Statewide building codes advancing through legislature

By JERRY NOWICKI and NIKA SCHOONOVER

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – Lawmakers went on a two-week spring break last week with more than 700 bills already passed in at least one chamber of the General Assembly.

They return to Springfield on April 18 for a final one-month stretch in which the measures can be amended, defeated or sent to the governor.

Among the bills to successfully move to the other chamber are a measure to lift the state's 1987 moratorium on nuclear power plant construction, a bill that would create statewide building codes and another requiring retail establishments to accept cash payments within certain hours.

Statewide building codes

Beginning in 2025, Illinois could have statewide building codes for new or substantially renovated commercial and residential construction under a bill that passed the Senate before break

Sponsored by Dave Koehler, D-Peoria, Senate Bill 2368 allows the state's Capital Development Board to prohibit occupation of such a facility until it is inspected. The building would have to be compliant with several state or federal building codes for electricity, energy efficiency, accessibility, and plumbing, as well as the Fire Investigation Act.

"Basically, what this does is establishes a statewide building code as a minimum standard," Koehler said during floor debate. "Now most communities are going to have well above the minimum standard. But the reason that this is important is because Illinois is one of only six states in the union that does not have a statewide building code."

Koehler said when Illinois has a natural disaster and applies for funding from the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the state has to check a box noting it doesn't currently have such a code.

"And so it costs us money," he said.

The bill would require municipalities with existing building codes to adopt at least the newly created statewide minimum standard and submit their plans to the state. A homeowner renovating a residential property in a jurisdiction without a building code would have to adopt the code of any jurisdiction within 100 miles of the construction in the contract with their builder.

Otherwise, it would have to comply with the new statewide standards, which apply to new construction and any renovations that increase the property's value by 50 percent or more.

Republicans questioned whether a statewide code would be enforceable in smaller towns.

"It's up to a municipality as to how they want to enforce it," Koehler said. "The Capital Development Board is responsible for having organizations say that they're, you know, what codes they have and all that. In terms of who enforces that? I don't know."

DROUGHT DELIVERY

Donated hay helps Texas ranchers

By TAMMIE SLOUP

Loretta Hall said one word came to mind as she and husband, John, watched a semi loaded with 21 bales of hay approach their cattle ranch in northwest Texas.

"Hallelujah!"

The donated load traveled 900 miles from Fulton County, and just in the nick of time.

Located in the Texas Panhandle, the Halls' 150-cow ranch hadn't seen an inch of rain in 10 months. John said he tried to conserve as much hay as possible as demand is high in his drought-stricken area, as are prices.

Soil key to gardens

DIY testing of your dirt is an option

By RON DIETERFor The Prairie News

I confess that I've never tested the soils of gardens I have planted in my lifetime, even though the experts say the first step to successful gardening is to test the soil. I've always been blessed with rich black soil and never felt the need for testing.

The list of garden characteristics you can test for is a long one. Besides the usual tests for mineral nutrients such as potassium (K) and phosphorus (P), there are tests for texture, organic matter, drainage, tilth, trace elements, heavy metals and microbial activity.

Some tests you can do yourself with supplies found in your kitchen or underwear drawer. Others are best done by a professional laboratory. University experts recommend sending soil samples to a lab rather than using do-it-yourself test kits for garden nutrients. Home test kits often require some basic knowledge in lab techniques to avoid sample contamination.

I've gone online to find and compare soil-test laboratories. It's a bewildering endeavor. Prices range from $6 to more than $90 per sample.

Most independent professional labs are geared more to serve farmers rather than gardeners. University-operated labs are more likely to extend the service to homeowners. A

LEGISLATURE: Cash acceptance mandate

"In Metcalf, Illinois, they don't have anybody to mow the lawn, okay, let alone inspect a house," Rose said. "But more importantly, you're telling an awful lot of people who couldn't afford to repair and maintain their home in the first place that we just doubled or tripled the bill."

The measure passed 34-18 with one present vote and it awaits action in the House.

Cash requirements

Lawmakers advanced a bill that would mandate retail establishments to accept cash for purchases under $750. Senate Bill 1979 passed 40-16 in the Senate with mainly Democratic support.

Sen. Omar Aquino, D-Chicago, is the bill's lead sponsor. He said SB 1979 is aimed at protecting "underbanked and unbanked" people who only carry cash.

"This bill is making sure that those folks ... have an ability to still purchase needed things," Aquino said.

