Much-discussed Hanna City Trail derailed

By JEFF LAMPE
 For The Weekly Post
 FARMINGTON – The long-discussed Hanna City Trail appears to have been derailed by last-minute issues.
 Speaking at Monday’s lively meeting of the Farmington City Council, Mayor Kent Kowal provided a gloomy update for the 24.7-mile trail proposed to run along an abandoned Union Pacific Railroad right-of-way from Bellevue to Middlegrove.
 Kowal said a recent misunderstanding over appraisal vs. fair market value of the property resulted in a $766,000 discrepancy in the amount of grant money awarded for the purchase of the right-of-way.

 A second issue that emerged in the past week is an Illinois

Department of Natural Resources requirement to convert the right-of-way into “finished trail” within an unspecified time frame, possibly as little as three years. There was also some discussion by IDNR requiring the trail to be ADA compliant.
 That was a dramatic change from plans discussed over the past 15-20 years, which had called for a primarily “primitive trail.”
 “I’m not sure but what this is a dead item,” Kowal said.

That hunch was confirmed on Tuesday when the Hanna City Village Board voted unanimously to terminate the purchase agreement with Union Pacific, to end the grant process with IDNR and to conclude involvement with the trail project as presently proposed.
 The trail was one of several items on a busy schedule in Farmington that saw heated exchanges between audience members, presenters and staff.

Is this the same fish?

By JEFF LAMPE
 For The Weekly Post
 Big fish invite comparisons and questions. How big? How deep? Where? On what? Did you eat it?
 Seldom, though, does the line of questioning include, “Is that the same fish your kid caught last year?”
 But that’s exactly what Don Sullivan of Hanna City and his son, Donny Sullivan of Kickapoo, have been pondering since last Sunday’s fishing trip to a deep Tazewell County lake yielded a lunker bass.

 Don Sullivan caught the day’s lone fish, which he said measured 24 inches and weighed just over 9 pounds on a hand-held digital scale.

More tax relief?

State may send payment to Illinoisans

By JERRY NOWICKI
 Capitol News Illinois
 SPRINGFIELD – Democrats in the Illinois Senate are touting a $1.8 billion package of mostly temporary tax relief proposals they hope to include in the Fiscal Year 2023 budget as the legislative session nears an April 8 end.
 The package is $800 million beyond the tax relief package proposed by Gov. JB Pritzker in his budget in February, although it includes many of the same tax reductions backed by the governor. The measures are contained in eight amendments to Senate Bill 1150 and include direct checks to Illinoisans, a 10-day stay on taxes on schools supplies and qualifying clothing, a six-month stay on the grocery tax and a motor fuel tax increase.
 Lawmakers are scheduled to adjourn on April 8, with the budget the main proposal that still needs to be wrapped up. It needs approval from both chambers of the General Assembly and the governor.

 Republicans called the plan an election-year gimmick.
 Sen. Elgie Sims, D-Chicago, one of the lead budgeteers in the Senate, said the tax relief was made possible by unspecified “additional revenues” made available in the budget.
 The plan would include one-time direct checks to Illinoisans. Those earning less than $250,000 in 2021 would receive a $100 check, while joint filers earning less than $500,000 would receive $200. Checks would include an extra $50 per dependent, up to three dependents.
 Lawmakers hope checks would be distributed by September, although they said the date was based on immediate taxpayer relief, not on the fact that an election is upcoming in November.

FARMINGTON: $60,000 to rebuild 54 E. Fort St.

Discussion became animated after the council voted unanimously to award a $60,000 commercial redevelopment grant from the city’s TIF fund to Farmington Forward, LLC, for a complete rebuild of a building at 54 E. Fort St. The grant is structured as a loan that is forgivable over six years at $10,000 per year, secured with a second mortgage.

Business owner Cassandra Anderson asked whether other Farmington businesses would be given a chance to apply for similar forgivable loans since, “this is different than anything else that has ever been offered.”

Kowal said Farmington’s Community and Economic Development Commission would consider applications from other businesses.

Dave Giagnoni of Farmington Forward said the LLC is not a registered non-profit, but has not made any money on previous building renovations and will not profit from this venture, either.

“We have taken four buildings downtown that, had we not [renovated] them, they would be holes on the south side of the street,” Giagnoni said. “They would have been demolished.”

Kowal said the building at 54 E. Fort St. has been abandoned for “30 years or more” and after redevelopment will offer a viable space.

The council also approved an allotment of $75,000 from the TIF for residential redevelopment projects, with an increase in the limit from $2,000 to $2,500 for first-time applicants. Grants can’t exceed 75 percent of the total approved and previous recipients are capped at $1,000.

