounds which occur in very low concentrations are way more important to flavor than others that occur in high amounts.

We each have our own preferences to certain tomato flavors. Some folks just don't like sweet tomatoes, like 'Super Sweet 100,' the cherry tomato which gets its sweetness in part from the TomLocC gene. They prefer a more "acid" flavor. So part of a tomato's flavor really is in our head, from both an olfactory and personal preference point of view.

The University of Florida scientists, in an effort to learn what people really liked, ran a taste test with panels of consumers sampling 40 varieties of heirloom and older hybrids. The best tasting one was Maglia Rosa Cherry. I never heard of it but I found it listed in Burpee's catalog, which says it tastes like ketchup. I don't know if that's meant as a compliment.

The worst tasting one was the University's own variety, FLA-8735, an experimental variety. Back to the drawing board. The old hybrid, 'Better Boy' ranked 9th out of the 40. It's an excellent tomato, worthy of its All-America Selection award.

I am intrigued by a special offer made by the University of Florida on its website. For a donation of $10 toward their research, they'll send you 15 seeds each of their three new hybrids. They claim these hybrids have the taste of heirloom tomatoes without the problems.

I'm going to send them $10 and give them a try next year. If you want to try them, google "Klee Lab" and click on "New Garden Cultivars."

Farmington opts for Pekin insurance provider

By BILL KNIGHT
For The Weekly Post

FARMINGTON – The Board of Education on Thursday narrowly renewed a $156,708 proposal for insurance coverage for 2020-21 from Pekin's Unland Companies, the current provider.

The 4-3 vote – with members Travis Mahr, Alex Slack and Eric Stanley against – was the choice over Prairie State Insurance Cooperative, whose proposal was $4,000 cheaper.

Representing Prairie State – Illinois' largest K-12 insurance pool, with 212 school districts including Galesburg, Knoxville, Lewistown and Valley – was Farmington agent Dan Kiesewetter, who said he was glad the quotes were similar but stressed other factors.

"It's about coverage and service, not prices – which are important, but not the only thing," Kiesewetter said.

During a lengthy discussion, Stanley said, "I like hometown stuff. We have a local agent for less money, or we can stay the course."

As far as coverage, he conceded that "it's hard to compare apples to apples" in the two proposals.

Board member Kelly Brewer said, "I'm not a huge fan of the unknown [and] I don't feel like I have the information I need to switch."

Superintendent Zac Chatterton and the Board's insurance committee of Kay Faralli and BJ Oldfield recommended Unland, whose president, Pat Taphorn, defended Unland's proposal as having "a competitive premium for the marketplace."

The Board in February started talking about testing the waters for insurance alternatives, but Board president Chad Johnson said they ran out of time and also faced paying more than $5,000 to an outside consultant to help define needs in order to better compare insurers' bids.

"It's an imperfect situation," Johnson said. But "it's too late to get bid specs down."

Chatterton added, "The process failed because you voted on something you're not comfortable with."

In other business, the Board unanimously approved spending $127,146 for new Chromebooks and supporting material.

Using federal funds from the CARES Act pandemic aid bill, the District is buying the 1-on-1 devices from New Jersey vendor SHI International via the Illinois Learning Technology program.

Also, "we have Google licensure, CaseLogic for cases, GoGuardian for the content filter, and Verizon for the hotspot," Chatterton said.

After a scheduled closed session, the Board OK'd hiring Clint Mathewson as Assistant Principal/Technology Integration Specialist effective July 1, and Kent Ulm as a vocational teacher and Jenny Kepler as an elementary teacher, both for the 2020-2021 school year.

Princeville concerts latest sign of normalcy

By JEFF LAMPE
Weekly Post Staff Writer

Slowly but surely, there are more and more indications that life is returning to some sense of normalcy here in central Illinois.

After months of COVID-19 lockdowns, retail stores have been able to open, much to the delight of shoppers and business owners.

The same has been true in the past few weeks for restaurants, which have turned to a wide variety of creative solutions to offer outdoor dining.

Even more of a relief was the reopening of hair salons and barbershops. Many a middle-aged man relived long-haired days of youth in recent months, while women relearned how to color their hair.

And while the much-awaited shift to Phase 4 of Gov. JB Pritzker's Illinois Restore program is still at least two weeks away, there are more indications that life is returning to reality.

