Busy Saturday for Christmas events around area

By JEFF LAMPE
For The Weekly Post

Santa Claus is going to be busy this weekend, as the jolly fat man will be making appearances Saturday in Brimfield, Elmwood and Farmington.

Yes, it's Christmas Walk weekend across the area, with business and organizers decking the halls in three local communities. Here's a look at the particulars for each.

- Farmington – The second

WinterFest returns with activities from noon to 6 p.m. downtown after being sidelined last winter during the pandemic. The larger event replaces the traditional Santa Parade typically held in one evening.

“We’ve tried to turn it into more of a whole-town event, where we are having activities during the day and finish with a parade at night,” said Cassandra Anderson of SoVia Home & Creative Designs, who has helped organize WinterFest. “We’re just trying to make it more of an event for all ages and abilities.”

Activities will be focused in three areas: downtown centered around the greenspace, at the Fire Department, where Santa Claus will appear from 2-4 p.m. along with sheep (courtesy of local 4H students) and readings of Christmas books; and at the YMCA where M&K Inflatables will be featured. A horse-drawn carriage and wagon will move between the locations.

The greenspace will be home to contests for ugly sweaters, best gingerbread house and singing (five age groups). There will also be a DJ and live band Linzie Borden (from 1-2 p.m.). Sign up for the contests on Facebook, where you can also see a map and more details.

The parade starts at 5 p.m. and is followed by a tree lighting at Reed Park at 5:30.

- Brimfield – The Area Christmas Walk here is from 5-7 p.m. and features food, hot chocolate, wagon rides, deals at local businesses and more.

Blaze claims another bar in Farmington

By JEFF LAMPE
For The Weekly Post

FARMINGTON – For the second night in less than a week, a Farmington bar and restaurant was declared a total loss after being engulfed by fire.

The latest casualty was Asher's Bar and Grille at 36 E. Fort St. A fire was reported at 9:19 p.m. Thanksgiving Day and crews from 18 fire departments worked to get the blaze under control later that evening, though not before the structure was badly damaged.

“There is some pretty significant structural damage and water damage throughout the whole building,” said Mike Watters, Farmington Fire Chief. “It appears it started in the kitchen.”

Watters said the state fire marshal was on hand last week to investigate, as were various insurance adjustors.

This is the second fire in four days in downtown Farmington, following a Nov. 22 blaze that started in Whiskey Dixie's and tall-tailed that bar and the Parkside

Owls arriving

Prime time for short-eared owls is winter in strip-mine grasslands

By GRETCHEN STEELE
For The Weekly Post

Short-eared owls are once again arriving to winter in the tall grass of reclaimed strip mines and prairies of Illinois. Depending on locality, short-eared owls are also called Marsh Owl, Grass Owl, Flat-Faced Owl and Bog Owl.

These relatively small, diurnal owls are best viewed at dawn and dusk as they soar over open grasslands looking for their favorite food, voles.

The short-eared owl is specially equipped to hunt and survive on the prairie. It survives in that grassy landscape by hunting from a hover and building a nest on the ground – the only Illinois owl that nests on the ground.

Likely among the most numerous owl species before human settlement and agricultural practices began to destroy their habitat, short-eared owls are now an Illinois state-endangered species.

However, the rolling, open grassland and tall grass hills of reclaimed strip mines provide excellent habitat for them. Once located, it's not unusual to find small groups of short eared owls wintering ac-

Barnyard Discoveries will have farm animals on display throughout the evening and the Brimfield Fire Department will offer food from 4:30-6:30 p.m.

The evening wraps up with a community Christmas sing at 6:45 near Village Hall featuring the Brimfield High School Choir.

Santa will visit Elm Haven Place and there will be free carriage rides around Central Park.

To make the city more festive, there is a home decorating contest underway. To enter, email a picture of your home to adavis.elmwoodil@gmail.com by noon on Dec. 4.

Local artisans will take part in a pop-up shop behind Elmwood Insur-

A brass quartet will play at Morrison & Mary Wiley Library and the Elmwood Historical Society’s collection of dioramas made by Lorado Taft will be open for visitors at 102 E. Main St.