Also approved was $30,000 in facade grants for 2022-23, which now include rear facades of buildings and businesses that face Spring Street.

Eric Larson of Illinois American Water spoke to the council about this year’s water main replacement on Northwest Street between Court Street and Illinois Route 116, which should start in July or August.

Larson said this is the final step in $5 million worth of projects done to upgrade Farmington’s water system since Illinois American took over in 2018. Larson said most water main work has focused on northwest Farmington and this project should complete a loop of new mains, increase flows for firefighting and improve water quality.

Larson also said an Illinois American study showed it is more cost effective to invest in Farmington’s reverse-osmosis plant and wells than to run pipe into town bringing water from another source.

One Cone Street resident brought dirty water filters to show Larson and met with him after speaking.

Public works director Dave Ehlers made a presentation seeking approval for three paving projects. The council approved all three, which are to be done by Hoerr’s Blacktop & Sealcoating of Trivoli.

One is for crack sealing and sealcoating of the walking path from Jacobs Park to the school for $4,300. Work will start after school is out.

Also approved were new sidewalks around the bathrooms at Jacobs Park at a cost of $6,500, with work to start this month.

The council also approved Hoerr’s redoing the blacktop approach to Jacobs Park for $6,380, with work to start in April.

Ehlers then opened a sealed bid for a new backhoe – the lone bid he received after seeking three. The bid from Birkey’s Farm Store of Galesburg for a new Case 580 SN was $120,400. With a $30,000 trade-in for the current backhoe (which has 7,000 hours of operating time and is currently in the shop) and a few adds-ons, the total cost is $102,500. The council approved the bid.

Finally, Ehlers discussed an inter-governmental agreement with Farmington Township for maintenance of Farmington Township Park. Ehlers is seeking two changes to the agreement: moving back to a May 1 start date and upping the total from $13,000 to $15,000. Maintenance costs last year were $15,500, with the city expected to foot the bill for $500 of that total.

“I’ll watch the hours much closer,” Ehlers said.

The council approval moving forward with an agreement.

Finally, the council approved a brief street closure for the June 25 Hearts for Adi 5K run and 1.5-mile memorial walk. Mike Nelson spoke about the event, held as a fundraiser in memory of his late daughter, and said this is the last year for the event for “awhile.”

“For now we’re saying ‘See you later, but not goodbye,’” Nelson said.

At its last meeting on March 21, the council accepted the resignation of Alderman David Black. No action on his replacement was taken Monday.

Quotable: "I don't see that wind turbines pose a significant health impact in any way, as long as noise and shadow flicker are addressed."
— James McCalley, Iowa State professor

Illinois Press Association Member

Wind turbines offer local tax windfall

When wind turbines come to northwest Peoria county, the community will be participating in efforts to minimize the use of coal and gas to produce electricity. At the same time, there will be considerable financial benefits locally.

Wind energy systems bring a substantial tax revenue windfall to the community. All those taxing bodies listed on our annual property tax bills – county, township, road district, schools, libraries, fire departments, and junior colleges benefit from the tax dollars flowing from the turbines.

The Knox County Wind Farm, for example, estimates it will pay $1.4 million annually in property taxes over its first 25 years of operation, the biggest chunk going to school districts.

Local taxing bodies must then decide whether to use these funds to lower individual property taxes or to finance brand new projects instead. They need to be aware that the flow of so much money from a single source can dry up in an instant, should the operators find they're no longer making a profit and dismantle the whole enterprise.

That's already happened in Kewaunee County, Wis., where the wind farm company knocked down and hauled away its 14 wind turbines, barely 20 years old, because they were no longer cost-effective to operate.

Landowners who lease their property for a wind turbine will benefit from the extra income. The actual land required for a single wind tower and turbine is less than two acres, not counting any acreage required for access roads. But that small parcel can generate several thousand dollars annually. That's income not affected by the weather, crop failures or fickle commodity markets.

Lease agreements are complicated, however, and landowners should consult with an attorney experienced in wind farm leases. An excellent source of information is the "Farmers' Guide To Wind Energy," published by the Farmers Legal Action Group. Chapter Three is required reading for anyone negotiating a wind farm lease. It's a free download online.

A wind farm brings new jobs to the local community, mostly in the construction phase, but also later when the turbines are up and running. These jobs are especially welcome in rural communities where employment opportunities are often scarce.

Naturally, trade-offs come with such a project. Folks living near a proposed wind farm worry that their property values will suffer. They fear prospective buyers might be turned off by a nearby fleet of giant windmills reaching three or four hundred feet into the sky. Numerous studies have been done by real estate appraisers to see if this concern is valid. Generally, they found some negative effect on real estate values, ranging from less than 10 to as much as 40 percent.