Here are some.

• Music in the Square – The Lillie M. Evans Library District will be hosting its third annual free concert series in Princeville's Stevens Square on the last three Fridays in June.

Concerts start at 7 p.m. and, due to COVID-19 concerns, there will be no food or drink available at the Square this year. Please bring your own lawn chairs for your seating comfort or feel free to stay in your vehicle.

Music in the Square will feature the New Cats on June 12. The group fuses a mixture of high energy and up-tempo new and traditional bluegrass and folk music, along with a handful of their own finely crafted tunes. Band members encompass a wide mixture of music backgrounds from jazz to punk and each bring their own unique flavor to the bluegrass genre.

P.S. Jazz will perform on June 19, playing adult contemporary and jazz. This Peoria area group bills itself as "providing a pleasurable listening experience that's easy on the ears and just right for whatever mood."

The Aristocrats will conclude the series on June 26. The Aristocrats are an eight-piece band playing all of the Big Band favorites of yesterday and today. The Band has a repertoire of arrangements made famous by the big bands of the 1930s, 1940s, and 1950s and is supplemented with contemporary jazz and popular tunes.

Steven's Square is located on the corner of West Evans Street and Illinois Route 91 in Princeville. In case of inclement weather, the concert will be cancelled. Learn more at lmelibrary.org.

• COVID-19 cases down – The latest totals on COVID-19 cases in Illinois are encouraging because they do not show a spike in cases despite the Phase 3 reopening underway.

Statewide, the Illinois Department of Public Health on Tuesday reported 658 new cases and 23 deaths. But statewide positivity for cases is holding steady at 5 percent from June 1-7.

• Business resource – The Greater Peoria Business Recovery Program, serving Peoria, Tazewell, Woodford, Mason and Logan Counties is a joint collaboration of over 25 local Economic Development Organizations, Chambers of Commerce, and Community-Based Organizations that was created to accomplish two goals:

1. To connect local businesses to local professionals who can help them on the road to recovery from the COVID19 crisis.

2. To help assess the economic health of our region by identifying industry trends and risks to drive our local recovery efforts.

The BRP is free for business and, within 48 hours of submitting a profile, participating businesses will be connected with a local contact to help meet their pressing needs. To learn more, visit www.gpcovid.com or contact Brent Baker at bbaker@greaterpeoriaedc.org.

Princeville State Bank PPP loans top $10 million

Princeville State Bank has processed more than 210 loans totaling nearly $10 million under the Small Business Administration's Paycheck Protection Program (PPP). This has helped local small businesses support payroll and related costs, saving over 2,000 jobs within the Princeville, Brimfield and Peoria areas, the bank says.

The PPP, which was originally launched on April 3 to address economic challenges caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, provides forgivable, government-guaranteed loans for small businesses, which account for roughly 48 percent of the U.S. workforce.

"As a community bank we work hard every day to meet the needs of our customers and potential customers alike," said Jennifer Wahl, Vice President and Branch Manager at Princeville State Bank. "As we continue to fund these loans we can feel a sense of relief from our customers."

In addition, through a partnership with the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago PSB is providing $20,000 in grants to over 40 area businesses and organizations. Grant recipients were chosen by Princeville State Bank's staff members and directors and will be recognized during the next several weeks on Princeville State Bank's social media outlets.

CHILD CARE: Providers squeezed by lower enrollment, higher costs

them deal with losses tied to the pandemic's shutdowns and increasing costs for child-care providers.

Providers are squeezed between lower enrollment and higher costs associated with smaller classes and greater costs for safety measures, from masks, social distancing and handwashing to shields, sanitizing and overall cleaning supplies.

"Some regulations are unrealistic, like having masks on kids unless they're eating, napping or outside," says Trish Hecox, president of Little Farmers Early Learning Center in Farmington. "We're trying to do our best."

In Washington, House Democrats introduced the Child Care is Essential Act providing $50 billion to help providers' expenses. Prospects for passage are unclear, but there's some general bipartisan backing for aid. Two Republican Senators, Joni Ernst of Iowa and Kelly Loeffler of Georgia, have called for the next pandemic relief package to include $25 billion for the child-care industry.

"Help always would be good," says Hecox – whose center stayed open during the shutdown under an emergency license and received $25,000 in federal funds administered by the state and the City of Farmington.