FIRE: Only smoke and water damage to neighbors

Deli & Diner.

Watters said there was concern that the fire at Asher’s could do significant damage to neighboring buildings in that downtown block, but he said the only damage was from smoke and water to neighboring buildings.

“Our guys worked hard and did a good job and kept it to the building of origin,” Watters said.

A firefighter from the Buckheart Fire Department in St. David was taken from the scene by ambulance as a precaution, but was released later that evening with a “minor ankle sprain,” according to Watters.

As for Asher’s, operator Russell Spencer said the fire was the latest chapter in a long line of challenges he has faced since opening.

“We opened in 2020 when COVID hit and had to go right to curbside pickup,” Spencer said. “If it could happen, it happened to us in a year.”

Spencer said he would like to open another bar/restaurant, but is uncertain about the future of the building, owned by Gary Maness.

“We may try to look for something else in town,” Spencer said.

Watters said there was no new information regarding the other fire at Whiskey Dixie’s.

Things I learned about second-hand stores

Here’s a quiz for you. What is an acceptable clothes donation to a second-hand store?

A. An in-season top in like-new condition.

B. Strips of underwear used for paint rags.

C. A sweater in June.

D. Shirts with stains, holes and missing buttons.

E. A tub full of like-new clothing but also home to countless stink-bugs.

F. All of the above.

Lori HEROLD

I trust there’s no need to put the answer upside down at the end of this column.

Shortly after moving to Brimfield, I started volunteering for a second-hand store in Peoria. Having never worked in retail, I have received an education, at least on the clothing side of second-hand retail. And in case you’re wondering, I have seen all the above come through the store.

One misconception of mine before volunteering was that it’s not good to shop in these places because those items should be available for people with less financial resources. But I have learned a $5 item is the same for a person whose finances are tight and those who have a lot to spend. It’s a win-win for the shopper as well as the store that wants to move goods and make a profit.

Volunteering in a store that receives donations is a bit like Christmas. I open bags and boxes hoping for “treasure” inside to offer to shoppers who are delighted with their finds. Sometimes, it’s even me. My perspective on clothes has changed as I have seen the store sell fashionable, attractive clothing for significantly less than what you’d find in new retail stores. Even designer labels.

Not everything is “treasure.” The place I volunteer has an overflow system for clothes not put on the floor. These are moved to another destination. Probably over half the clothing is overflowed in this way. Though there is some satisfaction that the clothes aren’t being thrown out, store management wants items to put on the floor. So, here are tips for donating clothes.

1. Don’t donate clothes that have a flaw. Clothes with holes, broken zippers, stains and missing buttons are not put on the floor. Unless you want to do some repair, throw out those clothes. It’s OK, really.

2. Believe it or not, no one wants your paint clothes. Throw them out.

3. Our store takes underwear and socks, but only if they look so good we wonder if they have been worn.

4. Please, please wash clothes before donating. We do not have washing machines and even if we did, we would wash away any profit with the time it takes and the cost of detergent. It is disappointing to overflow clothes that would have sold if not for a little dirt, unpleasant odor or pet hair.

5. Like regular retail stores, we put in-season clothes on the racks. We can’t store many out-of-season clothes because of limited storage facilities. So hang onto those until it’s the right time of year to donate.

6. It’s also perfectly acceptable to throw out clothes from another era. They won’t sell so we don’t put them out. Chances are, as precious as some clothes were to Grandma, they won’t be desirable for shoppers today.

7. If someone isn’t available to help you at the donation door, don’t leave the donation outside. Sadly, there are people who steal what’s there.

Finally, I think I speak for all second-hand stores by saying “thank you” for donating your nice in-season duds. Chances are, you will make someone happy who knows they got a good deal and help the profit margin of one of our local businesses.

Use de-icers wisely to aid plants, pavement

By RON DIETER
For The Weekly Post

Well, here it is, the beginning of December and we haven't had to contend with any significant snow or ice. I'm not complaining, although it wouldn't hurt our gardens to have some more moisture, in rain-drop form please, before the ground freezes. I just checked the long-range forecast for December and it shows no snow or rain until mid-month. We'll see.

