Brimfield adds school bus service

By NICK VLAHOS

For The Weekly Post

BRIMFIELD – Classes in the Brimfield School District don't begin for about another month, but officials there already have received quite the education this summer. The subject: how to start a student-transportation program almost from scratch.

Brimfield has created its own school-bus service after a bid from an outside contractor would have cost the district more than $930,000 annually compared to its previous deal, according to Superintendent Tony Shinall.

The new service, which appears similar to the previous one, is to be ready in time for the start of the 2022-23 academic year. Classes begin Aug. 17.

"It's a challenge, but it's nothing that we can't handle," Shinall said.

Yates City will likely allow chickens soon

By JEFF LAMPE

For The Weekly Post

YATES CITY – Barring a sudden change of heart, at its next meeting on Aug. 10 the Yates City Village Board is expected to vote in favor of allowing residents to have chickens.

The chicken discussion came up during the board's July 13 meeting and, while a formal ordinance has not been drawn up, a straw poll of members showed four of five were in favor of allowing chickens.

That's an about-face from 2013, when the Yates City Village Board voted against a proposal to allow chickens, 3-2.

Board member Seth Lekies spoke in favor of the change, saying his children are interested in raising chickens as part of a 4-H project. Also speaking in favor of chickens were 11 other citizens who attended the meeting, including Carol Schauble, April Wilson, McKenzie Wilson and Morgan Wilson – all of whom were present for the last vote on April 10, 2013.

"This is extremely exciting," April Wilson said, as board members voiced non-binding consent.

Still to be determined is final language of the ordinance change, which Vil-

Brimfield school eyes solar project

By LORI HEROLD

For The Weekly Post

BRIMFIELD – Kiersten Sheets of Trajectory Energy Partners attended the July 11 meeting of the Brimfield Village Board to answer questions regarding a proposed community solar project.

According to Trajectory's presentation materials, the company is, "working with Brimfield CUSD 309 on a community solar project on school land in the Village of Brimfield. The site can host a 2MWac community solar project that could serve the Brimfield CUSD facilities and other local subscribers."

Village Attorney Bill Atkins said he received good comments from the Brimfield Zoning Board on the suggested ordinance language regarding the project, but said the language will need tweaking before being presented to the board for its Aug. 1 meeting.

The Brimfield Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, Aug. 10 at 6 p.m. in the Village Hall to hear the request for a special use from Trajectory Energy Partners for the 12-acre project.

Village Board member Paul Dye expressed concern that the solar field would be too close to a street and proximity to other structures. A concern over continuing cost related to a three-year permit was addressed by Sheets, who said it will be a one-time cost.

SOLAR: Brimfield buying hydrovac excavator

In other business, Kevin Challacombe, Supervisor of Public Works, said he has a spec sheet and a quote on a hydrovac excavator that he asked the board to consider purchasing at last month's board meeting. He said the excavator can be a real benefit to the village because it can be used for excavating projects beyond just the water and sewer departments. Challacombe said it saves time and is safer than using a backhoe. He also gave figures for renting the excavator, but said they are so popular they can be hard to rent.

Challacombe said the bid of $84,906 is good for 30 days. After that the cost will go up $7,000. The vendor said he will hold the machine if the board indicates it will give formal approval at its Aug. 1 meeting. After discussion, all board members indicated they favored the purchase.

Challacombe said he reviewed bids to use MFT funds to sealcoat some streets, but considered them too high. He recommended holding off until the prices come down, though there will be some road spots patched this year. The board approved moving the MFT expenditure to next year.

Owners of a residence at 315 Brim St. did not respond to a letter from the board requesting a meeting about their property. The village has stalled moving forward with the lien and condemnation process because there is now an interested buyer. The buyer reportedly plans to tear down the structures.

The Board also approved a bid of $1,400 by A-1 Stump Grinding to grind tree stumps and a bid of $800 by Keith Wagner to refresh some village signs.

Atkins called for discussion regarding a property on West Calhoun Street that appears to be abandoned and for which the village has liens. There will be a tax deed meeting about the property on Nov. 21. The village has cared for this property for three years and the lien is higher than the back taxes. Atkins said he will look into possible foreclosure on the property.

CHICKENS: 6-hen limit, must be kept fenced

lage Attorney Wayne Statham said he will present for action at the next meeting.

Parameters discussed last week include:

- hens only, up to six per property, and no ducks or geese;
- chickens must be kept confined and are not allowed to range freely;
- chicken coops are limited to no more than 100 square feet with fence adequate to contain the birds;
- coops must be 5 feet off the property line;
- coops must be located behind the plane of a house and maintained in a manner that does not disturb neighbors;
- no extension cords may be used for heaters or heated water tanks, which will require the installation of permanent outdoor wiring;

- and birds should have clipped wings.

There was also discussion of making chicken coops "non-viewable" from the road. But the board favored merely requiring that they be placed behind a home.

Preliminary plans also call for a one-time, $10 permit fee and an inspection of the chicken coop by a village official.

Violators of the proposed ordinance would be subject to fines established in the village code, Statham said.

Still to be determined is whether chickens would be allowed at multi-family homes, with the board initially favoring only single-family residences for backyard birds.

In other business, the board plans to move forward with the purchase of the old library property at 115 W. Main St. owned by Lawrence and Karla Kane. The board approved a purchase price of $58,500 for the property, which can be used for a new ground storage tank and well. That cost reflects a $1,500 discount if closing is completed by October.

