Williamsfield board passes draft budget 2022 tax levy to increase 4.16%

By JEFF LAMPE

For The Weekly Post

WILLIAMSFIELD – The Williamsfield School Board on Monday voted unanimously to approve a draft budget and tax levy for Fiscal Year 2023 that includes a 4.16 percent tax increase and is anticipated to generate a year-end surplus of $150,458.

The budget will now be put on display for 30 days before the board votes for formal approval in September.

Superintendent Tim Farquer explained that the draft budget includes deficit balances for IMRF and Tort funds as part of a five-year plan that will bring those funds to positive balances on the 2024 tax levy.

"Then in 2024 we can get back to having the lowest tax rate around after paying off the bond issue," Farquer said.

The proposed 2022 tax increase would equate to an additional $4.67 per $100 of equalized assessed

PRACTICE BEGINS

Cloudy and unseasonably mild temperatures greeted football teams for their first day of practice on Monday. Elmwood-Brimfield football players spent a portion of the first practice working on tackling a rolling Tackle Wheel, as above. E-B had 61 out for practice Monday while Farmington was at 87, Princeville had 50 for the opener and ROWVA-Williamsfield saw 48 show up. ## Farmington teachers get 5% raise

By JEFF LAMPE

For The Weekly Post

FARMINGTON – The Farmington School Board on Monday unanimously approved a three-year contract with its teachers union during a busy meeting that also saw passage of a draft budget for Fiscal Year 2023, the addition of junior high school wrestling and OK for an intergovernmental agreement to loan two buses to the Brimfield School District.

Certified union members at Farmington will receive a 5 percent increase in the first year of the contract and will see raises of 5 percent and then 4.5 percent in years two and three of the agreement.

Non-certified union members will receive raises of 4, 3.5 and 3.5 percent over three

Chicken dinner adds to Old Settlers' allure

By JEFF LAMPE

For The Weekly Post

BRIMFIELD – Pork chops are a default festival food in central Illinois, and with good reason. Done right, a grilled slab of juicy pork tastes delicious and is fairly easy to turn out in large quantities.

But when Brimfield gathers this weekend for its 132nd annual celebration of Old Settlers Days, a rare festival food entry will dominate dinner discussions on Friday and Saturday night from 5-8 p.m.

As they have for decades, members of the Brimfield Area Men's Club will cook plenty of pork chops, but they will also fry up nearly 700 pounds of chicken – a time intensive labor of love that Men's Club members say sets Old Settlers apart from many other small-town events.

"Pork chops are pretty common everywhere you go," Martin Maher said. "You don't get chicken suppers at these kind of set-ups that much."

Finger-licking good chicken, too.

"I don't think we've ever had a negative about the chicken," said Bernie Shoop, who for 15 years coordinated chicken cooking. "We have had a lot of good comments about how it was."

Shoop said fried chicken has been a staple of Old Settlers Days for "a long time,"

Brimfield Nation CD

F&M Bank's Brimfield Nation<sup>SM</sup> CD has some great features that you won't want to miss! It features an impressive starting lineup of benefits:

- a low $500 minimum new money to open
- a short 12-month term
- a competitive initial interest rate and Annual Percentage Yield (APY) of 1.50%.

Unlike other CDs, the yield can go up based on the performance of Elmwood/Brimfield High School varsity football team during the 2022 season. This unique CD provides you with the potential to boost your APY based on the success of the Trojans!

Rate Adjustment Formula Brimfield Nation<sup>SM</sup> Certificate of Deposit

Starting Rate & APY:	1.50%
Each Game Won:	Add .05% to Rate/APY
Conference Champion:	Add .10% to Rate/APY
State Champion:	Add .25% to Rate/APY

Every time the Trojans win, you win, too!

Get a solid return and have some fun, too— invest in a Brimfield Nation<sup>SM</sup> CD. But be sure to act soon! It's available only through September 9, 2022.

Interest rate and APY information is accurate as of August 1, 2022. APY is based on annual compounding of interest. $500 minimum new money deposit to open and $500 minimum balance is required. $150,000 maximum deposit per household and limit one CD per household. Non-IRA consumer deposits only, please. Business, institutional and public funds, and retirement accounts will not be accepted. A penalty may be assessed for withdrawal of principal prior to maturity; a penalty would reduce earnings. During the initial 12-month term, these CDs will never pay less than the initial interest rate and APY. We will add .05% to the initial interest rate and APY for each win by the Elmwood/Brimfield High School varsity football team during the 2022 regular season and during any post-season play. An additional .10% will be added to the rate and APY if the team wins the conference championship, and an additional .25% will be added to the rate and APY if the team wins the state championship. The final interest rate and APY will be calculated at the end of the football season and will be paid for the entire 12-month term of the CD, retroactive to the date of account opening. Upon initial maturity, if no depositor action is taken, the account will automatically renew as a regular 12-Month CD at the then-current interest rate and APY.