Nevertheless, some snow and ice is inevitable and that means we'll be reaching for the shovel and the salt. When Mother Nature blesses us with just an inch or so of snow, we might be tempted to sprinkle some deicer on the walks and driveway to melt the snow away. However, it's much better for nearby shrubs and perennials, as well as the creeks and rivers downstream, to use a leaf blower, shovel or broom instead. Your concrete driveway and walks will be better off too.

The most common de-icer used by homeowners is rock salt, sodium chloride. While it's pretty good at melting away ice, it's also pretty good at corroding metal railings and breaking up concrete surfaces.

Although rock salt is the least expensive de-icing compound, it's also the most damaging. Sodium chloride reduces the freezing point of water by about 7 degrees. Water from the melted ice then flows into the pores of the concrete. If the temperature then drops below 25 degrees before the sidewalk dries out, the water in the pores freezes again. Since water expands as it freezes, the concrete breaks up and the surface of the walk begins to flake away.

There are other chemical compounds, such as potassium chloride, magnesium chloride and calcium magnesium acetate, that lower the freezing point much more and thus are less damaging to porous surfaces. Calcium chloride is most effective. It drops the freezing point to minus 25 degrees. And because it generates heat, it works quickly to melt ice.

All the chemicals I've mentioned are corrosive and damaging to the environment. So how can you protect your plants and hardscapes and still keep from falling on your keister? The answer is to use these de-icers, but use them correctly.

Don't use de-icers to melt snow. Remove the snow from walks and drives and then apply deicer. If you put down deicer just before the storm arrives, it will help prevent the ice from sticking and may reduce the amount of compound needed.

Use just enough to do the job. More is not better. The University of Minnesota says that a 12-ounce coffee mug of de-icer is enough to do 1,000 square feet of walks and driveway. Spread it as evenly as possible with grains of de-icer about three inches apart. Avoid spilling and leaving little piles on the surface.

On level pavements you might consider using sand, kitty litter or even sawdust to give you some grip. They're better for the environment but, of course, they won't melt the ice.

To protect nearby shrubs and perennials, avoid shoveling salt-laden snow on them. The de-icing compounds that do not contain sodium are less harmful to landscape plants and therefore worth the extra expense. If you live along a roadway on which de-icing compounds are used, trees and shrubs, particularly evergreens, can be damaged by the salt spray thrown up by passing traffic. About the only way you can prevent that kind of injury is by wrapping those plants with burlap or frost cover.

When installing landscape plants near walks and drives, keep them at least three feet away to minimize salt damage. Do a little research to find plants that are salt tolerant. The University of Wisconsin has a good list of salt-tolerant plants in its publication A3877.

Climate scientists tell us that in a few years snow and ice will be the least of our worries. In the meantime, keep that snow shovel handy.

Peoria Co. Farm Bureau honors two

PEORIA – Jennifer Glover was presented the 2021 Peoria County Farm Bureau Ag Service Award at the Farm Bureau’s annual meeting held Nov. 13 at the ITOO Hall in Peoria.

The award was created in 1996 and each year since then an individual has been recognized for their service to agriculture. Marty Behrends, 2020 Peoria County Farm Bureau Ag Service Award recipient, presented Glover with her award.

Glover is the current Peoria County Farm Bureau Ag Coordinator and has led the program forward with the ultimate goal of creating a platform to teach Peoria County students about the agriculture industry.

Glover was born and raised on what is now a fifth generation farm in Tina, Mo. Her family farm is incredibly diverse – with row crops and a multitude of animals. From a young age she helped in the dog kennel where they raised many different AKC registered breeds; spent countless hours in the horse barn; and working with hogs and cattle was another part of her daily farm life.

Glover was active in FFA at Tina-Avalon High School, and during her senior year she was FFA President, Secretary for the Missouri Area 2 FFA Chapter and participated in the FFA National Leadership Conference in Washington, D.C.

Her agricultural focus continued during her transition into college and in 2000, she graduated from the University of Missouri with a Bachelor’s of Science Degree in Agriculture Education earning Summa Cum Laude Honors (4.0 GPA).