Most jurisdictions have laws regulating wind tower height, color, lighting, fencing, signage and setback distances from roads and property lines. They also require wind energy developers to ensure that the project does not interfere with migratory birds and bats. But only a very few have enacted laws to protect the market value of nearby residences by making developers liable for loss of property value caused by the project. Wind project developers avoid jurisdictions with such property value guarantees.

Another objection raised is the potential for health problems related to the sound generated by turbines, especially ultra-low frequency sounds. Wind farm builders try to locate towers far enough away from neighbors to eliminate such problems. In some cases they may pay affected residents to allow a turbine to be built nearby.

Peoria County's current ordinance is rather lenient, allowing a wind tower to be built as close as 750 feet to a nearby residence (Peoria County Code of Ordinances, Chapter 20, Article 7.2.) Bureau County, learning from years of experience, now has a much more comprehensive ordinance. Their ordinance mandates a minimum distance of 1,400 feet from a neighbor's home, or 3.2 times the height of the tower and blade, whichever is greater.

Another troubling side effect of a wind turbine is its shadow. The relentlessly spinning shadow, called flicker, can be distracting and stressful when it falls across a neighboring property. Even at some distance a turbine can cast a very long shadow on a house in early morning and late evening at certain times each year.

In time more information will come forth about this project and wind energy in general. No doubt we'll all be watching future public notices more closely.

We will not run out of food this year

Contrary to the woeful baying by Big Agbiz, the United States – and any nation with enough money – will not run out of food this year. This can be said without reservation for two reasons.

First, war or no war, there is no global shortage of wheat, the crop today’s Chicken Littles are cluck-cluck clucking about. In the last week of March, numerous sources pointed out that the estimated shortfall in Russian wheat export sales due to its war in Ukraine will be about 7 million metric tons (mmt) this marketing year.

While that sounds like a lot, 7 mmt is, in fact, 0.9 percent of Russia’s staggering 778 mmt 2021 wheat crop.

So, no, the loss of less than one percent of any nation’s farm production in any commodity will not lead to global famine.

The second reason the world will not run out of wheat is that when properly functioning markets operate in an open, transparent manner, price rations supply and demand. Yes, that can get coldly expensive but it also ensures the global cupboard never really empties.

And that is what happened in the wheat futures market from mid-February to early March as Russia invaded Ukraine. On Feb. 18, a week before the invasion, Chicago May wheat futures prices were $8.04 per bushel. After three weeks of volatile, war-fueled trading, May futures had soared to over $12.

On March 8, however, the May contract rocketed to $13.63 per bu. just as futures trading began that day. Shortly thereafter, something – or someone – hit the market and May futures fell off the table, down $2 per bu. By the close of the bruising session, prices had clawed back to $12.86 per bu., or almost exactly where they had finished the day before.

What happened? No one really knows and, worse, it’s likely no one will ever know because the futures markets’ key regulator, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) – like many government agencies in the past decade – has given most of its oversight functions to the markets themselves, notes Dr. Steve Suppan of the Institute of Agriculture and Trade Policy in Minneapolis (IATP).

In a prescient March 16 post on the IATP website titled “Wheat futures prices and the war on regulation,” Suppan describes the long, anti-oversight game most futures exchanges played with federal watchdogs after post-2008 laws gave regulators greater power to oversee markets.

That fight culminated with a 3-to-2 vote in late 2020 by the five-member board that relinquished “nearly all CFTC authority to the exchanges...” One of the two dissenters on the panel, Suppan notes, said the shift made “the players on the field the referees.”

“In this arena,” however, “the public interest loses.”

It’s hard for the public to see that because futures markets appear to be arcane exchanges where cab drivers become millionaires by buying soybean futures. Not so – ever. U.S. futures exchanges are a $610 trillion dollar a year marketplace where speculators – traders looking to profit – and hedgers, usually buyers and sellers of products or derivatives of products traded on the exchange, meet to establish price based on key ingredients like supply, demand, weather, and war.

And they are critically important in our everyday lives: If the markets don’t function fairly, everyone pays – from the trader who was clipped on some shady deal to the single mother of five struggling to pay the weekly grocery tab.

Farmers and ranchers know this. In fact, today’s volatile wheat market means some rural grain purchasers only buy farmers’ grain when the Chicago futures market is open so the buyer can immediately transfer their ownership risk to someone else.

That also means these purchasers don’t offer any farmer a market after 1:15 p.m. each weekday and not at all on the weekend. Almost every farmer or rancher will tell you that this is a highly risky, potentially costly failure to both you and them.