Little Farmers was permitted to care for about 15 kids during the shutdown. On June 1, Hecox reopened under her regular license (for 54 children). Under restrictions, she can accommodate 43; she has about 30.

"They're starting to come back, but I lost some," she says.

Nationally, the child-care sector had usually served some 12 million children younger than 6 years old, most of whom go to private homes licensed and regulated to care for kids.

The industry was already financially fragile, mostly relying on private tuitions.

"Child-care providers survive on thin margins and the coronavirus economic crisis squeezes them between falling demand and increased difficulty delivering services," said University of Minnesota economist Aaron Sojourner. "Each failed care provider can directly prevent many workers' return to employment."

During the shutdown, one-third of families had someone stay with kids home from closed schools, according to the Urban Institute. Both parents work in many households, and many are eager to return to work but are concerned about dropping off kids to places that spread germs.

Even if parents' confidence returns, that $50 billion may not be enough.

"Our estimates show that $50 billion is actually far less than what the system needs if the crisis lasts longer than a few months," said Rebecca Ullrich, an analyst at the Center for Law and Social Policy (CLASP).

In Illinois alone, $1,697,364,717 is needed to weather the crisis, CLASP says.

Already, about half of child-care providers are closed, according to the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC), and some 4.5 million American kids could lose the service, reports the Center for American Progress. That's contributed to the sector losing 355,000 jobs in March and April – one third of its work force.

East of Kickapoo, Jill Becker of Peter Rabbit Daycare said, "I'm losing a lot of money monthly."

Peter Rabbit closed during the shutdown and, though it's licensed for 50 children, it currently serves about half that.

The CARES Act in March set aside $3.5 billion through the Child Care and Development Block Grant program (CCDBG), but it's been slow to reach providers.

In Elmwood, Brittania Hulslander said because of federal assistance, "I was just approved for unemployment even though I'm self-employed." However, she's down to one family though she's licensed to care for more.

U.S. Rep. Darin LaHood (R-Peoria) seems sympathetic. Last year he sponsored the Improving Access to Child Care Act, which was referred to committee, and he still sees a need.

"Ensuring that families have access to child care is critical to getting folks back to work and putting our economy back on track," he told The Weekly Post. "COVID-19 has shuttered the doors of child-care facilities, and with workers beginning to return to work, unprecedented measures will need to be taken to keep children healthy."

U.S. Rep. Cheri Bustos (D-Moline) was an original co-sponsor of the Child Care is Essential Act.

"Many of our essential workers and those on the front lines of the pandemic rely on child-care services, and it is vital we invest in them to help families get through this crisis," Bustos told The Weekly Post. "The Child Care is Essential Act [will] support providers everywhere – including in our small towns, where the loss of one provider can have a huge impact on the entire community. This legislation will help providers meet overhead costs, keep employees on payroll, provide payment relief to families and safely reopen as they work to remain afloat."

Billtown board OK's draft plan for fall restart

By JEFF LAMPE
Weekly Post Staff Writer

WILLIAMSFIELD – The Williamsfield School Board approved a draft plan for the resumption of school this fall in case students are able to return to the school building.

The plan, modeled after one used by JEFFCO Public Schools in Golden, Colo., lays out possible schooling options – with an understanding that scenarios could change depending on the status of the COVID-19 pandemic in Illinois.

The plan would provide remote learning options for all students, but would also offer optional hybrid learning if the school building can be opened. Social distancing is a key part of hybrid learning, which would feature dividing students into two groups with alternating in-person schedules at school.

Under the hybrid learning option, students would be screened for temperature upon entering the school or district buses. The use of face coverings would be dependent on Illinois Department of Public Health recommendations at that time.

Social distancing of at least six feet would be required in school and would also be required if students ride district buses.

Superintendent Tim Farquer said a staff working group will finalize plan details to bring to the board in July for formal approval.

The board also approved opening outside athletic facilities for high school students to do conditioning and for third-party use, pending certain requirements. No more than 10 people are allowed on school grounds at a time, 6 feet of social distancing is required, temperature screening must occur and shared equipment must be sanitized after each use.

In other business, the board approved an amended Fiscal Year 2020 budget that added $875,000 to the Fire/Life Safety Contract Services line item and increased budgeted costs for worker compensation insurance from $29,000 to $36,500 and upped insurance premiums from $30,000 to $37,250.