The board also approved an appropriation ordinance for the upcoming year and OK'd spending $650 to buy a used 8-foot bucket for a village tractor.

Yates City residents are reminded that Friday, July 22, is the last day to send in replies to an income survey being conducted by the Western Illinois Regional Council. The village needs the survey to be eligible for grant money to help construct a new deep well for the community, which has been mandated by the EPA.

GUEST VOICES

Ten times over the Divide, more to come

The 10th crossing of the Continental Divide was impressive, but sad. After 12 days and 4,700 miles of traveling to and through the Rocky Mountains, our final pass between the Shoshone and Bridger Teton national forests in Wyoming meant we were headed home.

Yes, I missed my wife, my dog and my trees. I was growing tired of living out of a suitcase. But my longest trip in years was also my best. To spend almost two weeks in the beauty of the Rockies with your children is a rare privilege.

Jeff LAMPE

Where else can you watch bison shred lodgepole pines after seeing a 7x7 elk in velvet and two grown bears wrassling – all while being surrounded by snow-capped mountains?

Even given all that splendor, the boys were ready to come home. More than me. Oh, there was no temptation to stay west, but there is a temptation to go back. Often.

While we live in a fractured, divided country, beauty and wonder still abound in our 50 states. Much of the grandeur is out west, where the national parks, forests and monuments seems to stretch on forever.

Our trip took us through three national parks: Glacier, Yellowstone and Grand Teton. Each is very different and amazing in its own way.

Glacier is less developed, more rugged and not as accessible. Yellowstone is the smelliest, the grandest (in my view) and offers the best chance to see wildlife. The Tetons are spectacular “young mountains” but come with too many bike riders and commercial intrusions for my tastes.

My three boys each chose a different park as their favorite. When I go back it will be to see Yellowstone again and to hike the Mary Mountain-Nez Perce Trail. We saw few scars from this summer’s flooding, except for the closure of Lamar Valley, the so-called Serengeti of the United States due to its abundant wildlife. That was a shame.

Not that we lacked for critter sightings. Yellowstone’s Hayden Valley provided almost all we could want except for wolves or moose.

The last park we visited was the Tetons, where I read and re-read a plaque dedicated to Stephen Tyng Mather. I had never heard of Mather, though he was from Chicago and has a school there named after him. Seems he was a millionaire who became the first director of the National Park Service. The plaque, which is placed in national parks across the U.S., offers a memorable tribute:

“He laid the foundation of the National Park Service, defining and establishing the policies under which its areas shall be developed and conserved, unimpaired for future generations. There will never come an end to the good he has done.”

That last sentence has been in my mind often, particularly while visiting Mount Rushmore, which seemed small at first but grew in my estimation the longer we spent there.

“There never will come an end to the good” those men carved in granite have done, either. That’s worth remembering as we fight and fret about what our country is and whether our founding fathers made mistakes. They did. They also built a country so filled with natural beauty and freedom that it’s humbling.

We had worried that, after leaving the Rockies, the Black Hills of South Dakota would be a lackluster finale. How can hills compare with mountains? They can’t. Yet Custer State Park provided another memorable experience when a herd of bison decided to cross the road in front of us, halting traffic for nearly an hour. Later we learned that Needles Highway in the Black Hills is as scenic as any drive.

The next worry was that home would be a letdown after so much beauty. How can muddy creeks and corn and beans compete with clear, rock-strewn rivers and soaring snow-capped peaks? They can’t.

Still, driving home the other night after marveling at the height and colors of a prairie, I was stunned at how lush the corn and bean fields looked. Natural beauty is more subtle here than out west, for sure, but look hard enough and you’ll still find sights worthy of a smile.

Politicians like to keep the general public upset

To the Editor:

Randy Travis has a song with the title “Diggin up Bones.” One lyric is, “exhuming things better left alone.” Many people, including some politicians, love to dig up things in order to keep our general public upset and confused. For example, the recent events in Uvalde, Texas, and Highland Park immediately turned to racism and more gun-control laws.

These two subjects are continually dug up rather than addressing the real problem – which is evil. A recent Facebook post stated: “We will never create enough laws to control evil – Evil does not obey laws.”

The shooters in these events are full of evil. Regarding the young shooter in Uvalde, the question was asked: “Why is an 18-year-old boy allowed to purchase a gun?” Rather than asking this question, we should laud the 18-year-old boys and girls who legally own guns and have been taught to respect the weapon, respect life and have no desire to harm anyone.

We recently celebrated Memorial

Day and Independence Day. How many of us thought of the 18-year-old veterans who gave their lives to protect us during past and present wars? Thank God they knew how to fire a weapon and had no desire to harm anyone except in self-defense!

Many of us can recall the Oklahoma City bombing of April 19, 1995, when 168 people were killed and 759 were injured, including many children. No guns were involved but evil was the culprit!

Another recent bombing took place on Dec. 25, 2020, near the AT&T building in Nashville, Tenn. Thankfully, no one was harmed except the bomber. Again, no guns were involved, but evil caused the event through a troubled man.

No words can describe the pain suffered in events like these and no one wants anything like them to happen again. The only possible cure for this type of event, I believe, can be found in any Bible in 2 Chronicles 7:14-15. Mine states: “If my people who are called by my name will humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, I will hear from heaven and will forgive their sins and heal their land.”