The bill also says retail establishments can't charge a higher price to customers paying with cash. SB 1979 also exempts restaurants, gas stations and grocery stores from the requirement between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. to protect against robbery.

"It goes directly into trying to keep people safe," Aquino said of the time exemption. "Businesses are accepting cash, we're just trying to get ahead of the trend that looks like more locations are going for a noncash payment."

Debate on the measure centered around the question of accessibility versus safety, with Republican opponents arguing that mandating businesses to accept cash was putting them at risk.

"What I'm concerned about is the small businessman who operates in an area that he's worried about theft, or he's worried about robbery, and he chooses how he runs his business to operate in a certain area," said Sen. Jil Tracy, R-Quincy.

The bill also notes that retailers are not required to accept any denomination of currency larger than a $20 bill.

A violation could result in a $50 fine for the retail establishment, $100 for a second offense in a 12-month period or $500 for a third offense during that period.

Nuclear construction ban

Gov. JB Pritzker noted last week that he's generally supportive of the concept of lifting the nuclear construction ban, although he didn't commit to signing the proposal contained in Senate Bill 76, which passed on a 39-13 bipartisan roll call.

Pritzker said he is supportive of allowing for the construction of small modular nuclear reactors, which are small-scale generators that could be used to power individual factories or for other uses.

He said he didn't think doing so would be contradictory to the Climate and Equitable Jobs Act that he signed in 2021. Some environmentalists have opposed lifting the nuclear ban due to the dangers associated with nuclear waste.

SB 76, as written, would allow any type of nuclear construction, including large-scale projects.

SOIL: Underwear can help test biological activity

The Soil Testing Laboratory of the University of Kentucky will provide a routine soil test with recommendations for $6 per sample. The lab will also test for organic-matter content, which I recommend, for an additional $5.

There are other tests you can perform for yourself. Washington State University suggests a few. You can test a soil's texture simply by rubbing soil between your fingers. A gritty feeling tells you the soil is sandy and you should select plants that prefer sandy and drier con-

A sticky feeling indicates soil is clay and needs to be amended with compost. Silty soil will feel smooth.

Gather a handful of damp soil and give it a good squeeze. Open your hand and the soil should stay together in a clump. If it falls apart or breaks up when poked with your finger, the soil is coarse textured. Clay soils, on the other hand, resist breaking apart. Adding organic matter to these will improve soil texture and structure.

If you suspect your garden has a drainage problem, you can measure the drainage rate by digging a hole a foot deep and filling it with water. When it empties, immediately fill it again. Ideally the water level should drop two inches in an hour, a sign of good drainage. Less than an inch in an hour indicates poor drainage.

You can do a rough test of soil pH in your kitchen using vinegar, baking soda and distilled water. Into each of two containers place a teaspoon of garden soil. In the first container pour a half-cup of vinegar. If the mixture fizzes, the soil is alkaline with a pH somewhere between seven and eight. Adding sulfur will reduce pH but can take months to have an ef-

If there is no fizzing action, test for acidity by adding enough distilled water to the soil in the second container to make a thick muddy slurry. Then add a half-cup of baking soda. If this mixture fizzes, your soil is acidic with a pH between five and six.

Applying limestone to the garden will adjust the pH upwards. Naturally, if there is dead silence in both containers, the soil is neutral with a pH about

Washington State's underwear test for biological activity is most interesting. Bury a new pair of 100 percent cotton briefs under six inches of garden soil. Mark the location with flags or stakes and wait two months. Then dig up the briefs. If all that's left is the waistband, congratulations. You've got good biological activity in your soil.

The university folks make no mention as to why the shorts have to be new or why they have to be briefs. I'm no expert but I suspect good ol' used cotton boxers would work just as well.

Well-hidden calves provide a spring surprise

Late one Sunday afternoon, AJ and I drove to the Other Place to check on the cows there and to dump some brush in the gully along the pasture. It was still over a week before the main herd was due to start calving.

Three cows had been placed in the little house pasture with the bulls due to space constraints and the need to provide them with extra feed ("They're nursing twins. There's no way they'll get bred.") and were all nuzzling their now nearly two-weekold calves just in-

It was crisp and breezy and, after being overcast most of the day, the sun was emerging from behind the clouds just in time to set, casting long side the gate.

shadows across the pasture. The cows, other than the three early calvers, were poking around in the timber we call the frog pond. We pushed the brush out then drove to the far end of the pasture.

"Can you drive along the fence?" I

I always like the timber, especially in early spring. And for some reason, I felt especially keen to see it now.