OLD SETTLERS: Young members stepping up

Shoop ran the chicken-cooking operation using two fryers that cook 40 pieces each and a third cooker to handle 60 pieces at once. The third cooker is actually a donut fryer, according to Shoop, and keeps chicken very moist, which explains why it is used for the white meat pieces of chicken.

Shoop said he was talked into helping by Henry Peters and, along the way, has enlisted the help of his friends and family, including his wife, Shirley, and friends Bruce and Wanda Wagner. Now the torch is being passed again, with Josh Helms taking over this weekend.

"In the last two years, we've had a bunch of young men start in the Men's Club and they've done a heckuva job," Shoop said. "We're kind of letting them take over. At least I am."

Among the Men's Club old guard, Maher, 85, is still very involved, as is Ralph Peters, who runs the parade, and Kenny Wertz, who handles the stage, PA and wiring.

It was Maher who built the fancy cooker used by the Men's Club for pork chops. Maher admits he copied his design.

"A fellow by the name of Martin up in Edelstein built the first cooker. He belonged to the Pork Association and raised a lot of hogs," Maher said. "When he died, [Raber Packing Co.] got the cooker and I kind of copied off of that, but on a much smaller scale."

Instead of grilling pork chops, the enclosed cooker runs on LP gas and cooks the chops at 600 degrees on a rotisserie.

"Running at 600 degrees kind of seals the meat over and makes them more juicy," said Maher, who ordered 1,500 chops for this weekend. "Depending on how thick the pork chops are, after about 11-13 minutes you can take them out."

Of course, there's much more to the festival than just meat.

Boden's carnival rides open today from 6-10 p.m. and will be a staple all weekend. Saturday's lineup is the busiest, starting with breakfast at the American Legion Hall from 7-10 a.m., the Old Settlers 5K race at 8, the arts and crafts fair and vendors opening at 9 and then a steady string of events all day, including the 1980s themed Old Settlers Parade at 1 p.m.

This year's lineup of live music features: Thursday - Kelvis, a Brimfield Elvis impersonator, who performs at 7 p.m.; Friday - Country music performer Steve Hargis from 6:30-8 p.m. on the main stage and local favorites the West MacQueen Street Band at 8 p.m. in the beer tent; Saturday - The Breakfast Club, a 1980s cover band, at 8 p.m.

GUEST VOICES

Of Nelson Dean Jay & another giant Freddy

For much of his life, Elmwood native, Karl Taylor has had a fascination with Nelson Dean Jay. In Taylor's estimation, Jay is a much-accomplished Elmwood native who most folks know very little about.

To help spread the word, Taylor, 84, is collaborating on a book about Jay's life and accomplishments along with Bill Engelbrecht of Peoria. And while the book titled "58 Avenue Foch" is not yet finished, Taylor will be discussing Jay and his project at the Elmwood Historical Society meeting Aug. 18 at 6:30 p.m. at Elmwood's First Presbyterian Church.

Jeff LAMPE

"We'd like to have more people around Elmwood know something about Dean Jay," Taylor said. "There are so many stories ... one of our potential publishers has said, 'You have enough material for three books.'"

Jay grew up in Elmwood on North Magnolia Street as the son of a grocer, who also ran the local post office. He went on to graduate from Knox College in Galesburg in 1905. During his college years, Jay sold pots and pans door to door in Elmwood and Galesburg.

He was such a good salesman that the Alcoa Company brought Jay to Chicago to teach others how to peddle pots and pans. That's where Jay met Charles Dawes, a banker and diplomat who was the 30th vice president under Calvin Coolidge from 1925-29.

Dawes was impressed by Jay and encouraged him to get into banking. Within five years, Jay had risen to become a vice president of the First National Bank of Milwaukee. From there, he was picked by Dawes to serve as general purchasing agent of the American Expeditionary Force in World War I. He eventually attained the rank of lieutenant colonel and received a Distinguished Service medal for "excellent judgment, untiring energy and broad and comprehensive knowledge of business affairs."