The United States of America was founded as “One Nation Under God.” The above scripture is a good start for all of us.

GUEST VOICES

Always room for one more, sometimes two

Having twins is approximately as common in cattle (1/200) as it is in humans (1/250), if Mother Nature is left in charge. Also as in humans, twinning is often hereditary. That explains how we ended up with four sets of twins born in a herd of just under 100 cows this spring.

Back when we could rent pasture and ran 125 or more cows, we once had seven sets of twins born in one year. Amazingly, all survived. We put that whole lot of 7 cows and 14 calves down in the little pasture to form their own special herd. Any cows that are raising twins get lots of extra feed, so having them all in one place made that easier. It was quite the sight to see.

Jeanne HARLAND

Cows are programmed to have one calf. Some are confused if they have two, but most accept the extra baby with a shrug and "Whatever." However, I maintain that cows can distinguish the difference between one calf and two calves, but not between two calves and three. Cows seem to have distilled mathematics down to the concept of "one" and "more than one."

Dr. Temple Grandin's research into herd dynamics in cattle disproves my theory, however. She showed conclusively that cows are uncomfortable in a group of fewer than five. If cattle are loose, they will keep moving until they find other cattle. Once there are five in the group, they will stop and graze and just hang out like cows do.

This is, unfortunately, good information to have if you ever have to go looking for out cows, which we have had to do on an alarming number of occasions.

Still, based on my observations, it seems like some of our twin cows will tolerate having an extra guest for lunch. I can remember seeing five calves in that twin pasture circled around one cow at a time, all happily drinking milk. She must have had a supernumerary teat ... and a lot of patience.

This year we put the twins in the little house pasture, so I see them all day, every day. There are just three sets out there, as one twin had genetic abnormalities that did not allow it to survive more than a few days, sadly.

The cow and remaining twin are in the general population down in the big pasture. But there are six fine calves out front here: three black and three white. The oldest twins are both white. The youngest are both black, and the middle set is one of each.

The youngest set was born on a cold, wet, busy day at the height of calving season. Some may recall that Matt discovered an extra calf mingling with the pregnant cows and that there was confusion and consternation surrounding to whom it really belonged. We did our best to sleuth out the most likely cow to be its mom, but she never really took to it, since it had gotten all sorts of other cow smells affixed to it in its wanderings that morning.

Consequently, it learned quickly to nurse from behind the cow where she could not kick or butt at it. It was not surprising that it transferred that learning to its current situation, and soon I would see it nursing any of the three mom cows out there.

One cow is black with a white face, one is white-ish and one is a beautiful golden yellow, a genetic remnant of the Simmental breed we started our herd with almost 50 years ago.

Simmentals originated in Switzerland and are a large, sturdy breed prized for both meat and dairy production as well as being "hard-working, steady draft animals." We liked them because they were pretty. But the five we started with were also gentle and very productive. We kept the heifer calves and built our herd from them. All our cows trace back, one way or another, to those first five cows.

Of the three cows in our little house pasture, The Golden Cow most embodies those qualities, though we have not yet tried using her to pull anything. She also demonstrates my theory on bovine mathematics. She is the mother of one black and one white calf. Perhaps because she has one of each color, she allows any of the six calves to nurse her. We have seen as many as four calves at a time at her udder, two on each side.

No one has to sneak milk from behind The Golden Cow. She is everybody's mom.

She obviously makes plenty of milk, and I imagine it to be delicious, rich milk, the tastiest milk in the whole little pasture. Like many moms, especially those back in the olden days when I was a child, she welcomes all her offsprings' pals to share a meal at any time.

There's always room for one more and a way to stretch the food for all to enjoy. I can't help but think that these days it would behoove us all to be a little more like The Golden Cow.

BRIMFIELD: Substantial savings over time

The district couldn't handle the price Heinz Bus Co. of Brimfield wanted to charge. Shinall wasn't expecting a bid from Heinz, given the company had decided not to renew its student-transportation contract with the district. Shinall did expect bids from two other firms, but those never materialized.

In its five-year bid, Heinz offered to provide regular service for $450 per route per day in 2022-23, according to figures Shinall provided. That rate was to rise each year and reach $555 for 2026-27.

Most other specialty routes for the upcoming school year were to cost $200 daily and $247 by the end of the contract.

Rates for transportation to extra-curricular events were to start at $250 and increase to $305 by the fifth year. Wait times at destinations would range from $15 to $19 an hour for the length of the deal.

"That's not what the district wanted to spend," School Board President Steve Updyke said. "As stewards of our taxpayer dollars, we could not afford to spend that money."

The rates Heinz quoted did not include gasoline, for which the district was to pay.

After he reviewed the Heinz proposal, Shinall recommended the district do the transportation jobs itself.

"We had no choice," Updyke said.

In May, before the Heinz bid was reviewed, Shinall suggested in-house transportation creation might be a bit daunting. A few months later, Shinall sounded more optimistic.

"Things are starting to fall into place," he said. "We feel pretty confident."

Of almost 700 Brimfield students, about 400 take buses to and from school, according to Shinall. Under its recent proposal, Heinz would have provided buses and drivers, as it had previously.

Instead, the district is leasing 10 buses through Kankakee-based Midwest Transit Equipment Inc. The lease agreement is for three years. Annual cost is $18,258 per 71-passenger bus, according to documents the district provided. Midwest Transit is to provide maintenance.