He obliged and drove slowly along the rickety fenceline. With my window down I had a good view and could see cows looking for blades of early grass on the far side of the bowl-shaped timber. Then I saw something else.

"Stop!" I flung my door open and bailed out. "There's a calf!"

Curled up in a big bramble patch was a tiny black calf. There was no cow anywhere nearby. AJ hmmmed a little and we drove slowly on.

"Stop! There's another calf!" Now he got out of the truck with me, looking in every direction for the mamas to these babies, perhaps momentarily ruing his decision not to haul the cows home for another few days. This calf was tucked out of the wind next to a fallen tree. It was bigger than the first, but clearly these calves had been birthed within the last few hours.

We drove on to the gate and opted to walk back into the timber to approach the sleeping calves in the hope their moms would see us and come claim them. Both calves were sparkling clean and well cared for and both seemed content.

Mama cows have strong instincts. They will not divulge the location of their babies until they feel they must go protect them. They are good at stashing them, as these two were, in safe, sheltered spots. We were just a few feet from the bigger calf when we saw a big black cow striding purposefully in our direction. Oh, good. Here comes one mom.

I moved on to the smaller calf, still tucked deep in the brambles. Once the cow arrived, AJ stepped aside and she nuzzled the snoozing calf.

We moved as close to the little calf as we dared without causing it to jump up and bolt. By now the entire herd had arrived to offer assistance. Cows quickly join forces to protect any baby from a predator, and these girls were on stand-by. We were certain the second mom would soon show up to claim her calf.

I wriggled ungracefully under the sagging barbed wire of the fence while AJ eased through a gap in the wires. We stepped a few paces away and waited. Sensing no real threat, the cows milled around, nibbling rare sprigs of green they could find. One pretty yellow cow nosed around the little calf but was interested only in grass and soon moved away. None paid any attention to the little critter.

The sun was rapidly sinking, as were our spirits. Walking back to the truck, we mulled our two choices. Neither was good. We could leave the little calf alone and hope it survived the night, or we could take the calf and risk the cow panicking about not being able to find the calf before finally no claiming it.

By the time we drove back to babyland, the big black cow had her calf up and was grooming it vigorously. We reviewed our options. Then the bramble patch calf bleated. Ah. That should bring Mom #2 on the run. We watched. Nope. It bleated again. Still no movement. A third, more insistent bleat finally elicited a reaction ... from the cow with the other calf. She looked at the bleating calf with a mixture of surprise and annoyance. We looked at each other. Of course. These were twins.

Momcow slowly approached the bramble-patch calf. We were still conflicted about what to do. Then she mooed softly to the calf and nuzzled it to its feet. We sighed in relief. This was an older, experienced cow. She had proven she cared for both twins. The rest of the herd was nearby and settling in for the night. We would leave them alone.

The next morning, AJ and Matt hauled the trio home. They put them in the little house pasture with two young Horsely bulls we'd recently purchased. The frisky bulls initially chased the calves around the pasture, but by afternoon they had all settled down. Now the calves snuggle up to them in the sun, with only their red ear tags discernible against the velvety black bellies of the bulls. In the evening the two twin bulls race across the pasture with the Horsely bulls running and bucking behind them while the cow just shakes her head at their antics. And no, of course she won't be having a calf in

February. She's nursing twins. BEEF STICKY BUNS

A twist on cinnamon buns, these savory buns get a protein boost from homemade beef breakfast sausage and plenty of veggies. INGREDIENTS:

- 2 cups beef breakfast sausage (recipe follows)
- 1 cup sliced button mushrooms
- 3/4 cup diced onion • 3 cups fresh baby spinach
- 1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 package (13.8 ounces) refrigerated pizza dough
- 1/2 cup jalapeño pepper jelly, warmed (optional) or cream cheese "frosting" (optional, recipe follows)

Prepare breakfast sausage. Set aside 2 cups sausage mixture in large bowl; reserve remaining sausage for another use. Add mushrooms and onions to same skillet sprayed with cooking spray over medium heat; cook 5-7 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally. Add spinach to skillet; stir to wilt. Add vegetable mixture to beef; set aside 20-25 minutes or until mixture is cooled completely, stirring occasionally. Stir in cheese.

