Elmwood humanities center to open Oct. 25

By JEFF LAMPE

For The Weekly Post

ELMWOOD – The dream is to provide Elmwood and the surrounding area with a space for art and artists. The reality for Bill Seipel is that his dream is taking lots of work.

Last Friday, while answering questions, Seipel was also busy assembling a table in the new Elmwood Center for the Humanities at 120 E. Main St. Seipel and various contractors have spent a year converting the former Methodist Medical Clinic into an art gallery and coffee shop. With a grand opening looming on Oct. 25 from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., there’s still plenty to be done.

The main space, however, is nearly ready, with framed artworks hanging throughout the center, which also features Nighthawks Coffee shop – named in honor of an Edward Hopper painting.

“I always liked coffee and I always liked art, so I figured why not combine the two,” Seipel said. “I had a really good experience in art in high school and in

Police chief retiring from Yates City post

By MOLLY RICHESON

For The Weekly Post

YATES CITY – Police Chief Randy Benson is retiring after 44 years of service, 13 of which were spent patrolling Yates City. His last day of duty will be Dec. 16.

“I have had a wonderful, fulfilling career,” he said in a letter to the Yates City Village Board.

Benson

Benson thanked the board, both current and past, as well as the community and the citizens.

“It has been an honor and a privilege to serve the Village of Yates City,” he added. “This is an amazing community and one the residents here should be proud of.”

Benson recommended James Record, who is the Fairview police chief and previously served as chief in Avon, to fill his position. The recommendation is to be voted on at the board’s December meeting.

Princeville focuses on vehicle removal

Obscure ordinance triggers response

By NICK VLAHOS

For The Weekly Post

PRINCEVILLE – Abandoned vehicles in Princeville are on the move.

Village officials have been arranging for long-idled cars and trucks to be towed from public thoroughfares. Some vehicles have been sitting on those streets for several months, according to Village President Jeff Troutman.

Buttressing those removals is an apparently obscure village ordinance that states vehicles are considered abandoned if they’ve been parked on thoroughfares for 20 consecutive hours without movement.

“Our attorney hadn’t even seen that code before,” Troutman said following a Village Board meeting Oct. 6.

Leaders in Chicago an embarrassment

I am often bemused by the antics of Chicago politicians, but rarely do their antics create embarrassment and anger. That bemusement was escalated earlier this month.

The callous disregard that Chicago politicians and the Chicago teachers showed for human life this past week was reprehensible. Illinois should be embarrassed and angered by the actions of Chicago Mayor Brandon Johnson and the Chicago Teachers Union in two events spread over 50 years.

Some quick background on these two egregious actions by leaders of the Chicago community. Joanne Chesimard, aka Assata Shakur, was a radicalized black liberationist in the 1970s. She was wanted on bank robbery and other felonies when she was stopped by a New Jersey state trooper for a common traffic violation in 1973. A firefought occurred and the New Jersey trooper lost his life.

Chesimard was convicted of murder and incarcerated in the Clinton Correctional Facility in New Jersey. In 1979, armed associates of Chesimard broke her out of prison and she fled to Mexico and then to Cuba.

Fidel Castro gave her sanctuary and she died recently in Cuba. The teacher's union referred to Chesimard as a liberation fighter and revered elder of black liberation.

Johnson referred to Chesimard as an important person in the black-liberation movement. This is the mayor of Chicago and the union that teaches the children of Chicago praising a woman who killed an on-duty police officer during a traffic stop and then forcibly escaped from prison. Chesimard had lived free in Havana while the police officer's family had to move on without him.

The mayor and the teachers union believe this woman is worthy of praise and honor. I believe most Illinoisans believe Chesimard should have died in prison, not as a guest of the Cuban government.

The difference in the mindset of rural Illinois and Chicago is often night and day. This case simply proves the differences.

The other case is very similar in mindset. While it does not involve the teachers union, it does involve the city of Chicago. A federal ICE vehicle was in Chicago on official business. A group of liberal activists located the federal officers and then blocked the ICE agents' vehicle with their private vehicles, creating a very dangerous situation.

The ICE agents called 911 and asked for local police assistance due to the serious situation. Chicago dispatchers declined to send officers to the scene for assistance.

Email and dispatch records clearly show the Chicago police were told by their command officers to not assist the federal officers in distress.

Law enforcement and the military have some very simple rules. One of the primary rules is that an officer assists another officer in need of assistance. To intentionally refuse assistance when there is an obvious threat of physical harm is repugnant to every police officer I know.

You take care of your fellow officers, and Chicago failed.

Yes, there is a dispute between Illinois Gov. JB Pritzker and President Donald Trump as to allowing federal troops into Illinois to combat crime.

This is a case of the city refusing assistance to federal officers. The federal government may have some legal hurdles in placing military troops in traditional local law-enforcement roles.