After the war, Jay began working for J.P. Morgan in Paris, where he would eventually become president of Morgan & Cie, Inc. He was also president of the American Red Cross in Europe for a time during World War II and his Paris home was located in one of the city's most elegant neighborhoods at 58 Avenue Foch - hence the book title - and was frequented by a Who's Who of Parisian society.

Yet when he died in 1972, Jay was buried in Elmwood Township Cemetery, where at the time his 12-foot-by-12-foot tombstone was then the largest in the cemetery.

"He's just been lost," Taylor lamented. "There are hundreds of really professional people who have made something of themselves, but they've been forgotten and never written about."

In this one case, at least, Taylor hopes to change that. Learn more next Thursday in Elmwood.

Poor Helen Largent. Unless she's got a real whopper in her garden, I'm afraid the Yates City woman might have to yield the 2022 Tomato Title to Roger Orr of Princeville, who Tuesday weighed in a giant (if ugly) tomato that went 3 pounds, 4.25 ounces. Orr would be a good winner, though, as he was responsible for Don Danley bringing in last year's best entry on behalf of Barb Williams of Hanna City. It was Barb's husband, Fred, who began the champion bloodline of maters around here. Orr got seeds from Danley this spring and has grown eight plants. "They're loaded," said Orr, who works in the Hanna City streets department. "I'm going to have to make up a big batch of salsa soon."

Is gun violence evil different than evil of abortion?

To the Editor:

Apparently, the anti-gun zealots believe evil can be thwarted by removing semi-automatic weapons from America. The logic of such philosophy falls along the lines of removing potatoes from the menu to combat obesity.

When guns of all types were widely available to the public long before the random attacks on the innocent began, common sense wouldn't suggest that guns are the root of the problem.

When law enforcement gives a cowardly demon more than an hour to carry out his dastardly attack before intervening, a much more primitive weapon than a firearm could have been used to the same effect.

When the anti-gun lunatics main focus is attacking America's most patriotic and law-abiding, those of the NRA, it leaves little resources to recognize and address the actual causes of such outbursts of hatred for innocent others, such as the use of antidepressants by the assailants, America's crumbling family structure and the left's constant attack on the moral and spiritual foundation of America.

Many hypocritical anti-gun people are diminishing the sanctity of human life by supporting the human butchery that takes place on a daily basis within the Planned Parenthood clinics across America.

Is it possible to separate the evil of an attack on the masses of innocent by a deranged individual using a firearm, a pressure cooker as a bomb, or a vehicle to plow into a crowd and the evil of an abortion? Both are planned attacks perpetrated on the innocent. Both end with horrific death of innocent human life.

GUEST VOICES

California kid enjoys cats, bugs & treehouse

It is always interesting and illustrative to view your own little chunk of the world through the eyes of a seven-year-old. It is especially so when you live on a small Midwest family farm and the seven-year-old lives in Alameda, Calif.

AJ's nephew Ben lives in San Francisco now, but he grew up in Toulon until he was in the seventh grade and spent about as much time here on the farm with us as he did at his own home in town. Ben recently brought his godson Gabe to visit for a week.

Ben had backgrounded Gabe on what to expect on the farm. I worried that he might over-romanticize the glory of playing in the haylofts or trekking through the cow pastures to play in Walnut Creek. I needn't have been concerned. Within a few hours of his arrival, Gabe had set his own priorities as to what constituted fun.

Jeanne HARLAND

What Ben, AJ and I thought he would be interested in (haymows, the creek, and calves, respectively) gave way to cats, lightning bugs and a treehouse.

Gabe's family has a lovely home in California, but no yard to speak of. Here he could dash out the door and romp around an acre or so of yard whenever he wanted. His only reference for a farm is the one his grandparents now rent out to farmers who grow strawberries and sweet potatoes. Our acres of tall field corn invited frequent exploration of their long, dense rows.

Gabe is a gentle child and soon won over a couple of our barn cats. The sleek little black female became his fast friend and followed him around the house. Lightning bugs were also a big fascination and something he had not seen before.

"Can we capture one?" he asked excitedly.

I just said sure and went after a pint jar.

On his first day here, prompted by Ben, Gabe began climbing in the big pine tree. Typical of its species, it offered abundant, if somewhat sappy, branches arrayed in multiple levels and angles. Creative and imaginative, Gabe proposed building a treehouse in its welcoming boughs. Earlier in the day Gabe had seen an old pallet in a pile of used lumber, which he insisted would perfect for his treehouse.