Jennifer has dedicated her life to agriculture and education. She has been licensed to teach in three states and continuously finds new ways to learn and grow as an educator and a person. In addition to agricultural classes, she has taught preschool and junior high science classes.

Nicholas Pullen was named 2021 Volunteer Emergency Service Provider. He serves as a Firefighter/EMT and volunteer with the Dunlap Community Fire Protection District. protection district, Nicolas is part of a multi-generational farm family that owns and operates Walnut Springs Family Farm in Dunlap. He shares the importance of training for agricultural emergencies such as grain bin rescues and accidents involving farming equipment.

OWLS: Northern harriers found in same habitat

ross southern Illinois “strip pits” and central Illinois prairies and grasslands. They are active for a short time each day, usually at dusk and dawn. Their fluttering, almost butterfly-like flight can identify them. Despite their seemingly small size, they display a sizeable graceful wingspan, and their flight pattern includes a butterfly-like wing movement combined with soaring and diving over the fields. With good binoculars or a keen eye, one can also spot them “roosting” on fence posts, sturdy weeds, or simply sitting in the grass and open fields enjoying a meal. Another indicator that Short-eared owls may be close by is the presence of the northern harrier or marsh hawk. Short-eared owls often roost with their counterpart, the northern harrier, also an Illinois endangered species. Decent numbers of northern harriers can also be found in reclaimed strip mine areas, where it’s not unusual to see both birds soaring over the fields together and even engaging in the occasional skirmish over prey. It’s often easy to view the owls from the roadway or the warmth of a vehicle. And the use of good binoculars or a spotting scope can provide you with many enjoyable viewing moments without the worry of straying onto closed refuge ground or disturbing a hunter. Staying in your vehicle also makes a very useful photo blind and is less disturbing to the endangered species. Unfortunately, we have learned that short-eared owls that have been subjected to high traffic and disturbance by people often will not return to that particular roost and feeding site the following winter. They are pretty shy little birds that aren’t comfortable with a large amount of disruption. Keep that in mind if you plan a trip to visit and view short-eared owls this winter.

Stabbing, shooting in rural Farmington

FARMINGTON – Two men remain hospitalized after a shooting and stabbing apparently occurred Saturday in a residence south of town.

“We are still waiting to do interviews with the people since they are still in the hospital,” Fulton County Sheriff Jeff Standard said Tuesday. “And we’re not releasing any names based on the medical information.”

Fulton County Sheriff’s deputies responded to the scene at 1:47 a.m. and found two males, one with a gunshot wound, the other with a stab wound.

Standard said the men were first taken to Graham Hospital in Canton and then traveled via OSF Life Flight to OSF Saint Francis Medical Center in Peoria.

Multiple other agencies were involved, including the Canton Police Department, Farmington Police Department, Illinois State Police, Farmington Fire and Fulton EMA.

Police reports

• ELMWOOD – Elmwood police were dispatched to OSF St. Francis Hospital to take a statement from a woman who said she was battered by her boyfriend at a residence in the 600 block of W. Dearborn St. in Elmwood, according to a police report. The woman said that upon waking at 6 p.m. on Nov. 28, Randall W. Coryall, 22, of Peoria was angry she didn’t have dinner ready. She said that after Coryall pushed her down to a sitting position three times, she pushed him back. At that point, she said Coryall attacked her, causing her head to hit the floor or the wall. When she came to after being unconscious, the left side of her body was numb. Her family then took her to the hospital.

The woman told police incidents like this have been happening over the last year, but she hadn’t reported them. She also claimed Coryall’s abuse included threats to “strangle” her.

Coryall was taken into custody by Peoria County Sheriff’s deputies on charges of aggravated domestic battery and domestic battery. He was transported to Peoria County Jail.

• FARMINGTON – A reckless driving complaint resulted in a traffic stop at County Market on Nov. 13, according to a Farmington police report. Dorothy Roach, 47, of Glasford was charged with DUI alcohol, illegal transportation of alcohol and operating an uninsured vehicle. Her vehicle was towed.