However, there is a supremacy clause in the Constitution that appears to give the federal government some latitude.

In this case, Pritzker and the city of Chicago may have just invited military troops into Illinois. The federal government has the clear legal authority to protect its assets. Federal police officers are U.S. assets.

Here we have the local government refusing to protect federal officers. It certainly appears that the local authority, by default, has invited in the federal troops to protect U.S. agents.

Common sense is lacking in Chicagoland.

Fairground Acres property donation stalls

By NICK VLAHOS
For The Weekly Post

ELMWOOD – The city probably won’t be developing a park in the Fairground Acres subdivision anytime soon.

A formal offer to donate some Fairground Acres property for park space has not followed the subdivision developer’s verbal offer to do so, Mayor Andrew Almasi told the Elmwood City Council when it met Oct. 7.

“They have not donated the property, so we’re going to pass on that,” Almasi said. “We’ll bring it up if the donation occurs.”

Fairground Acres developer Fred Paige indicated he was willing to donate at least one park-centric lot, which was a primary topic of discussion at the council meeting Sept. 23. Several Fairground Acres residents, including City Treasurer Bonnie Beal, expressed reservations about it.

Use of city tax-increment-financing money to transform the lot into parkland appeared to be at issue. At creation, TIF districts freeze property taxes that are to go to various bodies.

Tax increase in TIFs are diverted into a fund used for infrastructure improvements that can lead to area redevelopment.

After the council meeting last week, Almasi suggested Paige might have concluded public opposition to park-related TIF expenses wasn’t worth the effort. The mayor said he hadn’t received opposition personally, other than from Beal.

“I’m just guessing, but if we’re irritating our residents and people are going to be up in arms, then why would we do it,” Almasi said in explaining the possible no-donation rationale.

“It is a lot of uproar, more than I would have expected over a park.”

Almasi didn’t rule out entertaining a land donation in the future, but redevelopment funding probably wouldn’t be available. About $70,000 in TIF money is available now, according to Almasi. The TIF district that includes Fairground Acres is to expire in 2027. Almasi said the city doesn’t plan to extend its life.

Last month, Alderwoman Kristen Strom suggested the excess TIF money be distributed among the other taxing bodies, including the Elmwood School District. Almasi appeared to favor that approach.

“It’s always nice to have extra money, but the school needs money,” he said.

Regarding action items last week, the council authorized a $48,720 deal with Hoerr Construction, Inc., of Goodfield for sewer work to be performed on South Lilac Street. Also approved was $108,000 in state Motor Fuel Tax money to sealcoat some city thoroughfares in 2026. Most are on the south side of town.

A five-year contract with Colorado-based AccuFund to provide accounting software was approved. The first-year cost is $8,148 and is to increase no more than 3% each year of the deal. The city can opt out after three years.

Councilors also affirmed former City Treasurer Harold Jehle’s selection as the municipal citizen of the season for summer.

Administrators discuss test scores with board

By JEFF LAMPE
For The Weekly Post

FARMINGTON – Administrators gave a detailed report during Monday’s school board meeting about Farmington student performance in various standardized tests.

High School Principal Dennis McMillin said out of 90 Farmington students assessed, the mean ACT score was 18.2 out of 36. That included mean scores of 16.9 for English, 19.1 for math, 18.3 for science and 18.4 for STEM.

McMillin said the national mean average ranges between 17-19. Illinois has not released a statewide average for the ACT, which the state required this year in place of the SAT.

“We are seeing considerable growth (in scores) among our high-achieving students,” McMillin said, noting that a Farmington student came up one answer short of a perfect score. “We do feel pretty good about our college-bound students.”

McMillin said the school has an ACT preparation program to help students, who are also invited to a one-day test-taking session each February.

“The kids who have participated said it helps them exceptionally to prepare for the exam,” McMillin said.

Elementary School Principal Clint Matthewson said Illinois has changed scoring benchmarks for its IAR and ISA tests after determining math and ELA standards were too high and science standards were too low. As a result, comparisons to last year are tough to make, though nearly all results showed positive gains for grades 4-6.

Junior High Principal Chris Uptmor said student proficiency in grades 6-8 was noteworthy. The 6th graders showed 66% proficiency in ELA and 50% in math, 7th graders were at 70% proficiency in ELA and 57% in math and 8th graders reached 70% in ELA and 33% in math.

“We just have a little work to do on 8th grade math,” Uptmor said.

In regards to high school curriculum for 2026-27, McMillin said one change will likely be to offer Calculus 2. Farmington is also talking with Illinois Central College and Carl Sandburg College about dual-credit offerings to allow students to graduate with a high school diploma and an associate’s degree.

The board approved a 2026-27 district calendar that includes a later start in August to accomodate expected construction.