Beef Breakfast Sausage: Combine 1 pound ground Beef (93% lean or leaner), 2 teaspoons chopped fresh sage or 1/2 teaspoon rubbed sage, 1 teaspoon garlic powder, 1 teaspoon onion powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper in large bowl, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Heat large nonstick skillet over medium high heat until hot. Add sausage mixture; cook 8-10 minutes, breaking into 1/2-inch crumbles and stirring occasionally.

Preheat oven to 425°F. Unroll pizza dough on flat surface; pat or roll evenly to 14x10-inch rectangle, pinching together any tears. Spread sausage mixture on dough, leaving 1/2-inch border on short side furthest from you. Starting at closest short end, roll up jelly-roll style, pinching to close. Slice dough into 8 pieces using careful sawing motion; place cut-side-up on greased baking sheet.

Bake in 425°F oven 18-20 minutes or until golden brown. Remove buns to cooling rack. While still warm, drizzle with melted jalapeño pepper jelly, if desired.

Warm jelly in 1-cup glass measure. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH 45-60 seconds or until melted, stirring once. Let stand 30 seconds.

Cream Cheese "Frosting": Combine 1/4 cup softened cream cheese and 1 tablespoon milk in small bowl, stirring until smooth. Drizzle over warmed beef buns.

Pipeline risks to be discussed in Bishop Hill

BISHOP HILL – The Coalition to Stop CO2 Pipelines is hosting a free program Sunday, April 16, at 1 p.m., at 309 N. Bishop Hill St. in Bishop Hill to provide information about the proposed CO2 Wolf Carbon Solutions/ADM Mt. Simon Hub pipeline.

The Mt. Simon Hub is a pipeline proposed for construction in Illinois. It would carry high pressure CO2 from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, toward Peoria and on to Macon County. It is the second CO2 pipeline to make its way to Illinois. If approved, both CO2 pipelines would pass through Henry and Knox counties.

The coalition will explain how CO2 pipelines differ from oil and gas pipelines. Members will discuss the dangers of CO2 pipeline ruptures. Illinois farmers will share how pipelines permanently damage soil, sever tiles and reduce crop production.

The clinic will feature a one-hour overview and product demonstration on the essential products, feed and everyday animal care and best practices that are crucial to keeping your animal in the best position to find success this summer. The clinic is open to all area youth seeking guidance in project management and show day best practices.

Sign up by April 17 to participate at go.illinois.edu/SwineClinic2023 or call the Illinois Extension office at (309) 756-9978. If you need a reasonable accommodation to participate, contact Mercer County 4-H program coordinator Tracy Fowler Pestle at (309) 513-3100.

Better Banks contest

PEORIA – Better Banks has announced a new contest for high school seniors who plan to continue their education in the fall. The Dorm Room Makeover Contest encourages students to earn entries by managing their bank accounts using digital banking from Better Banks.

Winners will be selected in a random drawing for $1,000 and another for $500 from all entries collected from April 10 to July 31.

IHSA reducing license fees for game officials

BLOOMINGTON – The Illinois High School Association approved two changes to its officials licensing process geared toward trying to recruit more new officials and to retain officials who are currently licensed.

Previously, the IHSA charged $70 for a license in a single sport, $20 for a license in a second sport, and $15 for any additional sport licenses. For 2023-24, an individual can register for up to two licenses for $70, and additional license(s) are $10 each.

The second action is to attract more out-of-state officials to work contests in Illinois by lowering the cost for their officiating licenses.

Service Agency executive director. Knowing the devastating impact of wildfires and drought in other states, the farmer hoped Sweatman could coordinate a donation to a farm in need.

And the connections began.

Sweatman, through the cattle circuit, knew of Randy Allgood, a Texas cattleman and nationally known cattle judge. With Allgood's involvement in cattle showing, he knew of the Halls, well known for being big sponsors and supporters of youth cattle programs.

The wheels were also turning in Illinois. In a quest to find transportation, Sweatman reached out to farmer Chris Schick in Clinton, who has employed truck driver Darrell White of Peoria for the past seven years. White said it was a no-brainer when his boss asked him to make the trip.

Fulton County Farm Bureau Manager Elaine Stone also solicited donations for fuel, raising $1,400 in an hour, thanks to the FCFB Board and individual directors, West Central FS, and Compeer/Macomb.

With the round bales loaded, White set out on the 14-hour drive Tuesday afternoon, March 21, and delivered the hay

Wednesday

"They are just beautiful people," White said of the Texas couple. The Halls invited White to spend the night at their house and made him dinner. "We talked and (John) told me some of the stories about what he does for the kids with the show cows. ...It was a good visit."