The first step was to build a ladder up into the tree. I showed the guys where the scrap lumber was, selected a cut-away milk jug half full of sixteen-penny nails, and pointed out the hammers of various sizes lined up on the bottom shelf of the workbench in the machine shed. I then retreated to the kitchen to prepare lunch. I could hear the tap, tap, tap, bam, bam, BAM of nails being pounded into the trunk of the tree. The taps were tentative at first, but soon a rhythm developed. From the kitchen I could see them working.

Over lunch AJ and I got a detailed update on the construction plans. I then accompanied Ben and Gabe to the worksite. Affixed to the tree were five boards of varying lengths and thicknesses. This was the ladder up to the first level of branches where the treehouse would be constructed. Gabe demonstrated the use of these steps and perched on one of the big horizontal limbs. "Come on up!" he shouted excitedly.

Why my brain chose this moment to disengage from processing information, I do not know. It should have registered that Gabe was a slightly built 7-year-old. Another key fact was that as far as any of us knew, this was the first time he had ever nailed any two things together. Add to that the uneven surface of any bark-covered tree. A simple count of the nails in each board should have alerted me to what was about to happen, but no. My brain could not be bothered with that, either.

The first step was fine. It wasn't too high off the ground, and the board I was grasping seemed firm. The second step wiggled slightly as I transferred my weight to it, but by then I could almost reach a branch. The next step looked to be easy, as it was made of a longer board that extended beyond the trunk of the tree. This was my brain's last chance to redeem itself. Instead, it allowed me to take that big step up onto the long board. As I reached for the branch, gravity kicked in, as it is wont to do at times like this. That nice long board pivoted on the one nail left in it. Instead of thinking to the ground in one compact heap, I sort of slid down the very rough trunk of the tree, being sure to hit each of the steps on my way by.

On the plus side, the ground beneath old pine trees tends to be covered with many years' worth of shed needles. It was on that cushion I landed at last. Oof! After a quick inventory of body parts, I clambered to my feet. Gabe was looking down at me with a somewhat surprised expression. Ben was properly horrified, as I had landed at his feet. The only visible damage was some abrasions to my arms. Later I would find a series of three deep bruises and more scrapes down my right side. It had been a long time since I had fallen out of a tree.

By this time AJ had finished his farm chores and provided some much-needed expertise and power to the nailing process. After reconfiguring the steps and adding an actual stepladder, originally shunned, as a back-up, we hoisted one of the pallets into place and secured it with a log chain. It fit neatly across two thick branches and needed just a few nails carefully placed and soundly pounded by AJ to make it stable. Gabe spent the next couple days adding scores of nails to the structure.

We did take Gabe along to check cows and tour pastures. As we were preparing to move the herd into a new paddock AJ opened the gate and we all walked through into the fresh pasture.

Appropriately cautious of the cows, Gabe asked, "Can those cows access this pasture?" Yes. They can now access this pasture.

The week went by too swiftly, but we had lots of adventures. In the end I hope that what Gabe remembers about his stay on the farm isn't so much about cows or haymows or the creek, or even cats and treehouses, but that it was a fun place to be.

MAPLEWOOD-SMOKED BACON BEER BURGERS

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/4 cup beer
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 4 whole wheat hamburger buns, split
- 4 slices cheddar cheese
- 4 slices Maplewood-smoked bacon, cut in half, cooked crisp

COOKING:

Combine ground beef, beer, and Worcestershire in medium bowl, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Shape into four 1/2-inch thick patties. Place patties in center of grid over medium, ash-covered coals. Grill, uncovered, 8-10 minutes (over medium heat on preheated gas grill, 7-9 minutes) until instant-read thermometer inserted horizontally into center registers 160°F, turning occasionally.

About two minutes before burgers are done, place buns, cut-side down, on grid. Grill until lightly toasted. During last minute of grilling, top each burger with cheese.

Place burgers on bottom of buns; top with bacon slices. Close sandwiches. Enjoy!

• BRIMFIELD – An Elmwood man was implicated in a domestic-violence incident in Brimfield.

Blake D. Lawson, 27, was arrested about 4:30 a.m. Aug. 7 in the 100 block of W. Knoxville St., according to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office.

Deputies were summoned to that Brimfield location several hours earlier. There they found Lawson and a 25-year-old woman whose clothes were ripped and who was not wearing pants or underwear, according to a sheriff's-office report. Her clothes were scattered in a parking lot. She told deputies there was no non-consensual sexual conduct.