In personnel, the board approved hiring Brooke Dawson in the vocational department, granted Family Medical Leave to Kelly Holloway, Amber Ossman, Caitlyn Vahle and Mallory Jackson and approved the reassignment of Brianna Fellers to transportation.

Resignations accepted were from Michael Pearson (junior-high track), Ashley Monroe (8th grade volleyball) and Stacie Wilcoxon (cafe).

Finally, Jacob Gilles was approved as a volunteer helper for FFA.

Prior to the regular meeting, the board also recognized several students of the month. High schoolers honored were senior Alina Mowen, junior Amelia Webel, sophomore Korynn Barton and freshman Aiden Southwood.

Junior-high students honored were 8th-graders Andi Abel and Devin Steffen, 7th-graders Alyvia Vorgias and Corbin Johnson and 6th-graders Gavin Southwood and Fallon Smith.

Orange Frog recipients were cafe worker Patty Wright and elementary teacher Jaci Swearingen.

Peoria closing roads, parking for Grayson trial

For The Weekly Post

PEORIA – There will be multiple road closures and limited parking around the Peoria County Courthouse during the trial of The People of the State of Illinois vs. Sean Grayson, scheduled to begin on Monday, Oct. 20.

Grayson is a former Sangamon County deputy accused of the murder of Sonya Massey. Grayson has pleaded not guilty. He faces up to 60 years in prison for first-degree murder and an additional 25 to life if he is found guilty of using a firearm to commit that murder.

Officials anticipate large protests outside the courthouse. Massey’s family has described the upcoming trial as “ground zero.”

Streets to be closed to through traffic during the day include the 300 block of Main St., the 200 block of Main St. and the 300 block of Hamilton Blvd. Those streets will reopen in the evening.

The City of Peoria’s One Way Two Way Conversion Project on Adams Street and Jefferson Avenue may also impact downtown traffic and parking availability on those streets.

There will be no metered parking on streets surrounding the Peoria County Courthouse and the Hamilton Parking Deck will not be open.

All offices within the Peoria County Courthouse will remain open for business.

Reviews mixed for educational progress

By PETER HANCOCK
Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – A new report about education in Illinois suggests that overall, the state has made significant progress in key areas, from readying toddlers for kindergarten to helping young adults earn college degrees or industry certificates before entering the workforce.

But it also shows that despite billions of dollars in additional spending on K-12 education, proficiency rates in reading, writing and math have stagnated, and in some cases have declined, a fact that mirrors national trends.

Those findings are reported in the 2025 edition of “The State We’re In,” a biennial project of the non-partisan research and advocacy group Advance Illinois.

The report looks at measurements across the entire spectrum of education, from birth through college and professional school. It examines inputs such as staffing and funding, and outcomes like proficiency rates and overall educational attainment.

Robin Steans, president of Advance Illinois, said in an interview that while there is significant cause for concern in some areas, “overall educational attainment in Illinois continues to move in the right direction, and it does so for every single group.”

In 2009, state lawmakers established the Illinois P-20 Council to bring together multiple state agencies, educational institutions, local schools, community groups, employers and citizens to identify needed reforms and make recommendations for improving the quality of education in the state.

The “P” stands for preschool and “20” refers to grade 20, or education after college.

The following year, the council put forth a goal that within the next 15 years, by 2025, 60% of Illinois’ adult population would have either a high-quality degree or industry credentials.

According to this year’s report, Illinois appears to have fallen just short of meeting that goal.

The report cites 2023 census data showing 49% of adults in the state held an associate’s, bachelor’s or professional degree, up from 41% in 2010. The total with either a postsecondary degree or industry certificate in 2023 was estimated at 57.4%.

“We wanted to get to 60,” Steans said. “We didn’t quite get there, but that’s real progress in the amount of time in the last decade. What I like about it is that not only are we seeing higher attainment levels, not only has that been steady, but it has been across all groups.”

The report did note that college attainment rates grew across the board from 2010 to 2023, including among black and Hispanic residents, but racial gaps persisted. By 2023, 37% of black adults and 28% of Hispanic adults held an associate’s or higher degree compared to 54% of white adults.

At the same time, however, the report also noted that postsecondary enrollment has been declining in Illinois, suggesting the possibility that the number of graduates is unlikely to grow in the future. Part of that, but not all, is due to declining birth rates, the report said.

Postsecondary enrollment in Illinois peaked in 2010, at just over 1 million students. By 2023, that number had fallen 28%, to about 774,000. Over that same period, the percentage of high school students enrolling in college within 16 months of graduation fell from 71% to 66.8%.

One of the main factors driving the drop in enrollment, the report states, is affordability. Average tuition and fees at a four-year public institution in Illinois costs about 19% of a median household’s annual income, which ranks Illinois 46th out of the 50 states and Washington, D.C., on the affordability scale.