In other action, the board:

• Approved a Fiscal Year 2021 power purchase agreement with IEC/Nextera for the electricity produced by the district's solar panels, which should be operational soon.

• Approved the hire of Jason Danner as a full-time teacher.

• Approved declaring the school's 2008 Chevy Uplander a surplus item.

• Accepted Pam Courson's letter of intent to retire June 30, 2021.

• Approved Advanced Plumbing to replacement the kitchen sanitary pipe at amount not to exceed $28,654.

• Approved a Fiscal Year 2021 salary freeze for Farquer.

• Heard that a $52,194 allocation from the federal CARES Act will be used on safety/sanitation and technology to support remote learning.

OBITUARIES

Wayne K. Callister

ELMWOOD – Wayne K. Callister, 86, of rural Elmwood, passed away at 7:25 a.m., on Saturday, June 6, 2020, at his home surrounded by his family.

He was born March 27, 1934, in Brimfield Township to Homer and Mable (White) Callister. He married Joey VanSickle on July 3, 1955, at the Elmwood United Methodist Church. She preceded him in death on Sept. 22, 2016.

Callister

He is survived by six children, Rebecca (Roland) Caulkins of Brimfield, Greg (Verleen) Callister of Albuquerque, N.M., Connie (Chuck) Johnston of Elmwood, Debra (Joe) Gasparovich of Canton, Janet (Mike) Davis of Eureka, and John Callister of Elmwood; niece, Kim Ohls of Pekin; 22 grandchildren; 26 great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

He was also preceded in death by his parents; and five sisters, Jeanie Martzluf, Thelma Richmond, Donna Nelson, Darlene Mae and Arlene Faye.

Wayne attended the one-room schoolhouse down the road from his family's farm, which has been in the Callister name for over 150 years. After high school, he attended Bradley University. Upon graduation, he joined the U.S. Army where he served honorably. He was also a Mason serving at the Horeb Lodge and Knights of Columbus. Wayne was a devout Christian who used his love of story-telling to spread the love of Jesus.

He had a way with words always marking a special occasion with a poem. You could often find Wayne behind the wheel of the "Wayne-abago" RV creating memories to last a lifetime with his children he loved dearly.

Wayne was the family patriarch, quietly overseeing all gatherings. As a lifelong farmer, he was very active in keeping the farm and homestead up and running. He also worked at the local seed company for 29 years. He spent his free time exercising his mind with puzzles, word games, and crosswords. He loved his family, which gave him strength up until his last breath.

A graveside service will be held with immediate family only at Elmwood Township Cemetery. A Celebration of Life will be held at the family farm at a later date.

Memorials may be made to Elmwood Fire Department, the Elmwood United Methodist Church, and the local Masonic Horeb Lodge.

Dear Friends,
There are no words to describe my heartfelt gratitude for all the prayers offered for my family and me as I prepared for surgery and a bend in my life's journey. I have been told that prayers continue to circle the globe as many of you continue to pray for me. I can personally attest to the power of your prayers and I am eternally grateful. As an expression of gratitude to all the people who have blessed me with beautiful cards, kind words, wonderful gifts, continued support, and above all prayer. My husband Harry and I are giving a donation in your honor to the Midwest Food Bank, which provides food to many local food banks and to The New 2 You Shop.
May the Peace of the Lord be with you always!
Sincerely in His Love, Bonnie McFall

Elmwood District 322 plans a "gift" of a remodeled Junior High School, but it may become a Christmas present, as the Board of Education at an emergency meeting voted to severe its contract with its construction manager. The $1.5 million project slated to be done before students return to school in August won't be finished until December.

Brimfield-Elmwood punched its ticket to the Class 2A state championship softball game by outlasting Kankakeee Bishop McNamara with four runs in the top of the seventh. That late scoring, coupled with Morgan Floorey's 17-strikeout performance, sealed a 4-0 victory for the Lady Indians. Nashville topped B-E in the title game, 1-0.

Ideal weather attracted large crowds to Elmwood's Strawberry Festival, so many that the food tent ran out of almost every food.

Dr. R. P. Grimm and Joseph V. Toohill leased the second floor of the Anderson building at the corner of Fort and East Streets in Farmington and were to move there as soon as the rooms were redecorated.