• FARMINGTON – Charles Beard, 48, of Peoria was contacted inside Benny’s Corner Bar and Grill on Nov. 21 regarding an active Fulton County warrant, according to a Farmington police report. He posted bond relating to a failure to appear in court on a charge of reckless driving.

• FARMINGTON – Jason Chrestenson, 18, of Hanna City was stopped by police on Nov. 22 around 12:45p.m. for having no front license plate on his car, according to a Farmington police report. He was also charged with driving on a suspended license and operating a vehicle with expired registration. He was released with a court date.

• FARMINGTON – Farmington police reported two incidents of criminal damage to property on Nov. 27, according to a Farmington police report. One report was of damage to the front corner of a house in the 100 block of N. Pleasant St., where an obscenity was spray painted. The other took place in the 300 block of W. Court St., where obscene artwork was spray painted on the door of a vehicle.

• FARMINGTON – Police followed a vehicle at approximately 4:30 a.m. on Nov. 28 that was veering over lane lines resulting in a traffic stop, according to a Farmington police report. Isaihah Tenarvitz, 22, of Canton admitted he was returning home from a Farmington Road bar and had been drinking. He also admitted to possessing cannabis. He was charged with DUI alcohol and possession of adult use cannabis in a vehicle. His vehicle was towed. He was taken home and given a notice to appear in court.

Peoria Co. board OKs new district maps

PEORIA – The Peoria County Board approved a new map of its 18 districts on Tuesday afternoon, reflecting the changes in population from 2020 census data.

Printable and interactive maps are posted online at www.peoria-county.org/redistricting.

Districts will officially change with the next general election in November 2022. Those running for County Board in the June 2022 primary will be running to represent these new districts.

The 2020 population of Peoria County is 181,830. Each of the 18 districts encompasses roughly 10,000 people. The approved map was built using census block data and took into account population shifts, demographics, and jurisdictional boundaries of local entities (such as cities and townships).

Evans Mill Road bridge repair completed

Evans Mill Road, just south of Legion Hall Road, reopened Monday to traffic after being closed for a bridge replacement since June.

The Central Illinois Ghostbusters visited Elmwood's Palace Theatre on Nov. 26 prior to the showing of the new "Ghostbusters: Afterlife" movie. The new Ghostbusters film is still showing at the Palace through Sunday, Dec. 5. Photo by Shelly Brodine.

This type of bridge project was a first for Peoria County and the Illinois Department of Transportation, as it used precast concrete tub girders sections and ultra-high-performance concrete at the joints to bind the sections together. The unique joint concrete mix includes steel fibers. The fibers are designed to make the material stronger and less porous to eliminate water seepage. Plus, it is supposed to keep cracks that form from growing.

Et cetera

- The Prairie Wind Ensemble will present "A Holiday Pops Concert" on Dec. 12 at 4 p.m. in the Caterpillar Performing Arts Center in Five Points Washington.

GIRLS BASKETBALL: Brimfield improves to 6-0

Glenn had three 3-pointers against Tremont to lead with 11 points, Herman added 10 and Meyers tallied 8 for Elmwood.

Against Kewanee, Herman scored 16, Meyers put up 14 and Glenn had 9 as Elmwood led 17-6 after one quarter and 30-8 at halftime.

“We played pretty well and got off to a quick start, so that went pretty well,” Coach Meyers said. “We got a lot of people playing time, so that was good all around.”

Elmwood is back in action today at Oneida against ROWVA-Williamsfield.

Brimfield
Brimfield improved to 6-0 with another easy win, this time topping Peoria Heights/Quest, 59-22, as Ella Lune scored 24 points and Elly Doe added 13.

On Saturday in its final game of the Turkey Tournament, Brimfield topped Midwest Central, 66-20, and put four players in double figures: Lune (15), Doe (12), Elynn Peterson (10) and Jaclyn Fabry (10). That clinched a tourney title for the Lady Indians.

While lopsided wins mean everyone gets to play, Coach Maribeth Dura said her team “is getting a little antsy.”

Then too, Dura said free-throw shooting has not been very good and rebounding has been less than desired at times.