The relatively high tuition costs in Illinois are largely the result of low state support. In 2023, Illinois’ funding of public universities and community colleges came to $2,446 per student, ranking 48th in the nation.

During the 2025 spring legislative session, Advance Illinois pushed for legislation to overhaul the state’s higher-education funding system, putting universities on a formula-based funding system similar to the way the state now funds K-12 school districts. Although that legislation stalled in the spring session, Steans said the organization would continue to push for it in the months ahead.

In 2017, Illinois lawmakers overhauled the way the state funds K-12 education, enacting what’s known as the Evidence-

Based Funding formula, or EBF. That plan lays out a formula for determining an “adequate” level of funding for each school district.

It also calls for the state to add at least $350 million in new spending each year for public schools.

The money is used to pay for things that have been shown to improve educational outcomes, such as reduced class sizes and hiring support staff.

- YATES CITY – A Yates City woman reported two television sets were stolen from her residence. The apparent burglary took place sometime between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Sept. 22 in the 300 block of S. Dixon St., according to a Knox County Sheriff’s Office report. Missing from the 25-year-old victim’s living room was a 55-inch wall-mounted Roku Smart TV. A 65-inch Roku Smart TV placed atop a dresser was missing from a bedroom. Total value was $700. There were no signs of forced entry, although one door was ajar and another was not secured as usual.
- PRINCEVILLE – A two-vehicle accident south of Princeville resulted in no apparent injuries. At 1:15 p.m. Sept. 22, Kristl L. DeBord was driving a 2019 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck that was turning left from northbound Princeville-Jubilee Road to westbound Laura Road when it struck a 2009 Honda Odyssey, according to a Peoria County Sheriff’s Office report. Becky A. Yemm of LaFayette was the other driver. She said she was eastbound on Laura Road waiting at a stop sign to turn right onto Princeville-Jubilee Road. DeBord said she didn’t see the Odyssey because of trees and bushes. The vehicles sustained minor damage and were drivable.
- PEORIA – An accident on Interstate 474 distracted a Hanna City driver to the point where he rear-ended another vehicle, according to authorities. Joseph M. Schaefer was driving a 2003 Honda Civic shortly before 6:30 a.m. Sept. 22 on the eastbound interstate near Airport Road when the vehicle struck a 2015 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck driven by Randy L. Christianson of Peoria, a Peoria County Sheriff’s Office report stated. Christianson said traffic was slowed and stopped because of an accident and vehicle fire in the westbound lanes. Schaefer was looking at the accident and didn’t notice traffic in front of him had stopped. No injuries were reported. The Civic sustained disabling front-end damage and was towed.
- DUNLAP – A driver from Dahiinda struck a utility pole as he attempted to exit a Dunlap business. Delvin R. Powell was behind the wheel of a 1998 Freightliner semi-trailer truck at the time of the accident, shortly before 4:45 p.m. Sept. 23 at Commercial Mechanical Inc., 50 N. First St.

According to a Peoria County Sheriff’s Office report, Powell navigated a corner not wide enough to avoid striking the pole.