Miss Eleanor Matthews delivered the valedictory address at Princeville High School commencement, and Miss Ruth Ricketts delivered the salutatory address.

IHSA announces 'Return to Play Guidelines'

The Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Board of Directors has approved Return to Play Guidelines developed within the current structure of Gov. JB Pritzker's Restore Illinois plan that provide the first step in IHSA student-athletes returning to participation.

The Return to Play Guidelines are aimed at student-athlete acclimatization and general physical fitness, and will not include any skill of sport training elements.

Students are limited to three hours per day of participation, must practice social distancing of at least 6 feet or wear masks if that is not possible. Sessions can include only weightlifting, running and exercises designed to promote physical fitness. Locker rooms, shared water coolers and water fountains should not be used.

The guidelines were developed by the IHSA Sports Medicine Advisory Committee (SMAC) and have been approved by the Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH).

"I commend the IHSA SMAC for crafting a plan that fits within the framework provided by state leadership, and refuses to compromise safety," said IHSA Executive Director Craig Anderson. "The IHSA Return to Play Guidelines offer some important first steps in allowing student-athletes to reacclimate both physically and mentally to athletics, but more importantly, they allow each school to assess their own individual situation and determine if and when they want to proceed."

An IHSA member high school may not conduct workouts under the Return to Play Guidelines unless they have local school district approval, and are located in a Health Region that is currently in Phase 3 (or better) under the Governor's Restore Illinois plan.

The IHSA's guidelines will remain in place until the IHSA or Illinois Department of Health announce further guidelines.

MARK BAYLOR, M.D. MOVING MEDICAL PRACTICE TO OSF HEALTHCARE

To the Patients of Dr. Mark Baylor, M.D.:

I am pleased to announce that effective July 12, 2020, I will be joining OSF HealthCare. My new practice will be through OSF Medical Group – Primary Care, located at 111 East Knoxville Street, Brimfield, Illinois 61517, and the phone number will be (309) 446-3305. I plan to see patients in my new office on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 8 a.m. – 5 p.m. beginning July 14, 2020. I will continue to see patients at my current office, located at 120 West Main Street, in Elmwood, Illinois, through July 10, 2020.

I look forward to continuing to provide personal and quality care to the community and the patients I serve as a part of OSF HealthCare. Insurance companies and networks with whom my current practice has relationships are being notified about this change. It will be important for my patients to check with their insurance carrier before the next appointment to confirm insurance coverage as a patient of OSF HealthCare.

With respect to appointments after July 10, 2020, OSF HealthCare will call to reschedule the appointments with me at OSF Medical Group – Primary Care. After June 29, 2020, future appointments may be scheduled through the Brimfield office.

Patients who do not want a copy of their medical records to be transferred to OSF HealthCare should contact me prior to September 13, 2020. Unless I am advised to the contrary by such date, my patients' medical records will be transferred to OSF HealthCare. In the meantime, patients may contact my current office in Elmwood or call (309) 742-2921 to request a copy of their medical records. After September 12, 2020, my patients should contact the OSF HealthCare Medical Record Department at https://www.osfhealthcare.org/osf/forms/request-your-medical-record/ to obtain a copy of their medical records.

I am excited to join my practice with OSF HealthCare, and I am thrilled to continue to provide the highest quality care available within our community. It is inspiring to share with my patients all the new resources through OSF HealthCare.

Respectfully,
Mark Baylor, MD

Willie and Ernie both bash homers & Lou steals one in debut

By BILL KNIGHT
For The Weekly Post

The Major League Baseball Players Association and franchise owners are still bargaining over how and when to open a shortened season this summer. The latest talks are about the players' proposal to accept prorated salaries as agreed in March and play 50 games plus an expanded playoff system.

Meanwhile, sports history remains worth appreciating.

St. Louis Cardinals

• June 16, 1964: In a 7-1 victory over the Astros, Cardinal third baseman Ken Boyer hits for the cycle, and Lou Brock – recently obtained from the Cubs for pitcher Ernie Broglio – debut in a St. Louis uniform with two hits, including a triple, and a stolen base.

Chicago Cubs

• June 13, 1984: The Indians trade Rick Sutcliffe, George Frazier and Ron Hassey to the Cubs for Joe Carter, Mel Hall, Don Schulze and minor leaguer Darryl Banks. The 28-year-old right-hander will post a 16-1 record for Chicago, lead the Cubs to the National League East pennant, and will win the N.L. Cy Young Award.