Brimfield is responsible for hiring drivers. As of earlier this month, the district had hired seven drivers.

Many worked for Heinz, according to Shinall. His ideal number of drivers is 11 or 12, including substitutes.

In the 2021-22 academic year, Heinz operated eight regular routes, a mid-day route and a special-education route, the superintendent said. It's possible the Brimfield district might modify the routes, depending on the number of drivers.

"I don't think there's going to be much change at all, other than a route change or two here and there," Shinall said.

The district also hired a transportation coordinator, a new position. Among other duties, Matt Cox is to administer budgets, supervise drivers and monitor weather conditions that might result in school closings. Previously, Cox managed a Brimfield-based truck-repair service.

Shinall said he didn't yet feel confident in estimating start-up costs. But he and Updyke suggested that the in-house transportation program will save the district a substantial amount of money, particularly over time.

"The district office has been working hard behind the scenes, learning about transportation that we didn't know before," Shinall said. "We're excited. It's a chance for us to learn and a chance for us to grow."

Pritzker picks up COVID at Democrat gathering

By JERRY NOWICKI

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – Gov. JB Pritzker has tested positive for COVID-19 for a second time and is isolating at home, his office said Tuesday, three days after he spoke at a gathering of Democrats in Tampa, Fla.

Pritzker's press office said he is experiencing mild symptoms and has received the anti-viral medication Paxlovid, a drug that received Emergency Use Authorization from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in December for individuals at high risk to the effects of COVID-19.

The drug, according to clinical trials, reduced by 89 percent the risk of hospitalization and death.

Pritzker is also vaccinated against the virus and has received two booster shots, according to his office. The governor tested positive during "routine" testing after he arrived home from Florida having had several close contacts with other COVID-19-positive individuals at the gathering of Democrats.

Pritzker's office said he will work from home and follow the current U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidelines, which call for at least five days of isolation after the positive COVID-19 test, regardless of vaccination status.

The governor's first positive test came more than two years into the pandemic which first led him to issue a disaster declaration in March 2020.

PUBLIC RECORD

NOTE: Charges are merely an accusation. All suspects are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

Auto damages fence, mowers at Fliginger's

TRIVOLI – A fence, a pole and seven riding lawnmowers were damaged Monday at a Trivoli business when an automobile struck them after it left an adjacent highway.

The accident happened about 6 p.m. at Fliginger Equipment Inc., 18321 W. Farmington Rd.

According to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office, Ty N. Loveland of Peoria was driving a 2019 Ford Fusion east on Farmington Road when it left the pavement to the north after he looked down at the car radio. The car snapped the pole at its base and flattened a fence.

Mowers were flipped upside down or on their sides.

Loveland was transported to OSF Saint Francis Medical Center in Peoria for a minor facial cut that required stitches. The car sustained substantial front-end damage and was towed.

Sunflower pictures lead to burnt field and auto

BRIMFIELD – An automobile was destroyed when it caught fire while parked in a field at Jubilee College State Park, according to authorities.

The incident happened about 4:30 p.m. July 10 at Brimfield-Jubilee and Thousand Dollar roads.

According to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office, the 17-year-old driver of a 2006 Chevrolet Impala sedan drove into the field to take photographs of sunflowers. Then he smelled smoke, exited the car and saw brush underneath it was on fire.

Flames engulfed the car. A large patch of the field also was burned, according to a sheriff's report. Representatives of the Brimfield Community Fire Protection District told a deputy the car's hot muffler probably ignited dry vegetation.

Illinois Department of Conservation police also reported to the scene. No injuries were reported. What remained of the car was

Farmington man nabbed after alleged beating

FARMINGTON – Police arrested a Farmington man who was accused of beating the mother of his unborn child.

Remington R. Isbell, 19, was apprehended the night of July 12, according to Farmington Police Chief Chris Darsham. He was wanted in connection with an incident that took place between 5 and 6 a.m. July 7 at a residence in the 100 block of W. Pearl St. in Farmington.

Isbell appeared July 13 in Fulton County Circuit Court in Lewistown and was charged with domestic battery and aggravated battery. Bond was set at $10,000, of which Isbell had to pay $1,000 to be released, according to the circuit clerk's office.

As of Monday morning, Isbell was not being held at the Fulton County Jail, a sheriff's-office representative said. Isbell's next court date is July 27.

Police reports

• ELMWOOD – Someone tried to break into an apartment building in the 100 block of W. Main St. in Elmwood, according to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office.

The attempt took place between 7 p.m. July 4 and 6 p.m. July 5, an incident report stated. The entry door to a stairwell that leads to the only upper-level apartment was damaged. A deputy found tool marks at the door latch, and the latch plate was twisted and damaged.

Nobody entered the apartment, according to its resident. Damage was estimated at $400.

• FARMINGTON – A Farmington woman reported she might have been scammed online by someone attempting to sell puppies. The woman told police she messaged a Galesburg man on Facebook Marketplace about 8:30 p.m. July 7 about a dog whose listed price was $150. The woman stated she would send $75 via PayPal and pay the other half after she received the animal. The suspect provided an email address and a street address in Galesburg. The victim sent the money through an application that holds it until the buyer releases it. The suspect then demanded she send the full payment through another option that doesn't require a hold, a police report stated. When the woman tried to take a screenshot of the suspect's account, she found it had been deleted.