The woman also sustained back and arm abrasions and had a small bruise on her right forearm, the report stated.

Lawson was accused of domestic battery and interfering with a domestic-violence report.

registration light. The officer also noticed a cannabis odor as he spoke with the driver, a 17-year-old boy.

The officer searched the vehicle and found a loose, leafy substance, which tested positive for pot, a police report stated. He also found a glass pipe and a black electronic smoking device.

Police issued the driver a written warning for the registration light. The 15-year-old was released to his mother's custody. He was charged with possession of adult-use cannabis in a motor vehicle outside of an approved container, and of possession of drug paraphernalia.

• FARMINGTON – A Farmington man was arrested after he allegedly pilfered two bottles of beer from his employer, then drank them on the job, according to police.

Officers were called to Kersh Café, 90 W. Barlow Rd., about 6 p.m. July 29 after the owner told them Medelso V. Garcia, 46, was drunk at work. She said Garcia had taken Bud Light and vodka from the restaurant's stock, according to a Farmington Police Department report.

An officer found Garcia in the restaurant kitchen and asked him what happened. He admitted to drinking the Bud Lights, the report stated. Garcia smelled of booze, slurred his speech and had glassy eyes.

Garcia was transported to the Fulton County Jail in Lewistown. He was accused of retail theft.

• TRIVOLI – An unidentified driver destroyed a mailbox at a residence northwest of Trivoli. The incident was reported about 8:30 a.m. July 29 in the 2200 block of N. Stone School Rd. Judging from tire tracks, a Peoria County Sheriff's Office deputy determined a northbound vehicle swerved into the grass, struck the mailbox, then went into an opposite-side ditch. There was no vehicle or suspect information.

• FARMINGTON – Shortly before 6 p.m. July 31, Scott Slayton of Hanna City was driving a 2014 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck south in the 600 block of N. Cramer Rd. east of Farmington when he swerved to the right to avoid a deer, according to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office.

The right side of the truck struck a mailbox in the 500 block of N. Cramer Rd. and detached it from its post. Slayton informed the residence owner.

• FARMINGTON – A 2002 Ford F150 pickup truck was reported stolen sometime between noon and 2 p.m. July 28 from a residence in the 300 block of N. East St., according to the Farmington Police Department.

• FARMINGTON – Helen L. Adkins, 55, of Farmington turned herself in to city police on an outstanding Tazewell County warrant for driving on a suspended license. She paid bond of $400 and was released.

• BRIMFIELD – About 6 p.m. July 24, Kurt Bialobreski of Forsyth was driving a 2020 Ford Explorer east on Fomey Road near Whittaker Road when his vehicle struck a cable that was about 4 feet off the ground, according to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office. The vehicle hood and grille were dented and scraped, and the windshield sustained a foot-long crack. A nearby construction crew was hanging a telephone cable wire, according to a report. A deputy observed no cones or signs to alert drivers. The wire was replaced before the deputy arrived.

• FARMINGTON – Bernard A. Allen, 22, of Peoria was driving a 2017 Chrysler sedan when Farmington police stopped him at about 1 a.m. on Aug. 2 at Main and Pearl streets for disobeying a stop sign. Allen was cited for that and for driving with a suspended/revoked license.

• PRINCEVILLE – Collin M. Hause, 24, of Princeville was arrested at 7:45 a.m. Aug. 7 and accused of failure to appear in court, according to the Peoria County Sheriff's Office.

Redacted as a result of revised status of Case.

• FARMINGTON – A 15-year-old boy was accused of possessing marijuana and smoking devices during a traffic stop in Farmington, according to police.

New director named at Camp Big Sky

MIDDLEGROVE – Sheryl “Sherry” Fahrenbruch has been selected as the new executive director of Camp Big Sky, effective Aug. 1.

Fahrenbruch comes to central Illinois from Loveland, Colo., with more than 20 years of experience in non-profit leadership, event programming, volunteer management and fundraising. She also has experience in working as a volunteer for various community outreach programs in northern Colorado and with teens with special needs.

Fahrenbruch

Former director Amanda Atchley is moving to a job with the Canton Park District. Brad Guidi will continue to serve as mission director, providing support to this role along with the Camp Big Sky Board of Directors.

Fahrenbruch is a graduate of the University of Northern Colorado and holds a bachelor’s degree in sociology, family studies and child and adolescent psychology. She and her husband, Alan, have three sons.