Faced with either fixing their home's furnace this past winter or buying feed for the cattle, they chose to feed their animals, Allgood added.

John, 63, and Loretta, 74, said the donation will buy them some valuable time, especially if they receive rain within the next month.

"There's just not any words to tell (the donor) how grateful we are," Loretta said. "How do you say thank you for somebody that's just given you a new lease on your breeding program that you're not going to have to sell, that you've been working on for 30 years?"

This story was distributed through a cooperative project between Illinois Farm Bureau and the Illinois Press Association. For more food and farming news, visit FarmWeekNow.com.

Bill calls for review of teacher licensing

By PETER HANCOCK

Capitol News Illinois
SPRINGFIELD – Some
Illinois lawmakers are calling for a review of one of the tests prospective teachers must pass in order to be licensed in Illinois.

The test is known as the Teacher Performance Assessment, or "edTPA," and it is intended to determine whether a prospective teacher has the knowledge and skills necessary to be effective in the classroom. It has been a requirement for teacher licensing in Illinois since 2015.

State Sen. Tom Bennett, R-Gibson City, said he started hearing concerns about the test from people in his district, and he later learned that those concerns were shared by other lawmakers.

Bennett is the lead sponsor of Senate Bill 1488, which passed unanimously out of the Senate March 30 and now awaits action in the House. It would continue the suspension of the edTPA through Aug. 31, 2025.

It would also establish a task force to evaluate teacher performance assessment systems and make recommendations to the State Board of Education and the General Assembly by Aug. 1, 2024.

SPORTS: Rebels improving at tossing strikes, fielding

Hillan finished off the win from the mound in three innings of work with two strikeouts and no earned runs.

"We have started to put together a good combination of throwing strikes and playing defense, which has led to a more competitive effort," Stark County coach Scott Paxson said. "Our hitting has remained fairly consistent so far."

SCHS downed Peoria Heights 6-1 in non-conference action on April 4 at home. The Rebels scored three in the fourth and three in the sixth. A pitching combination of Steelman, Giesenhagen, Hillan and Kieser pitched to just two hits, three walks and nine strikeouts. Watson recorded a double while Steelman, Kieser and Connor Wagenbach each had one hit in the win.

Stark County fell to Bushnell-Prairie City on Tuesday, 12-2.

• Galva baseball – Galva (0-1) was defeated at home on Saturday by ROWVA-Williamsfield in a Lincoln Trail matchup. It was the first varsity game of the season for the Wildcats.

Baseball players for GHS are playing in a transitional and developmental season with six LTC varsity games. The remaining games are against junior-varsity competition. A junior-high team will begin to play a schedule this fall.

Freshman Cyrus Herr had to be called on to catch for the team, a position he had never played before. Jaxson Meier and John Bursell led a thin pitching staff.

The team put together some good at bats in a setback to Monmouth United's JV.

"We have made progress, but there's still a long way to go. We have a lot of inexperience taking the field, but the effort is good," Galva Coach Van White said. "These upcoming seasons, along with developing at the junior-high level should help us build the program upwards."

Galva's next varsity matchup is at LTC rival Princeville on Saturday.

• Galva softball - Henry scored six times in the first three innings Monday and pulled away from Galva for a 14-3 five-inning victory. Libby Anderson's fifth-inning triple drove in two Galva runs.

ROWVA-Williamsfield swept a doubleheader April 8 from Galva, 20-0 in three innings and 10-9. In the second game, Galva led 9-8 after six innings. The Wildcats scored four in the fifth to lead 8-5.

Maddi Bates, Lilly Holleemback, Alexis Spivey and Lexi Stone had RBI in the game for Galva. Bates had the only Galva hit in the first

• Stark County softball - Shanna Peterson struck out nine Lowpoint-Washburn batters Monday and went 2-for-2 to lead Stark County to a 5-2 victory.

Olivia Orwig scored twice. Anissia Rucker had two RBI, including one on a fourth-inning triple that gave the Rebels a 4-1 lead.

West Central swept Stark County in a doubleheader April 6: 12-3 and 16-3. Payten Hillier and Lauren West each had two hits and one RBI in the first game. Hayley Gillam and Shanna Peterson repeated that feat in the second game.

Annawan-Wethersfield scored seven times in the second inning April 8 to beat Stark County 15-0 in four innings. Orwig had both hits for the Rebels, who were to play Tuesday and Thursday against Abingdon-Avon. A doubleheader is set for Saturday against Knoxville.