So, no, we’re not going to run out of food. The real threat is that we’ll run out of markets we can trust.

PUBLIC RECORD

NOTE: Charges are merely an accusation. All suspects are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

Edwards man dies in Southport Road crash

PEORIA – Darrell W. Harper, 58, of Edwards died in a two-vehicle collision Friday, April 1, in the 5600 block of Southport Rd. at approximately 8:44 p.m.

According to Peoria County Sheriff’s Captain Chris Watkins, Harper, of Powder Mill Road, was the lone occupant of a sedan driving west-bound on Southport Road. His vehicle collided head-on with a pickup truck that was traveling east-bound. Two adults in the pickup were transported by AMT to OSF St. Francis Medical Center with non-life-threatening injuries.

According to Peoria County Coroner Jamie Harwood, “Harper suffered multiple blunt force trauma injuries, and likely died instantly.”

Toxicology testing is pending. Brimfield and Limestone fire departments responded to the scene. Police reports

- EDWARDS – James Clarence Ernst, 53, of Edwards was charged on April 2 for driving on a revoked license, according to a Peoria County Sheriff’s report.
- EDWARDS – Joshua R. Kelch, 24, of Edwards was charged on April 1 with two counts of driving on a revoked license, according to a Peoria County Sheriff’s report.
- FARMINGTON – Stopped for a traffic violation at E. Fort and N. Cone streets on March 26, Jacob Gohde, 22, of Glasford was found to have an additional chargeable offense after a search of his vehicle with a K-9 unit, according to a Farmington police report. He was charged with having no rear registration light and unlawful possession of adult-use cannabis. His vehicle was towed and impounded.

- FARMINGTON – A homeowner in the 300 block of E. Court St. arrived at his residence on the evening of March 31 to find the bolts that held the rear caliper to a vehicle had been removed and stolen, according to a Farmington police report. The police are investigating what is being called criminal damage to property/theft.
- FARMINGTON – On March 31, Cole Blythe, 32, of Farmington was taken into custody at the Circle K regarding an active warrant out of Fulton County for a failure to appear in court. He was transported to the Fulton County Jail.
- CANTON – Farmington officer Andy Steck and K-9 officer Koala assisted on a Fulton County traffic stop on March 29 during which Koala alerted to the presence of narcotics. After a search of the vehicle, 820 grams of meth was located inside the vehicle.

Knox County voter IDs reference wrong county

By Weekly Post Staff Reports

Knox County voters may notice that the new voter ID cards they were mailed recently reference a different county at the bottom of the form.

Voters in Knox County started receiving their new voter ID cards in the mail last week. The new cards contain all of the proper information for the voters with one exception. The Election Judge recruitment portion at the bottom of the form references Washington County instead of Knox County.

“The address and signature portion of the Election Judge section are fine, the vendor just forgot to change their template to reference Knox County. All of the voter information is correct and there will be no issues with the cards when it comes to voting,” said Knox County Clerk and Recorder Scott Erickson. “Voters have been contacting my office along with the Washington County Clerk’s office about this glitch. We want to make sure that everyone knows that their voter information is correct and the Election Judge section was the only spot affected. “If anyone is interested in serving Knox County as an Election Judge, they are welcome to sign and return the bottom portion of the form to my office and we will get them on our list.”

The Knox County Clerk’s office handles voting operations for everyone in the County except the City of Galesburg, which has its own Election Commission

Brimfield OKs $13,000 repair of park pavilion

By LORI HEROLD
For The Weekly Post

BRIMFIELD – The Brimfield Village Board on Monday approved a $13,000 bid for extensive repair on the pavilion at the village park.

A bid of $13,000 was awarded to Kirk Lewis to do repairs. Board President Dan Fishel said there hasn’t been any work done on the pavilion in years and these repairs should help it last for a long time.

The board also heard an update from Village Clerk Holly Johnson regarding ARPA (American Rescue Plan Funds). She said the village has until December of 2024 to obligate the fund and it will need to be spent by December 2026.

Kevin Challacombe, Supervisor of Public Works, presented a bid of $2,750 from River Bottom Tree Service to remove a tree at 133 E. Clay St. Challacombe also suggested the village pay to remove a “dangerous” tree at 117 S. Adams St. using River Bottom. The Board approved the removal of the first tree and the second tree at a cost not to exceed $1,000.

A motion was approved for the village attorney to file a suit that allows the village to move forward in condemning the residence at 315 Brim St. after there was no response to a certified letter sent to the owner about property violations.