A Farmington officer advised his Galesburg colleagues about what happened and advised the victim to contact PayPal for a refund.

• FARMINGTON – Alicia L. Phillips, 31, of Farmington was arrested at 12:30 p.m. July 15 and accused of unlawful possession of a controlled substance and failure to appear in court, according to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office.

• ELMWOOD – Andrew W. Eberle, 30, of Elmwood was arrested about 2 p.m. July 16 and accused of operating an uninsured motor vehicle causing bodily harm, driving on a revoked license and driving 15-20 mph above the speed limit, among other crimes, according to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office.

CAMP GROVE – Heather M. Riley, 33, of Camp Grove was arrested about 10 a.m. July 13 and accused of aggravated battery against a nurse, among other crimes, according to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office.

• FARMINGTON – Cameron B. Snider, 24, of Peoria was cited for possession of adult-use cannabis in the passenger area of a motor vehicle following a traffic stop about 12:30 a.m. July 8 on Fort Street in Farmington. Carrie A. Snider, 45, of Hanna City was cited for not having a registration light on her vehicle. She was the driver and is Cameron Snider's mother, according to the Farmington Police Department.

ELMWOOD – The Elmwood School Board held a short meeting Monday night highlighted by a rosy review of Fiscal Year 2022.

Superintendent Chad Wagner reported that this is the eighth straight year the Elmwood district has ended with a positive fund balance.

Wagner said Elmwood accrued $621,071.86 in Operational Funds this year, but noted that includes unusual and unexpected funding from the federal government related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

“It’s a good thing we have our reserves in the face of all the increases and inflation right now,” Wagner said.

The only business conducted in the five-minute meeting was approval of the consent agenda, which covered the following:

- Hiring of Dee Hanlon as part-time learning loss specialist for 55 days at a salary of $17,140.75 for the 2022-23 school year.
- Hiring of Lynne Breitbarth as an elementary aide at a rate of $15 per hour for 2022-23.
- Approving volunteer coaches: Golf – Kenny Blum and Dianne Burwell; Football – Tommy Bowers, Kevin Faulkner, Ty Kenney, Mike Walker and Brady Westart; Spirit squad – Sarah Christy; Boys cross country – Tom Gorham and Mike Sullivan; Boys and girls track – Sullivan; High school marching band – Eric Yarbrough; Trap shooting – Kevin Brugger and Chris Milliman; 5th-6th grade girls basketball – Seth Hart, Josh Begner, Grant Strom and Jeremy Anderson.

Junior-Senior High School Principal Tony McCoy reported that on-line registration is open through July 31.

Upcoming dates of note were also highlighted, including the following:

Farmington OKs surplus sale, TIF agreement

By JEFF LAMPE

For The Weekly Post

FARMINGTON – The Farmington City Council approved selling some excess equipment, welcoming a popular student activity back to Jacobs Park and a new TIF agreement during a short meeting Monday night.

Katrina Haggard made a presentation on behalf of the End Zone Program in regards to holding events at Jacobs Park after home football games this season. Home games are Sept. 2, Sept. 16, Oct. 7 and Oct. 21. The council agreed to allow use of the park.

Haggard also earned the council’s nod to smash a junk car and have a bonfire at the park after the Oct. 7 homecoming game, something she said is “bringing back an old tradition.”

“I have a goal to bring back spirit in our high school,” Haggard said. “My goal is to bring back pep rallies, to paint the walls of the school purple and gold and to have the community want to paint the town purple and gold.”

Surplus property to be sold includes several vehicles, some bicycles and other pieces of equipment. Details will be available online and will be printed in The Weekly Post starting July 28.

Council members also voted in favor of a TIF redevelopment agreement with Lozier Oil Company, Inc. Lozier plans to construct a 10,000-square-foot building on its property to be used as a commercial repackaging facility. Lozier said it will initially employ 8-10 new workers to help run four bottling lines in the new building.

The city has agreed to reimburse Lozier up to $200,000 in real estate tax revenue from 2023-2038. Reimbursement is based on 75 percent of the annual “net” incremental increase in real estate tax revenues generated by Lozier’s project.

The council also heard that repainting of the pavilion at Jacobs Park has been delayed until some carpentry repairs can be completed.

During its July 5 meeting, the council approved $245,408 in road work, with $245,408 to come from MFT funds and $100,000 from the TIF. Roads that will be milled and overlaid are East Central Street from South Main Street to South Cone Street; West Vernon Street from South Main Street to South Wall Street; and West Cedar Street from West Fort Street to West Fulton Street.

The council also appointed Herb Stufflebeam to the Cemetery Board and gave approval to the police department to purchase body cameras from Digital Ally. Cost for a five-year plan is $52,660, which includes hardware, licenses and freight.

State police broaden review of FOID cards

By PETER HANCOCK

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – The Illinois State Police announced Monday they will start using a broader definition of what constitutes a “clear and present danger” when reviewing a person’s Firearm Owners Identification card.

That’s a factor ISP considers when deciding whether to grant someone a FOID card or to revoke or suspend a card that has already been issued.

The change is meant to address gaps in the process that were identified in the wake of the July 4 mass shooting in Highland Park. The alleged shooter in that case had been the subject of a clear and present danger investigation, but under standards used at that time, ISP determined there was insufficient evidence to support such a determination.