“So in our huddles, I still have to remind them to play hard,” Dura said. “But overall I’m happy where we are now. We’re trying to put some new defenses in and we tried them against Midwest Central and did pretty well. We hadn’t practiced them in awhile, so I was happy with that.”

Brimfield cancelled a game with South Fulton scheduled for Wednesday and Dura hopes to re-schedule a larger school.

The Lady Indians are home vs. Annawan tonight.

Farmington
The Lady Farmers (3-2) posted two straight wins, including Monday’s 45-33 home win over ROWVA-Williamsfield.

Reece Putrich led Farmington with 15 points, Anna Webel added 12 and Riley Jansen chipped in 6 and, according to Coach Brad Whitcomb, “Her effort on the defensive end and her aggressiveness on the offensive end got her teammates easy baskets.”

On Nov. 22, Farmington topped IVC 53-46 as Putrich led with 17 points and Emma Evans added 15 and 6 assists.

“Emma has done a great job for us so far this season as she’s embraced guarding the other team’s best player and facilitating our offense as the point guard,” Whitcomb said. “She’s done a tremendous job finding the right balance between getting her teammates going and looking for opportunities herself.”

Farmington returns to action tonight at home against Olympia.

BASKETBALL: Two from Elmwood all-tour-

lied 18 points apiece in R-W's only other tourney loss, a 68-54 setback on Nov. 23 against Port Byron Riverdale, which won the event with a 5-0 record.

Last Friday, R-W bounced back with a 55-51 victory over West Central that went down to the wire.

"They've got some talent," Anderson said of West Central. "They've got a good junior group and then can shoot the 3 a little bit."

Wight led R-W with 21 points while Riley Danner chipped in 12 and Adam Kohl added 11.

"The Danner kid has been a real pleasant surprise for us," Anderson said.

The Cougars followed that up Saturday with a 64-47 win over Henry in which Wight had 22 points, Kohl tallied 10 and Dylan Tucker scored 21, making five of his six 3-point shot attempts.

"He gave us a real boost in that game," Anderson said.

R-W was to face Delavan on Tuesday at home and then wraps up the homestand in Williamsfield by facing potent Peoria Christian on Saturday.

Elmwood

KEWANEE – The Trojans have used a slightly different season-opening strategy for the past few years: attend a usually competitive Kewanee Wethersfield Tournament, take some lumps and build from those lessons to become a better team.

The good news for Coach Josh Fugitt is that Elmwood has plenty to learn from after a 3-2 finish at the Wally Keller Invitational. Elmwood beat Putnam County (54-51) on Nov. 22, Annawan (62-51) on Nov. 24 and host Wethersfield Nov. 26, but lost to Bureau Valley (52-50) on Nov. 23 and then dropped its last tournament game to Stark County (57-52) on Saturday.

"When we shoot it well and don't turn it over, we're capable of being a good team in stretches," Fugitt said. "But our defense has a lot of work. We're still too tied to what happens on the offensive end and when that doesn't go well, it transitions to defense."

Fugitt said those problems cropped up against Stark County.

"They play hard, they're long and they're athletic," he said. "And they definitely exposed some of our weaknesses on defense in the second half. Some things didn't bounce our way offensively and our defense isn't good enough to make up for it right now."

Stark County outscored Elmwood 20-15 in the final quarter. Andrew Marincic led the Trojans with 15 points, Brayden Lehman had 12 and Victor Lenzi tallied 11.

Lenzi and Marincic had 21 apiece against Annawan and the senior pair also led against Wethersfield, with Marincic pouring in 24 and Lenzi tallying 12.

Marincic and junior Zach Hower-ton were voted all-tournament.

"Zach really impressed the first two games for sure with his ability to score the basketball," Fugitt said.

"Then in games 3-4, Victor really put together two good games for us. Whether he scores or not, his rebounding is there and he had two to three blocks in the last two games."

Elmwood faced West Prairie Tuesday at home and is home Saturday against Delavan.

Farmington

ASTORIA – The flu bug and injuries did no favors for Farmington, which was missing key parts as it dropped the title game of the Fulton County Tournament to Lewistown last Saturday, 47-37.