- KICKAPOO – No injuries were reported following a two-vehicle crash south of Kickapoo. Shortly after 3:30 p.m. Sept. 23, Jenny S. Ennis of Galesburg was driving a 2007 Saturn Ion that was exiting the parking lot of the Shell gasoline station at 7200 N. Kickapoo-Edwards Rd. when it struck a 2017 Chevrolet Equinox, a Peoria County Sheriff’s Report stated. The Equinox, driven by Ana L. Alarcon-Santana of Peoria, was southbound on Kickapoo-Edwards Road. Ennis said she was turning south and didn’t see the Equinox rounding a slight bend in the road. Both vehicles were drivable. The Equinox had three passengers, a male and two females.
- FARMINGTON – A Brimfield-area man’s blood-alcohol content registered at more than twice the legal limit following a traffic stop near Farmington. A Farmington police officer observed Tanner M. McQuellon, 25, driving an eastbound 2011 Chevrolet Suburban erratically shortly after 1:30 a.m. Sept. 21 on E. Fort St. The officer pulled over McQuellon on northbound Illinois Route 78. McQuellon said he had just left a Farmington bar, a police report stated. An open can of Busch Light beer, about one-quarter full, was found in the vehicle. McQuellon’s BAC was .19; the legal limit is .08. McQuellon was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol, disobeying a stop sign and two counts of driving under the influence. The vehicle was impounded.
- FARMINGTON – A traffic stop in Farmington resulted in a Galesburg man being accused of driving with an invalid license. Damien L. Glass, 42, was driving a 2022 Kia sedan when a Farmington police officer pulled it over shortly before 4 p.m. Sept. 20 at West and Pearl streets. A pre-stop check revealed Glass’ driver’s license was canceled. Glass said he wasn’t aware of it, according to a police report. Glass received a notice to appear Oct. 31 in Fulton County Circuit Court in Lewistown. His vehicle was impounded.
- FARMINGTON – A Farmington woman was accused of destroying the birth certificate of a local man, as well as the title to his vehicle. Angela D. Layton, 49, received a notice to appear in Fulton County Circuit Court in Lewistown after a Farmington police officer visited her shortly after 8:45 p.m. Sept. 19 at a residence in the 500 block of Jennings Ave.
- The 42-year-old victim indicated Layton ripped up the documents, according to a Farmington police report. Layton said she believed the documents belonged to her, including one for a vehicle she no longer owned. The title was for a 2006 Ford Mustang.
- KNOXVILLE – No serious injuries were reported following a two-vehicle wreck east of Knoxville that involved a man from Yates City. The accident happened shortly before 4 p.m. Sept. 19 at Illinois Route 97 and Interstate 74, a Knox County Sheriff’s Office report stated. James A. Baker, 55, was driving a 2017 Nissan Titan north on Route 97 when a 2015 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck struck it. Mark A. Stang of Galesburg was the other driver. He exited the westbound interstate and failed to stop at the intersection. He was cited for disobeying a stop sign. Stang and Baker said they weren’t injured.
- OAK RUN – An Oak Run-area woman was the victim of an apparent telephone scam. The 71-year-old resident of the 1800 block of Cottonwood Court said she received a call Sept. 11 from a Middle Eastern-accented male who claimed to be with Debt Relief, according to a Knox County Sheriff’s Office report. She provided him her personal information. A short time later, Amazon.com contacted her regarding a charge for $4,200. The sheriff’s office was notified shortly after 12:30 p.m. Sept. 16.
- ABINGDON – An Oak Run woman was cited for careless driving following a two-vehicle crash at the south edge of Abingdon. Meghan R. Westergreen, 27, was driving a northbound 2021 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck shortly after 1:30 p.m. Sept. 6 in the 1000 block of Illinois Route 41 when the vehicle rear-ended a northbound 2018 Toyota Camry, according to a Knox County Sheriff’s Office report released recently. The other driver was Alexia L. Wessels, 24, of Galesburg. Westergreen said the accident happened when she reached behind her seat to give a napkin to her 4-year-old daughter.
- GALESBURG – These were among calls to which the Knox County Sheriff’s Office responded between Sept. 14-20: domestic dispute, Williamsfield; theft, LaFayette; suspicious incident, Yates City; gas leak, Douglas; domestic dispute, Yates City; harassment, Farmington; wire down, Galva.

YATES CITY: Raises hourly rates

“He would serve you well but, ultimately, it’s your decision,” Benson said. Various repairs to the water-treatment plant were approved at the Oct. 8 board meeting, including $660 for the installation of bearings and the removal of a shaft-and-paddle-wheel assembly and $2,788.96 to repair a gate valve.

The state-required annual audit by Phillips, Salmi & Associates of Washington was approved for $16,500, which includes a $1,500 increase due to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency’s loan for the well. The board also approved the annual insurance premium and membership with the IML Risk Management Association for $33,012.06 and splitting the cost of Fall Clean Up Day with Salem Township for up to $750.

The board was not unanimous on the rest of the expenditure voting. Two valves are being replaced by Kinsel Trucking & Excavating, one water main shutoff valve closer to the base of the water tower and one valve on a fire hydrant that is being replaced. The board approved the replacements for $18,766, with Dave Mahr undecided.

The board approved the purchase of 18 two-ton cement barriers with hooks from Galesburg Builders Supply, as there were not enough barriers to surround the concrete pad being made on the south lot to hold pea gravel. Each barrier costs $45, bringing the total to $810.

Additionally, since the village has no equipment capable of moving the barriers, John Woodcock was approved for $1,200 to haul, deliver and unload the barriers, with an additional $600 for him to place the barriers.

Matt Ehens opposed the approvals. He had previously expressed concern about the decision to proceed with the project after the concrete was poured before the city had been able to finish preparatory work for the concrete pad.

The board also approved salary increases. Village President Mark Hostetler reported that the average pay rate for clerks in the state of Illinois is $24 per hour. The board estimated that Village Clerk Neely Carr works 40 hours per month and approved raising her salary to Police Chief Randy Benson will retire, effective Dec. 16, after serving in Yates City for 13 of his 44-year career. Photo by Molly Richeson.

$1,000 a month to increase her hourly rate to $25, effective May 1.

Hostetler reported that the average pay for treasurers in the state is $33 per hour. The board increased Village Treasurer Joy Mahr’s salary to $1,000 per month, also effective May 1, based on her 40 hours of work per month. That also equates to $25 per hour but is $8 per hour below the state average. Dave Mahr, her husband, abstained.