Under current law, known as the Firearm Owners Identification Card Act, ISP can deny a FOID card application or suspend or revoke an existing card for any person deemed to be a clear and present danger of harming themselves or someone else.

Under that statute, a physician, clinical psychologist or other qualified examiner can classify someone as a clear and present danger if he or she “communicates a serious threat of physical violence against a reasonably identifiable victim or poses a clear and imminent risk of serious physical injury to himself, herself, or another person.”

A person can also be classified as a clear and present danger if they demonstrate “threatening physical or verbal behavior such as violent, suicidal, or assaultive threats, actions or other behavior, as determined by a physician, clinical psychologist, qualified examiner, school administrator, or law enforcement official.”

That law requires physicians, clinical psychologists, law enforcement officers and school administrators to promptly report any such behavior to ISP.

In 2013, however, ISP filed administrative rules that provide a stricter, more limiting definition. Those rules defined a clear and present danger as someone who poses “an actual, impending, or imminent threat of substantial bodily harm to themselves or another person that is articulable and significant or who will be likely to act in a manner dangerous to public safety or contrary to the public interest if they were granted access to a weapon.”

ISP said the new rules announced Monday will revert to the original, statutory definition, allowing them to consider a broader range of information.

The 2013 rule also prohibited ISP from maintaining report records of people who are not determined to be a clear and present danger. The new rules would require ISP to maintain those records.

ISP adopted the new definitions through what are known as “emergency rules.” That’s allowed under state law when an agency determines it needs to take swift action to protect public interest, safety or welfare. But those rules are still subject to review by the General Assembly’s Joint Committee on Administrative Rules (JCAR), whose next meeting is Aug. 17.

ISP said it also plans to submit the changes to JCAR in the form of permanent rules.

ISP took the rulemaking action in response to the July 4 shooting in Highland Park after authorities announced the local police department had several interactions with the alleged Highland Park gunman that predated his application for a FOID card. ISP did not judge any of those interactions as disqualifying for firearm ownership under the previous administrative rules.

In September 2019, according to ISP, the Highland Park Police Department filed a clear and present danger report regarding the man who is now the suspect in the July 4 mass shooting, Robert Crimo III. The report indicated Crimo had made threats to his family.

When police went to Crimo’s house, both he and his mother denied there had been any threat of violence and Crimo told police he did not feel like hurting himself or others. The reviewing officer concluded there was insufficient evidence, under the standards in place, to support a clear and present danger determination.

At the time of that incident, Crimo had not applied for a FOID card. Roughly three months later, he did apply for a FOID card and, because he was only 19, his father sponsored his application.

When his application was reviewed in January 2020, according to ISP, there was insufficient information to deny his application on the basis that he posed a clear and present danger.

Keep tending your phlox for best results

By RON DIETER

For The Weekly Post

As I grow older the leash on my mind gets longer and longer and my thoughts wander into strange territory.

I remember one Christmas at church the congregation was singing, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night." My mind, on one of its typical excursions, pictured the shepherds sitting near their garden, hoes at their sides, admiring their garden phlox in the evening light.

Of course that's ridiculous. For one thing, phlox are native to North America, except for one distant Siberian cousin. The North American natives had not yet invaded gardens across the pond, so the shepherds had staffs and flocks, not hoes and phlox.

Phlox are popular garden plants, especially the tall phlox, because of the large, brilliantly colored long-lasting flowers, some painful to the eye. And when tended with a timely shearing they can provide a flower show for a long time.

From a gardener's point of view there are three categories of phlox—Low-growing sun lovers, short shade lovers, and tall sun-loving garden phlox. Within each of these categories are a number of species that are good garden performers when properly sited.

Phlox subulata is commonly called creeping phlox, which is incorrect and instead refers to another species. The correct common name is moss phlox. Moss phlox grows six inches high at most and spreads into a two-foot wide mat. Its needle-like foliage is almost completely obscured by a blanket of flowers in early spring. Depending upon cultivar, flowers can be red, pink, white, or lavender blue. You often see it used as an edger at the front of a sunny garden border.

The real creeping phlox is Phlox stolonifera, a short, shade-loving species. Creeping phlox is so named because it spreads by underground stolons, forming a mat of leafy foliage just three inches tall. The mat can become sizable if situated in moist, well-drained humus-rich soil. In early spring it sends up leafless antennae topped off with lovely blue flowers. I consider this phlox to be a real garden gem, looking good in and out of flower.

Phlox divaricata, woodland phlox, is another shade-lover on the short side. Growing about a foot tall and wide, woodland phlox thrives in bright shade. The plant seeds out readily so in the woods you'll find colonies of lavender-blue phlox in May. I'm lucky to have several stands in the woods around our home. In your garden you might not appreciate its procreative habit so just shear off the flowers when the blooming show is over.

In the tall, sun-loving category, there are a number of garden-worthy phlox species, the most common being Phlox paniculata, the tall phlox. You'll find at least one cultivar of tall phlox in most perennial borders because of their large colorful flower clusters.

Tall phlox, sometimes called garden phlox or border phlox, grow two to five feet tall and two feet wide, great plants for the back of a perennial border. Large clusters of flowers appear atop the plants sometime from July to September depending on cultivar. Colors available range from pure white to bright pink, and various shades of red, purple and orange. Some colors, to my eye, are harsh.

Deadheading can prolong the blooming time and prevent reseeding. On an established clump, you can also prolong bloom time by pruning the front half of the plant down about half in June. Then the back will bloom first, followed by the front half a couple weeks later.