The board reviewed and discussed four Food Pantry sign options designed by local students and heard that the school has a machine that can make signs. The board approved a design with the amended wording “Brimfield Area Food Pantry.”

The board approved Ordinance 2022-1 for a revision of abatement to be in line with the state.

The board also approved Ordinance 2022-2 for a garbage pick-up rate increase. The five-year contract with G&O Disposal will begin on Sept. 1. The Board had approved an increase in the monthly fee to $15 per household from $14 per household for the length of the contract in its March meeting.

During executive session, the contracts of three village employees were approved. Challacombe’s five-year contract, which begins in May, is as follows. Years 1, 2, and 3 at $63,358, Year 4 at $63,991, Year 5 at $64,631 with a one-time bonus of $6,000. The full-time employee who assists with maintenance of village infrastructure is to be paid $850 per week with a one-time bonus of $2,000. Village Clerk Holly Johnson’s annual contract will be at a wage of $25 per hour and a one-time bonus of $2,000.

Discussion for the possible sale of property was on the agenda with no action taken by the board.

BASS: Both fish caught in almost same spot

“We weren’t out fishing for 20 minutes when, bam, I hooked a hog down about 15-20 feet from the boat. I had a [Rapala] crankbait diver on. What a fight,” the elder Sullivan said. “My son grabbed the net and in the boat she came. It was huge! Biggest bass of my life. We went crazy.”
“We weighed and measured it, then we took some pictures and then I released her back into the water. Off she swam. What a father-and-son moment. A day we will always remember.”

That was was caught from within a few hundred feet of where Donny Sullivan last April caught a 22-inch bass that weighed 6 1/2 pounds on a digital scale. Last year the fish bit on an Alabama rig.
In the moment, none of that mattered to the Sullivans, who were busy celebrating.

“We think our excitement scared all the other fish away,” Don Sullivan said, explaining the lack of bites thereafter.
But later that day, Donny started comparing pictures of the bass. Don Sullivan explained that his son takes hunting and fishing more seriously and spends time studying fish they catch and deer pictures they gather on trail cameras.

“My son posted side-by-side photos of the fish on a fishing forum he is on,” the elder Sullivan said. “Right away, everyone was pointing out the identical marks on the fish. Could we have caught the same fish? It sure looks like it.”
Department of Natural Resources fishery biologist Rob Hilsabeck agreed that the markings do look very, very similar.
“I’d say it’s very possible,” Hilsabeck said. Skeptics may still have doubts, as is natural with any big-fish story. While stories of anglers catching the same fish in the same day are not unusual, tales of a father and son teaming up on a fish one year apart are rare. And barring a fin tag or other tracking device, it’s not possible to prove definitively this was the same fish. That’s OK with the Sullivans.

“My wife, Beverly, couldn’t believe I didn’t bring it home,” Don Sullivan said. “I told her it was too big. I had to put it back.”

That release sets up an interesting possibility.
“We are both so grateful for the experience and hope maybe my grandson [Donny Sullivan III] can catch that same fish some day,” Don Sullivan said.
While chances of that seem slim, as Donny Sullivan III is just 4 years old, one way to increase the odds is to fish in late March and early April – prime time for catching big bass in Illinois waters.
You can bet the Sullivans won’t miss that chance next spring.

Phase 1 is to start immediately. Phase 2 will happen after July 1, in a new budget year.

Princeville students sing backup for Beatles tribute

By CHLOE BLUNIER
For The Prince
PRINCEVILLE – A small group of Princeville students have been given the opportunity to sing backup for a series of Beatles celebration concerts.

Called the Yoko Ono Choir, the group, led by Chris Delbridge, included Princeville students Natalie Bashusen, Chloe Blunier, Brianna Olshawsky, Sophie Noonan and Leah Wieland, Princeville alum Alex Lopez, Midland student Maddy Colby and community member Hilary Hartley. Other performers were a group of local musicians, including Cherry Whittaker, Jimmy

Willis and Mathew Curry. The group was led by Craig Moore. Performances so far have been at the Scottish Rite Theater in downtown Peoria and last weekend at the Castle Theater in Bloomington-Normal. The last show will be April 24 in Keokuk, Iowa. Amber Brawley, Bryanna Clark, McKenzie Chain, Nadine Daugherty, Olivia Potter, Ruby Williams, and Sadie Bays will be joining the group for those shows. The group learned all of the music audibly. There was no sheet music and Delbridge did all of the instruction himself. The group enjoyed the Scottish Rite Theater, which is a repurposed cathedral, and explored the building. There were stained glass windows everywhere and gorgeous architecture. “It was a dream come true for me to be asked to participate with musicians that I have admired for many years,” Delbridge said. “Getting to share the experience with a group of my current and former students made it even more special!”