Hostetler said the average pay for water clerks in the state is $27 per hour. Joy Mahr, who also serves as water clerk, was estimated to work 47½ hours per month in that capacity and the board approved increasing her monthly pay to $1,400 effective Nov. 1, 2026. The increase to $21 per hour is $6 per hour below the state average. Dave Mahr abstained.

Ehens opposed all salary increases. “I have concerns on the dollar amount because I don’t know where the money is coming from,” he said. “Where does this put us every year, and how much do we make a year?”

Tom Kinzer, tasked with financial matters, was not in attendance.

Salary increases for the village trustees and president were tabled until January as the effective date of May 1 on the meeting agenda was incorrect. Increases cannot become effective until the end of an elected official’s term.

HUMANITIES: Locals excited about coffee

jazz band. If I can get kids that involved or engaged I will have achieved a goal.”
In addition to space for tables and comfortable chairs in the coffee shop, the center has a gallery and a classroom that can be used for art-related classes. Seipel hopes to emulate the curriculum offered at the Peoria Art Guild, where teachers can come in and offer classes based on their interests.

Lining up instructors is on a long to-do list for Seipel, who is president of the non-profit Elmwood Center for the Humanities. He will also run the for-profit Nighthawks Coffee shop, whose rent payments will help support the center. Other funding has come from a grant from Arts Partners of Central Illinois, from Seipel and from donors in the Elmwood area. Seipel said he will also take a mortgage to pay for improvements on the building, which was basically donated to the non-profit by Methodist.
Coffee-shop hours will be 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sundays. The staff currently includes Seipel and his daughter, Sam. He is hoping to hire another worker or two.
“Most of the stuff at Starbucks, you should be able to get here,” Seipel said, while specifically mentioning frappuccino, latte, cappuccino and regular-drip coffee.

Seipel is also excited to offer the egg cream, a drink made popular in New York that consists of milk, seltzer and chocolate syrup.
The coffee shop will sell doughnuts and pastries, oatmeal, toast and various breakfast cereals.

“I don’t expect to get rich,” said Seipel, who is also keeping his job as a computer programmer. “It would be awesome if I could make a profit. And if the coffee shop can help keep (the center) afloat, that would be great.”
Seipel said so far, the idea of a coffee shop has been most enticing to locals, based on feedback he has received.
“They’re more excited about the coffee than the art,” he said. “They don’t know what to make of the art programs.”
Seipel hopes that changes over time. He is also willing to change the art on display, with hopes of eventually featuring works by Elmwood students.

“I’m open to local artists’ submissions,” he said. “If you have something you’d like to display, reach out to me.”
Seipel can be reached at the center’s phone number, (309) 742-6735.
Art displayed at the grand opening will be a mix of photographs, original acrylics and prints, as well as original artworks by local artists Anne Coulter and Laura Luthy. All artwork is for sale.
While the idea of a center for the humanities is something found more often in larger cities, Seipel said he is encouraged by success of The Hub Arts and Cultural Center in Rushville.
“They have been open almost 10 years and have eight or nine programs each month,” he said.
Eventually, Seipel hopes to approximate something similar. “I have too many aspirations for the place,” he admitted, including running a radio station out of the center at some point.
For now, after a long year of painting, putting in new fixtures, laying flooring and more, Seipel has his sights aimed lower.
His goals for this year are to hold one to two classes each month, have regulars at the coffee shop and develop a working relationship with the art programs offered by teachers at Elmwood CUSD 322.

Illinois trout stocking delayed by warmth

SPRINGFIELD – Stocking of catchable trout for the fall season is on hold until water temperatures are more suitable for the trout, the Illinois Department of Natural Resources has announced.

While the official opening date for the fall trout season is Saturday, Oct. 18, anglers should be aware that trout will not be present at many sites on opening day.

Trout stocked in waters warmer than 68 degrees could experience high mortality. IDNR will stock the early catch-and-release sites as soon as water temperatures cool. Sites should be stocked by Oct. 31.

All anglers who participate in trout fishing must have an Illinois fishing license and inland trout stamp.