A common problem with tall phlox is mildew on the foliage. Some cultivars are extremely susceptible. If the phlox are behind other plants in the border, the mildew is not as distracting, but it's best to try to minimize the conditions conducive to mildew.

Be a good shepherd to your phlox. Plant only mildew-resistant varieties. Provide plenty of space for air circulation. Situate them in soil that is rich in organic matter and moist but not wet. Give them a drink during dry spells but avoid wetting the foliage.

Some mildew-resistant varieties to look for are P. 'David', a pure white, P. 'Goliath', with violet flowers with a white eye, and P. 'Orange Perfection', with fragrant salmon-orange flowers.

Farmington board OKs personnel moves

FARMINGTON – The Farmington School Board approved several person decision at its July 11 meeting.

The board approved:

- Transferring Allison Smith from the junior high music department to the high school.

- Hiring Joseph Maske as a high school English teacher.

- Volunteer football coaches Kaleb Plattenberger, Zach Lozier, Aaron Kennelly, Beau Foiles and Jeff Flater.

- The resignation of Jade Sewell, Allison Mott, Rebecca Myers and Ronda Wiesbrock.

In other action, the board also accepted bids from Alpha Baking (bread) and Prairie Farms (milk) and approved an agreement with the Canton YMCA for before- and after-care for the 2022-23 school year.

Senior Kyleigh Carpenter was named the student school board member.

The board also heard a presentation from Athletic Director Jeff Otto and Coach Jacob Durbin about expanding wrestling offerings in the district.

At the June meeting, the board agreed to a one-year contract with Heart Technologies for $6,695 per month to handle some technology-related matters.

“We signed on with Heart to ensure our network and servers were receiving the best of service and oversight,” Superintendent Zac Chatterton said. “We looked around at other options but in the end felt that Heart Technologies could meet our needs the best. They had been providing our network backup and some on site services. This will expand those services for this coming school year. We still have our own staff on site for the everyday tech needs of the district.”

In June, the board also agreed to pay Helm Mechanical $369,334 to replace a chiller unit at the school.

Brian R. Parm

ELMWOOD – Brian Robert Parm, 53, of Elmwood, passed away on Friday, July 15, 2022, at the Richard L. Owens Hospice Home in Peoria.

He was born on April 12, 1969, in Oklahoma City, Okla., to his parents, Kenneth and Marianne (Geber) Parm. He married Julie Coulter on July 9, 2010, and she survives. Brian will be remembered by his father, Kenneth Parm; siblings, Rick (Lori) Parm, Linda Whitfield, Kenny Parm and Beth (Larry) Jones; his children, Jesse Parm, Jarrod Zumwalt and Jackson Parm; stepchildren, Danielle Ford, Nicole (Joey) Boggs and Jesse (Olivia) Coffey; six grandchildren, Joey, Kyrie, Harper, Jerald, Malani and Dakota; and several nieces, and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his mother; and both sets of maternal, and paternal grandparents.

He was an avid motorcyclist, and auto repairman.

He took great pride in his show bike – a Suzuki Hayabusa – and participated in many bike shows. He loved working on vehicles (even though to him a lot of vehicles were “a piece of junk”), and could have talked anyone through working on vehicles over the phone after his eyesight and strength failed him.

Since December 2015, Brian’s health has not been the best. Many days were spent in the hospital, at doctor’s visits, or in his chair or bed fighting the chronic illnesses that he had. There were multiple times that he would be standing at the kitchen sink exercising to strengthen his legs and arms. During these years he loved going out to eat (when able) just to visit with people.

Cremation has been accorded. Memorial services will be held at a later date.

Schmidt-Haller Burial and Cremation Services is in charge of arrangements.

Per Jeane’s wishes, there will be no services, and cremation rites will be accorded through Sedgwick Funeral Homes & Crematory. Burial of ashes will take place in Greenwood Cemetery at a later date.

State offers IRAP deer hunting opportunities

SPRINGFIELD – The Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) is accepting applications from youth shotgun and youth and adult archery hunters for fall 2022 deer hunting on private land through the Illinois Recreational Access Program.

IDNR has leased more than 16,400 acres of private land for the fall 2022 deer season through IRAP, creating 380 public access deer hunting sites in 42 counties. Sites are available during the youth shotgun period in October and for archery deer hunting in October and the latter half of December. There is no cost for participants.

Applications are accepted online only and must be submitted by 5 p.m. on Aug. 10. Hunters may submit up to three IRAP deer hunting applications per year, one for each hunting period. Applications for IRAP youth shotgun deer hunting sites can be found online at bit.ly/IRAPyouthshotgun. Applications for IRAP youth and adult deer hunting sites can be found at bit.ly/IRAParchery.

Deer hunting on IRAP-leased property is offered during the following:

- Youth shotgun: Oct. 8-10.
- Youth and adult archery: Period 1: Oct. 1-15; Period 2: Oct. 16-31; Period 3: Dec. 16-31.

To participate, youth hunters must not have reached their 18th birthday by the first day of the hunting period, and they must be accompanied by an adult at least 21 years old.

Adult archery deer hunters must be at least 18 by the start of the archery deer period for which they're applying. All adult hunters born in 1980 or later must have completed an IDNR-approved hunter education course and must have an Illinois hunting license and a valid IDNR archery deer hunting permit for the county in which they're applying to hunt.