• June 17, 1970: For is the first time in baseball history, two players with 500 career home runs go deep in the same game as Ernie Banks (504) and Willie Mays (615) hit round-trippers in the Cubs' 6-1 victory over the Giants at Candlestick Park.

On June 17, 1970, both Willie Mays (left) and Ernie Banks hit home runs in a 6-1 Chicago Cubs win at Candlestick Park, It was the first time in baseball history that two players with 500 career homers had four-baggers in the same game.

• June 17, 1971: Don Kessinger goes 6-for-6, stroking five singles and a double. The Cubs leadoff hitter's perfect performance at the plate contributes to the team's 7-6, 10-inning victory over the Cardinals at Wrigley Field.

Chicago White Sox

• June 13, 1957: At Comiskey Park, an ugly brawl is sparked when Yankees hurler Art Ditmar pitches behind Larry Doby's head. Doby punches the Yankee right-hander, and Sox first baseman Walt Dropo and Yankees Billy Martin, Bill Skowron and Enos Slaughter all take part in the melee.

Elsewhere in Sports

• June 14, 1998: The Chicago Bulls win their sixth NBA title in eight years when they beat the Utah Jazz, 87-86, in Game Six – Michael Jordan's last game as a Bull.

• June 14, 1975: Chris Evert beats Martina Navratilova 2-6, 6-2, 6-1 for her second of seven French Open singles titles.

• June 15, 1951: Prizefighter Joe Louis scores his last knockout victory.

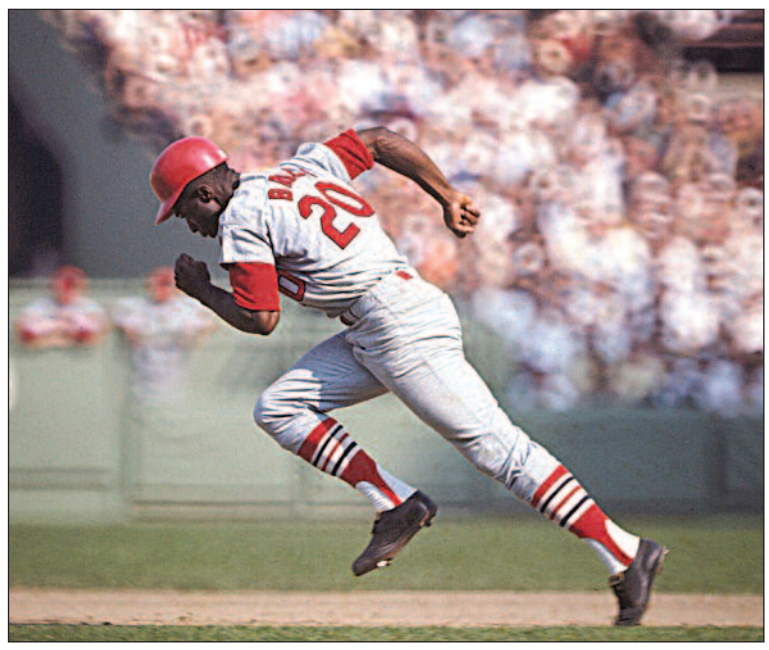
The U.S. Open win was the first of Trevino's six major titles. He finished four strokes ahead of runner-up Jack Nicklaus.



Lou Brock made his St. Louis Cardinals debut on June 16, 1964, with two hits, including a triple, and a stolen base. Brock played 16 years for St. Louis and in that time hit .297 with 888 stolen bases.

For his win, Trevino won a reported $30,000 in prize money.

• June 17, 1994: FIFA's World Cup soccer competition begins in the United States at nine venues across the country.

The total attendance of nearly 3.6 million for the final tournament remains the highest in World Cup history, despite the later expansion of the competition from 24 to 32 teams (and from 52 to 64 games), which was first introduced at the 1998 World Cup and is the current format.

Brazil won the World Cup, beating Italy, 3-2, in a penalty shoot-out at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

Lee Trevino won the first of his six major titles on June 16, 1968, at the U.S. Open. He became the first golfer to play all four rounds of the U.S. Open under par.