Taxpayers would not need to take action to receive the checks. Anyone who is eligible based on their 2021 return would be sent a check.

Last month, the Department of Revenue testified in committee that Illinois took in $4.6 billion more than expected in the current fiscal year that ends June 30, due largely to pandemic-related changes in consumer spending, although Pritzker included that revenue spike in his February budget plan.

IDOR also warned that the ongoing war in Ukraine could have an impact on revenues for the remainder of the current fiscal year and next. And some of the current-year surplus was spent on $1.4 billion in debt reduction in a measure passed last week that also addressed debt in the Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund.

Other programs include a six-month suspension on the state’s 1 percent grocery tax, as well as a six-month stay on the inflationary adjustment to the motor fuel tax. That equates to keeping the motor fuel tax at its current level.

Democrats are also proposing to increase the state Earned Income Tax Credit by a percentage point, raising it to 19 percent of the federal tax credit. The EITC is a credit available to low- and moderate-income households. It is a refundable credit, meaning those who qualify can receive a refund, even if the amount exceeds what they owe in taxes.

Another proposal would allow for a tax credit up to $300 for homeowners who earn less than $250,000 individually or $500,000 jointly. The credit would be 5 percent of property tax paid, up to $300.

Another measure gets rid of the sales tax on school supplies from Aug. 5-14. The tax moratorium would also apply to qualifying clothing and footwear items up to $125 per item.

It would also give teachers a tax credit up to $300 beginning in tax year 2023, up from $250, for supplies purchased for their classrooms and a $500 credit for volunteer firefighters and EMS who held those positions for at least nine months in the tax year. Sponsors said those credits would be permanent.

“The Senate Democrats’ proposal appears to be just another election year stunt,” Senate Minority Leader Dan McConchie, R-Hawthorn Woods, said “Under their plan, checks and relief will arrive right before the election and then will expire right after the election.”

Americans eating more meat, cooking at home

By KAY SHIPMAN
FarmWeek

Meat fortifies more Americans' meals, which are now more frequently cooked and eaten at home, a new Food Marketing Institute (FMI) report revealed.

A total of 98.5 percent of American households reported buying meat and nearly 3 in 4 Americans described themselves as meat eaters, according to the 17th annual Power of Meat study from FMI.

Compared to pre-pandemic levels, sales of all meat by volume increased 3.9 percent. Volume sales of both fresh and prepared meats are higher compared with levels before the pandemic. Fresh meat sales are up 3.7 percent with prepared meat sales 4.3 percent higher.

More people are cooking and eating their meals at home. While that 80 percent level is down slightly from the 88 percent peak in April 2020, the at-home trend remains strong.

On average, Americans reported eating four home-cooked meals with meat each week. More than half, 57 percent, cook meat for four to seven dinners each week.

Americans not only altered where they are eating, but they also changed how they shop. Now, 61 percent report shopping for meat online.

STATE CAPITOL RECAP

COVID leave for vaccinated educators now law

By CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS
For The Weekly Post

SPRINGFIELD – Public school, community college and public university employees who are fully vaccinated against COVID-19 are now entitled to paid administrative leave for any days they miss this school year due to coronavirus-related issues.

Gov. JB Pritzker on Tuesday signed House Bill 1167 into law, which provides those employees as many days off as needed to abide by public health guidelines and mandates related to isolation and exclusion. The law applies to any employee of public educational institutions, including support staff and contractors.

It also applies retroactively to days missed this school year.

Lawmakers initially passed a bill during last year’s fall veto session that provided paid leave for any education employee who had to miss work due to COVID-19, but Pritzker vetoed that measure in January because it also would have applied to unvaccinated employees.

The original bill passed the General Assembly in October with near-unanimous support, but the inclusion of a vaccination requirement to be able to receive the benefits sparked Republican opposition. They argued that unvaccinated employees who have to stay home to care for a sick family member would be deprived of a benefit that a vaccinated person in the same position would receive.

Nursing home visits – The Illinois House advanced a measure Monday that aims to ensure nursing home patients have a right to visitors even amid a public health emergency.

Senate Bill 1405 states that a health care facility must ensure “an opportunity for at least one visitor to visit a resident or patient,” even amid a gubernatorial disaster declaration. A clergyperson would not count against the limit.

Health safety guidelines set by the health care facility, U.S. Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention would need to be followed for entry. And the person seeking entry may be required to pass a health screening.

Rep. Chris Bos, R-Lake Zurich, the bill’s chief House sponsor, said the legislation would give local control to the health care facilities. Bos also said it is in response to constituents who were upset that they could not visit family members in health care facilities during the COVID-19 pandemic due to Gov. JB Pritzker’s executive orders.