The Farmers (4-1) were without starters Corbin Rutledge (flu) and Ethan Evans (injury), while fellow starter Riley Embry (flu) managed 9 points in limited time. Keauntrey Barnes led Farmington with 11 points.

"It's a great opportunity for younger players to get varsity playing time," Coach Marty Lozier said.

Prior to that, Farmington had routed South Fulton on Nov. 24, 66-22. Logan Morse led with 13 points and Rutledge added 12. The Farmers also won easily on Nov. 23 over North Fulton, 57-18. Rutledge had 16 points and Embry had 10.

Farmington won big at Tremont on Tuesday, 74-47, as Evans tallied 23 in his first game back from a football shoulder injury. Embry added 15 and Morse had 12.

Area boys hoops teams win some, lose some in Thanksgiving play

By JEFF LAMPE
For The Weekly Post

While no local boys basketball team brought home a Turkey Tournament title last week, the winning overshadowed the losing for all area teams. Here's a rundown.

Brimfield

BRIMFIELD – The Indians finished 2-1 at their Turkey Tournament, topping Tremont (60-53) on Nov. 23 and Midwest Central (69-50) on Nov. 26 before falling to a loaded Knoxville team last Saturday, 51-39.

“Knoxville got off to a hot start and we didn't play well to start and just got in a hole that we couldn't get out of,” Brimfield Coach Kevin Kreiter said. “The kids are playing hard. It was a different style and we didn't adapt very well.”

Brimfield trailed 19-7 after one quarter and could only get within four points the rest of the game.

Junior Oliver Heinz led with 18 points against Knoxville.

Heinz also led Brimfield in scoring with 20 points against Midwest Central while senior Levi Moon added 19.

“We led that one 14-0 at the start and kind of maintained that all the way through and had a good night shooting,” Kreiter said.

Against Tremont, Moon scored 16 and senior post player Caleb Tyre added 15 for Brimfield, which was up by 17 points after three quarters.

“We did a great job on defense,” Kreiter said. “But we didn't finish the way we would have liked to have.”

A game scheduled with Abingdon-Avon for this week was pushed back due to A-Town's injuries, Kreiter said.

WILLIAMSFIELD – Over the years, the strategy of playing plenty of games at home to start the season has helped Coach Bob Anderson build some very good basketball teams.

And that formula appeared to be working well once again last week until starter Carson Malek had to miss three games.

That hurt the Cougars (3-2) in a 55-25 tournament-ending loss to United on Saturday.

“On the one hand I'm kind of satisfied, on the other hand I'm very disappointed in our last game,” Anderson said. “United just took us apart. Their defense took us out of everything. Without Malek we really didn't have a good outside threat and they were able to do a good job denying the ball to Graham Wight.”

Elmwood girls hoops starts strong

ELMWOOD – With four starters graduated and two players after sitting out last season, it would have made natural if Elmwood's girls basketball team took time to find its stride.

Instead, Elmwood has gelled quickly and ran its record to 4-1 with Monday's 55-36 home win over Midwest Central.

Sophomore Mae Herman scored 11 of her team-high 21 points in the first quarter as Elmwood avenged its lone loss of the season. The Trojans led 13-7 after one quarter, avoiding the slow start that had led to a loss to MC seven days earlier.

Guard Melody Glenn had five treys for her 15 points and post player Liv Meyers tallied 10 as Elmwood had its inside-outside game working. Herman also had six assists for Elmwood.

“I forget sometimes that we lost four starters from last year so these guys are all kind of getting moved into those starting roles. And then Melody and Lexi [Lehman] were not there last year,” Elmwood Coach Gregg Meyers said. “It's been so seamless that I forget how much of a transition it has been. We've had three different leading scorers so far and it's going pretty good.”

Prior to Monday's win, Elmwood took two straight at the Brimfield Turkey Tournament, downing Tremont (41-25) on Nov. 27 and Kewanee (51-22) on Nov. 23.

“It was nice to play Kewanee and Tremont, teams we never get to play normally,” Coach Meyers said. “And Tremont was closer than the final score. It was a 10- to 12-point game the whole second half and we made a couple