Successful applicants will be notified by mail about three weeks prior to their assigned hunting period, upon which they will receive a map with coordinates, driving directions and an IRAP site permit allowing them to hunt on their assigned, privately owned hunting site.

IRAP is funded through a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. To date, IRAP has leased more than 27,000 acres to offer public access opportunities such as turkey, archery deer, youth shotgun deer, small game, waterfowl, upland bird hunting, and fishing.

For information, visit bit.ly/IDNR_irap or email dnr.irap@illinois.gov.

• Waterfowl blinds – Waterfowl hunting blind drawings will take place at several public hunting areas in Illinois the last weekend of July.

Duck and goose hunters must register in person for waterfowl blind site drawings and must be present during the drawing at each designated location immediately after the registration period to claim blind sites. Blind allocations are good for one year.

To participate in a drawing, applicants must present a 2021 or 2022 regular Illinois hunting license; a 2021 or 2022 Illinois Migratory Waterfowl Stamp at the time they register, unless exempted by law; and a valid photo identification. Applicants must be at least 16 years old.

Registrants are no longer required to possess a valid FOID card to participate.

Registration is 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for the following local blind drawings on Sunday, July 31: Anderson Lake State Fish and Wildlife Area, Marshall SFWA (register at the area check station, five miles south of Lacon on Illinois 26), Rice Lake SFWA, Sanganois SFWA, Spring Lake SFWA and Woodford SFWA.

SPORTS: E-B adds El Paso-Gridley to 2023 schedule

The small-school division will include Princeville, R-W, Stark County, Abingdon-Avon, Annawan-Wethersfield, Havana, Rushville-Industry, South Fulton and Monmouth United.

Gullstrand is one of several coaches happy to be paired with teams that have similar enrollment figures.

“Obviously you’re kind of seeing a trend of small schools heading to 8-man football. One reason is you’re playing schools with 200-300 more kids in them and inevitably you can’t compete with them,” Gullstrand said. “Hopefully this is one of the ways we can keep small schools playing 11-man football.”

E-B and Farmington will be in the large-school division along with Mercer County, Illini West, Knoxville, Lewistown-North Fulton, Macomb and West Hancock.

With one crossover against a school from the small division, that will leave the large schools needing to find just one non-conference game each year. E-B has scheduled a two-year home-and-away series with El Paso-Gridley to fill its schedule, while Farmington has added Tuscola.

Vallas said the hope moving forward is that will be only game large-school teams have to “find” each year. And if another team drops out of the new league?

“Worst-case scenario is that you’d just have to find another team to schedule,” Vallas said. “At least this gives us a plan. It’s the best you can do at this time. You can’t plan for chaos, but you can try.”

Area girls make all-ICAC softball team

Hunt and Maddy Nelson of ROWVA/Williamsfield.

ICAC second-teamers were Ella Florey and Marissa Unes of B-E and Avery Rigg of R-W.

Few changes in football skeds

Princeville, ROWVA-Williamsfield add new foes

By JEFF LAMPE

For The Weekly Post

The major changes for local football teams come next year, when the Prairieland and Lincoln Trail conferences will join forces in a football-only league that is scheduled to include 17 teams.

For this fall, though, the schedules released last week by the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) look very similar to last fall (Schedules, Page 19).

Slates for Elmwood-Brimfield and Farmington are unchanged, except for home and away switches.

And just like last year, E-B Coach Todd Hollis sees three standouts on the schedule: Rushville-Industry, Macomb and Farmington.

“Rushville, he has that going pretty well and I think they’re going to be a perennial playoff team. Macomb has a three-year starter at quarterback, running back and receiver, so they will be good. And then there’s Farmington,” Hollis said. “Those are definitely the three that jump off the schedule.”

LTC members Princeville and ROWVA-Williamsfield have added new foes, though, to make up for the loss of Ridgewood, which is switching to eight-man football. Ridgewood, the coop of Cambridge and AlWood, anticipated having a combined 14 juniors and seniors and finished 0-9 last year.

Princeville has added a Saturday, Oct. 15, road game in Melrose Park against Walther Christian Academy, an independent school which finished 3-6 last season and has an enrollment of 224 students.

R-W added a Sept. 3 home game against Dupo, a member of the Cahokia Conference in southern Illinois that last year finished 3-5 and has an enrollment of 258 students. The Cougars also end up with six home games on the schedule this year.

That’s welcome news for Coach Grant Gullstrand, who expects to have 48 players and 13 seniors out when practice opens Aug. 8.

Numbers are also solid for Farmington and E-B.

Coach Todd Hollis anticipates a turnout of 62 players, up from 42 at season’s end last year. That’s due to a big freshman class and to picking up nine upperclassmen who did not play last year.

“I think that’s a good sign if we’re picking up kids who didn’t play before,” Hollis said. “And they are guys who are also playing other sports, so they’re athletes.”

Hollis said there is also an outside chance the Trojans will be a Class 2A team this year and a very good chance that will be the case in 2023.

Farmington has 91 signed up to play, including 14 seniors and a very large freshman class, Coach Toby Vallas said.

Vallas and Farmington Athletic Director Jeff Otto played a major role in setting up the new conference, which will usher in sweeping changes for the 2023 season. The new league is expected to be called the Lincoln Trail-Prairieland Conference and will have two separate divisions based on enrollment.