Bos said facilities would still have to comply with local health department guidance as well.

Clemency hearings off – The Illinois Prisoner Review Board website said on March 29 that the next quarterly clemency hearings, which were scheduled for April 12-15, have been indefinitely postponed due to “unforeseen circumstances” as the agency looks to “finalize a future date and location.”

Last week, PRB member Oreale James resigned by way of a letter to Gov. JB Pritzker before going to the Senate for a vote, and Eleanor Kaye Wilson failed to get the required votes needed to confirm her appointment to the board.

With James’ resignation and Wilson’s failed confirmation, the PRB now has just six seated members of a 15-member board. Of those, LeAnn Miller, Jared Bohland and Ken Tupy need Senate approval. Tupy and Bohland were recommended by the Executive Appointments Committee unanimously. Miller was also recommended.

Last week, Jeff Mears, a downstate Democrat, won a recommendation from the Senate Executive Appointments Committee, but also failed to get confirmed by the full Senate.

Two weeks ago, Pritzker pulled the appointment of Max Cerda, a PRB board member who was convicted of a double murder when he was 16 years old and paroled in 1998. It appeared Cerda would not have enough Senate support for approval.

The PRB has been a source of scrutiny from Senate Republicans who questioned the appointment process and the recent decisions on release, including the release of two men, both now in their 70s, who shot an Illinois State Police trooper in 1976.

Reproductive health – Members of the Illinois House Democratic Caucus were joined by Planned Parenthood officials at a news conference on March 31 to tout actions they say reaffirm women’s reproductive rights.

House Democrats passed House Bill 1464, which prevents the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation from being able to revoke, suspend, or take any other disciplinary action against licensed physicians, nurses, and advanced practice nurses for providing any medical service related to an abortion.

Illinois law already protects the right to an abortion as health care, but the bill is aimed at protecting health care providers who practice in multiple states.

HB 1464 passed the House 68-41 and still needs approval from the Senate.

Nursing home payments – Officials at the Department of Healthcare and Family Services believe they made “significant progress” last week toward reaching agreement on a plan to overhaul the way nursing homes are reimbursed through the state’s Medicaid program, according to a letter obtained by Capitol News Illinois.

An estimated 45,000 Illinois Medicaid recipients live in about 700 nursing homes throughout the state.

In his budget proposal in February, Pritzker proposed a $500 million plan to increase reimbursement rates for facilities that raise their staffing levels up to certain targets. Some of the money would also be used to fund pay raises for certified nursing assistants as they gain more experience in their jobs.

The money for that would come from a bed tax the state levies on nursing homes, which would draw down additional federal reimbursements.

That plan had strong support from the senior advocacy group AARP Illinois and some segments of the nursing home industry. But it has faced resistance from the state’s largest nursing home industry lobby group, the Health Care Council of Illinois.

HFS officials believe that logjam may have been broken last week.

BASEBALL: Farmers have won four of last five

its fourth win in the past five games on Monday with a 7-1 non-conference victory at home over Mercer County. A trio of pitchers had complete control, walking only a combined one for the game. Kane Fox, Zach Austin and Carter Lambin did the work from the mound. Three runs in the second and four in the fifth were plenty. Jace Crawford went 2-for-4 while Gage Renken hit a triple. Lane Wheelwright and Austin each wrapped a double in the win. The Farmers had a big night at home last Friday, taking a 13-2 Prairieland win over Lewistown, followed by a 5-1 victory over non-conference foe Monmouth United. FHS came out strong in the opener, up 11-2 after three. Riley Embry and Ethan Evans had bats on fire. Embry was 3-for-3 with six RBI, a home run and a double. Evans hit 3-for-4 with four RBI and two doubles. Kyle Litchfield fanned seven visiting hitters while scattering five hits in the win. In the nightcap victory, Wheelwright was in the zone from the bump with eight strikeouts, one walk and giving up just four hits. Renken and Evans each contributed two hits. “With bad weather and not being able to get outside, we struggled out of the gate, but we’ve been working hard and staying focused,” Farmington coach Justin Begner said. “We felt we were going to get it together in April. Hopefully this begins a good and competitive season for us. “Our bats were alive in these two games, and our pitching looked good.” coach Begner said, praising Litchfield and Wheelwright. Farmington dropped a 9-1 non-conference decision at East Peoria on March 29. East Peoria scored in each of the first five frames and had 10 total hits. Wheelwright had the only two hits for FHS. Austin Thompson, Crawford and Lambin all pitched for the Farmers. Farmington is next to play today at home in a non-conference contest versus Illini Bluffs. Princeville Princeville lost at Bushnell-Prairie City, 6-5, on a walk-off sacrifice fly ball on Monday. The game was scoreless until PHS got one in the fourth. BPC answered with five in the bottom of the fourth. The Princes battled back with four in their half of the next frame, until the host team’s winner. “We’re starting to see hard work paying off. After two weeks of hard hit balls right at our opponents, we found gaps tonight,” Coach Chris Delbridge said. “And Conner Freres just missed hitting two out.” Gage Devries pitched all the way for PHS, giving up four earned runs and striking out four. Kasey Juskiv hit 2-for-4. DeVries had two RBI and a double. Freres hit a triple. Next up is non-conference action Saturday vs. Knoxville at home. ROWVA-Williamsfield ROWVA-Williamsfield (3-3) got a pitching gem from Logan Kuberski in a 2-1 home win over ICAC rival North Fulton on Monday. Kuberski went all the way and fanned 12. “Logan is so often reliable for us on the mound, and our defense made some nice plays,” R-W coach Mike Weitkamp said. “Our hitters did a better job of putting balls in play and cutting down on strikeouts.” Graham Wight had an RBI double. The Cougars fell 11-1 to Abingdon-Avon last Friday at Williamsfield. R-W’s only score came on back-to-back doubles from Kuberski and Wight. R-W is at Manito Friday to take on Midwest Central.