Locations to be stocked include the Hennepin Canal Parkway Visitor’s Center pond, Siloam Springs

Lawmakers eye transit, energy solutions

By BEN SZALINSKI

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – Violent protests, legally questionable immigration raids and the deployment of National Guard troops without the governor’s approval were at the forefront of state lawmakers’ minds as they returned to Springfield on Tuesday. “Lawyers in my office are researching other things that we can do” about the federal government’s tactics, House Speaker Chris Welch, D-Hillside, said. “We are going to be having some conversations here in the next couple of days to see if there are some things in the veto session that we can get done.” The General Assembly convenes for the annual fall veto session for three days this week followed by another three days on Oct. 28-30. Lawmakers’ to-do list was already hefty with several issues, including public transportation and energy reform, which were left unresolved in the spring. But Welch said lawmakers can’t ignore what’s happening at the federal level in Chicago. His near-west suburban district includes Broadview, where an immigration processing center has become a flash point for clashes between federal agents and protesters. While he said lawyers are exploring options, leaders acknowledged the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution limits a state’s ability to regulate the federal government. Big Beautiful Bill Act President Donald Trump also signed a domestic-policy plan over the summer with wide-ranging implications on the state budget and social-service programs in Illinois. While programs like Medicaid face cuts in the coming years, the state could see decreased revenue returns because parts of the state’s tax code are tied to the federal code. Welch said it’s possible lawmakers will find ways to decouple from federal tax policies. However, the leaders tamped down expectations that this month will yield several big policy initiatives. Here are some issues lawmakers will grapple with this month: Transit reform Saving the Chicago-area transit agencies from having to enact massive service cuts is a top priority for lawmakers this month – though Welch and Senate President Don Harmon, D-Oak Park, both left room for the possibility that it gets pushed to the spring. Harmon indicated the path forward requires the House to accept or counter a plan passed by the Senate in May. That plan passed just before midnight on the final session day, leaving the House almost no time to consider the measure that contained a controversial $1.50 per-package statewide delivery fee. The issue lost some urgency when the Regional Transportation Authority released new estimates on Oct. 3 that the Chicago Transit Authority won’t face a funding shortfall until the middle of 2026. Per the new estimate, the four Chicago-area transit agencies – CTA, RTA, Pace and Metra – collectively will be short $202 million next year. That’s down from a $771 million shortfall that lawmakers were projecting during the spring. Because of that, lawmakers theoretically don’t have to pass a reform plan this fall, though the transit agencies approve their budgets in December. Lawmakers are still working to reach an agreement about how to fund public transportation and what new sources of revenue – likely tax increases – can receive enough votes. ‘Da Bears’ stadium The Chicago Bears are committed to building a stadium in Arlington Heights, but the organization says a “megaproject” bill in Springfield is necessary to close the deal. The bill would allow large developments, like what the Bears are proposing, to have property-tax assessments frozen so that construction costs don’t raise the property’s value for several years. Asked about the prospects of the bill passing during the two-week-long veto session, Harmon said the Bears should consider it a “bye week.” Many Chicago lawmakers, who make up a sizable portion of legislative Democrats, are opposed to the Bears leaving the city. Gov. JB Pritzker also wants the Bears to pay off the remaining $534 million debt from 2003 renovations at Soldier Field that’s held by the Illinois Sports Facilities Authority. The Bears plan to privately fund the stadium on the former Arlington Park property but are seeking $855 million in public funding for infrastructure at the site, according to an economic impact report released by the team on Sept. 30. The Bears are seeking state financial help in upgrading area roads and the

LAWMAKERS: Insurance-premiums oversight

Metra line that stops at the property. In return, the reports estimated the state could bring in $43 million in annual gross revenue from various state taxes.

Energy reform
Customers of Ameren and Commonwealth Edison, the state’s largest electric utilities, saw unusually high prices on their monthly bills throughout the summer. Electric markets around the country have been responding to the first major increase in electric demand in a generation, largely thanks to data centers – large computing facilities that require huge amounts of electricity 24/7.
Since late 2024, state lawmakers have been debating how the state should respond to the increased demand and prices. Lawmakers who are part of the negotiations have signaled for weeks that they are nearing a deal for veto session, though things can change quickly in Springfield.
The bill will likely include expanded incentives for battery storage technology – a major priority for the solar industry – as well as tighter rules around energy-efficiency programs at electric utilities and new regulations on how utilities incorporate distributed resources like rooftop solar projects onto the grid.

Welch said he is hopeful that lawmakers can reach an agreement. Harmon said he is concerned that incentive programs and other parts of the bill may increase customer costs in the short-term, even if there are long-term savings.
The biggest unknown for the bill is whether it will include direct regulations on data centers’ use of electricity. Environmentalists and several lawmakers have pushed for a longer debate over the issue next year, but business groups have made moves to loosen a data-privacy law as part of negotiations over the energy bill.
“Sometimes they can get too big and that’s what kills it, so hopefully we can get it just right and get something done,” Welch said. “If not, it’s probably going to have to be something that carries over into the spring.”
Insurance regulation
Pritzker, Welch and Harmon published a letter in the Chicago Tribune in July criticizing State Farm for increasing home insurance rates in Illinois. The leaders called on lawmakers to increase regulations and oversight on insurance rates.
The Bloomington-based company raised premiums in July for Illinois homeowners by 27.2%, citing growing losses the company is taking from severe-weather claims. The trio said State Farm was not transparent about the reason for the increase.