Lady Farmers potent in victories

By JEFF LAMPE
For The Weekly Post

FARMINGTON – The Farmington softball team has put up some impressive run totals in its three wins so far this wet, cold spring.

In three wins, the Lady Farmers (3-1) have out-scored foes 40-6. That includes Tuesday’s 11-3 home victory over Deer Creek-Mackinaw.

Reece Putrich drove in four runs on three hits for Farmington, including a solo home run in the first inning. She also had a double.

Farmington finished with 10 hits and blew the game open with seven runs in the fourth inning. Holly Shriber, Alisyn Eichorn, McKenzie Janson, Putrich and Vallianatos each drove in runs during the big frame.

Shriber also got the pitching victory, allowing four hits and two runs over 5.2 innings. She fanned eight. Lydia Over-cash came on in relief to get the last five outs.

That win helped ease the sting of Monday’s 8-0 loss to Illini Bluffs. Shriber yielded seven runs on five hits and four walks, including a grand slam in the fourth.

Coach Jen Fauser said a bright spot in the loss to IB was freshman Overcash getting out of the fourth inning and finishing with two strikeouts while allowing one hit.

Last Friday, Farmington racked up 12 hits in a 12-3 home win over ROWVA-Williamsfield.

Emma Evans was 3-for-4 with a double, a triple, two runs and two RBIs. Farmington also got two-RBI games from Alyvia Marcotte (3-for-4, two runs, triple), Putrich (2-for-4) and Eichorn (2-for-4).

Shriber was strong on the mound, fanning 12 and allowing one walk and one earned run. Farmington was hurt by three errors that led to two un-earned runs.

Farmington opened the season with a 17-0 win over Stark County.

Next up is a road trip Thursday to face Rushville-Industry.

Binder leads B-E to 16-4 road win

By PHIL JOHNSON
For The Weekly Post

Rain and cold again took a toll on baseball games in the past week. But a few games did take place and here are results.

Brimfield-Elmwood
Brimfield-Elmwood (10-0) took a hit parade on the road Monday with a 16-4 thrashing of Ridgewood in non-conference action. Kyle Binder led the march with two home runs, a double and six RBI. Jude Strahm, Frank Kelch and Brady Johnson each clubbed a double.

Seven scores in the fifth inning made for a shortened game by the 10-run rule.

Caleb Tyre struck out nine in the first 3.2 innings. Michael Seibert, Drew Kieser and Binder followed Tyre on the bump.

Binder

B-E also won Tuesday, topping IVC, 4-3, on a walkoff single by Austin Baysingar. Baysingar also got the pitching win in two innings of relief.

The Indians were dominant last Friday at Deer Creek-Mackinaw in an 11-2 non-conference victory. Drew Bryant scattered six hits in six innings to go with seven strikeouts from the mound. Austin Baysingar whiffed two opponents in one inning of work.

“Drew and Austin threw strikes. Our pitching has been strong so far,” Coach Brandon Porter said.

The big bats of B-E came out with Kelch’s two RBI and a home run. Binder and Johnson hit 2-for-4 with a double apiece. Jack Houlihan also added a two-bagger in the assault.

Next up is a non-conference trip to Peoria Christian today, April 7.