The leaders said Illinois should be like other states and give the Illinois Department of Insurance authority to review rate increases to determine whether they are fair or necessary.
Welch again said he’s hopeful something can pass this month as part of Democrats’ focus on affordability issues.
Hemp regulation
Legislation to regulate hemp sales has stalled in Springfield for several consecutive sessions.
The state’s hemp growers and legal-marijuana industry have been at odds, while Pritzker has warned that an existing “gray market” allows unregulated and potentially dangerous hemp-derived THC products to flood the market.
It’s unclear whether lawmakers can pass regulations this fall.
Veto component
The fall session has historically existed primarily for lawmakers to override any vetoes issued by the governor. But Pritzker has rarely used his veto pen, making it a venue for major new legislation in recent years.

Pritzker vetoed two bills this summer: One was duplicative of another measure he signed so lawmakers are unlikely to override it. The second was of Senate Bill 246, which was backed by Treasurer Michael Frerichs. It would have allowed his office to create an investment pool for Illinois not-for-profits. The treasurer’s office would then invest those funds and provide the returns on those investments back to the not-for-profits.
Pritzker said the measure had harmful unintended consequences.
“It would unfortunately allow Illinois’ financial investments to be used to benefit fringe and extremist groups,” Pritzker wrote.
Harmon said the Senate will look at the veto, and his caucus is discussing the bill with the treasurer.
Pritzker also issued one amendatory veto to House Bill 2568 because a portion of the bill was written into the wrong section of state law. Lawmakers can determine whether or not to accept his changes.

NOTICE OF CIRCULATION CHANGE

We are sorry to announce that as of Thursday, Nov. 6, those of you who live in the 61528 Zip Code (which services Edwards and Kickapoo) will no longer receive The Weekly Post for free in your mailbox. Why? As many small-business owners can tell you, costs keep increasing and profits keep shrinking. In our case, dramatic increases in the cost of postage and other business expenses have made a change necessary.

We will still publish The Weekly Post. For those who want to receive the newspaper in your mailbox, we are offering a special one-year subscription for $30. That's half the price of a normal subscription and doesn't even cover our costs. Dumb? Hey, for 11 years we've been mailing you papers for free!

Your other option will be to pick up a free copy of the paper from a drop spot. We will make extra copies available in the 61528 Zip Code area at two drop spots. These will be available on a first-come, first-served basis every Wednesday at:

1. Wight's Chevrolet, 10006 W. Illinois Route 150, Kickapoo - Look for the red paper box in the business lot.
2. Jubilee Café, 7203 N. Kickapoo-Edwards Road, Edwards - Papers are placed inside the restaurant closest to the north entrance.

Thank you for your support over the past 11 years.

Princes fall short

Unbeaten Annawan-Wethersfield escapes Princeville with 17-14 win

By NICK VLAHOS
For The Weekly Post
KEWANEE – It has been a good season so far for the Princeville football team, but its coach still has one primary lament. “It would be nice to win one of those close ones,” Jon Carruthers said.

Like the first one, the second Princeville loss of the season was close. Jonathan Torres kicked a 35-yard field goal with 3:11 remaining in the game to give undefeated Annawan-Wethersfield a 17-14 victory Oct. 10 in a LincolnLand small-division showdown.

The victory solidified the A-W hold on first place in the conference. Fourth-place Princeville (5-2, 4-2) fell for the first time since a 40-34 double-overtime loss in Week 3 to Rushville-Industry (5-2, 5-1).

Still, the Princes held the Titans to their lowest point total of the season, more than 27 points below their average.

“They’ve been blowing everybody out,” Carruthers said. “I think the kids were really locked in this week with our preparation. We had one of our best weeks of practice. I think that set the tone for the game. It was a very, very physical game.

“I’m definitely disappointed in losing, but I couldn’t be prouder of the boys and the way they battled.”

Carruthers believes that effort might augur well Friday night for Princeville when it visits Wyoming to play Stark County (5-2, 5-2) for a game that has multiple implications regarding conference positioning and postseason seeding.

“Coach (Jade) Noard always has his teams ready, and it’s a rivalry game,” Carruthers said about the coach of Princeville’s northern neighbor. “We’re both trying to get a better record for the playoffs, so it’s a huge game.”

The A-W game wasn’t small potatoes, either. Princeville led 14-7 at halftime, thanks to second-quarter scoring runs from Eli Christianson and Kaiden Sarnes. Aaden VerStraete’s 5-yard pass to Cole Goodley with 2:38 left in the third quarter represented the tying touchdown for A-W.

After Torres’ kick,

Princeville was unable to get the ball past midfield.

“It was a defensive game,” Carruthers said. “I’m sure both offenses are looking at things they could have done better, but it was a slugfest. ... Both sides were just dead tired at the end of the game.”