“All of us have a true passion for this organization and the life changing opportunities provided and are thrilled to have Sherry join us in this exciting stage of growth,” Vice President Karla Kane said. “I’m really excited about this next step for the camp, and I can’t wait to see where we can go.”

“I am truly honored to be joining such an amazing organization. My family and I believe in helping create memorable experiences for others. I’m looking forward to meeting new friends, helping people with disabilities experience new opportunities and gain new skills while providing a safe, accessible environment,” Fahrenbruch said.

First responders repurpose vehicle

DAHINDA – The Oak Run First Responders recently decided to repurpose a seldom-used response equipment vehicle at the Dahinda station to better serve constituents.

Last winter, the first responders obtained ice rescue equipment (ice rescue suits, inflatable rescue boat, rescue sled and ropes) using a combination of private donations and funds from the Oak Run Property Owners Association and the Williamsfield Fire Protection District. After the purchase, Michigan Rescue Concepts provided training at Oak Run for area first responders.

The group decided if all the specialized equipment for ice and water rescue was in one place, response time would be quicker and more efficient, according to Mary Bush. Additionally, the repurposed vehicle now carries traffic warning signs for highway and interstate accidents.

Peoria man arrested at gunpoint in Edwards

By NICK VLAHOS

For The Weekly Post

EDWARDS – A Peoria man was arrested at gunpoint after he drove erratically on a road near Edwards. A syringe and an illicit drug were found in his vehicle.

Ethan C. Ghantous, 27, was stopped shortly after 8 p.m. July 26 in the 7900 block of W. Illinois Route 8, according to the Peoria County Sheriff’s Office. Earlier, another motorist reported the car Ghantous was driving, a 2014 Chevrolet sedan, had struck a deer.

An initial police search was fruitless, but the car was spotted again eastbound on Route 8 near McCl-lan Road northeast of Elmwood. When deputies encountered the vehicle near Edwards, it was traveling unusually slow, then stopped, then resumed travel and swerved all over the road, according to a sheriff’s office report.

Ghantous refused to stop for police initially. When Ghantous did, he did not obey commands to show his hands, which prompted one deputy to pull his service weapon. A male passenger in the car was unresponsive.

Once Ghantous exited the car, he was handcuffed. He denied being involved in a wreck and said he didn’t have a passenger. Inside the vehicle was found the syringe and a plastic bag that contained about 1 gram of heroin, the report stated.

Ghantous was booked into the Peoria County Jail on accusations of driving under the influence, possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of a controlled substance. Ghantous also was cited for attempting to elude an officer, improper lane use and for not having a valid driver’s license.

The passenger awakened eventually and was transported to OSF Saint Francis Medical Center in Peoria. There was no report about his condition.

Princeville redevelopment program busy

By NICK VLAHOS

For The Weekly Post

PRINCEVILLE – The first month of the Princeville Residential Redevelopment Program has been busy.

As of last week, the Village Board had approved four residential properties for reimbursement of some exterior-renovation expenses.

The most recent approval came during the board meeting Aug. 1. The owner of a residence at 904 E. Jane St. is replacing windows, Village President Jeff Troutman said.

In late June, the board approved creating the program. It helps finance residential projects in certain sections of the village, predominately in the downtown area and on the west side. Interior renovations are not eligible.

After the board authorizes a project, residential-property owners have 180 days to complete it and submit paid invoices and copies of related canceled checks, according to Village Treasurer Julie Delbridge. Maximum reimbursement is 75 percent of eligible project costs, up to $2,500.

For the current fiscal year, the village is financing the program with $30,000 in tax-increment-financing money. A similar program exists for commercial properties.

The village also approved three building permits recently.

Stairs that lead to a second-story balcony are to be constructed at 212 N. Ostrom Ave.; a one-stall garage is to be demolished at 103 E. North St.; and at 804 N. Town Ave., a concrete stoop is to be removed and wooden steps and a landing are to be built.

FARMINGTON: JH wrestling added

years. Superintendent Zac Chatterton said non-certified staff also earn “additional compensation” based on longevity. He said all non-union employees also got 5 percent raises.

Chatterton said the teacher’s union approved the three-year deal on Sunday. The board also voted to approve a draft budget for Fiscal Year 2023 that will be on display for 30 days before a vote in September. Chatterton said expenses for most funds remained the same or declined slightly, with the exception being Tort, which increased slightly.

The overall budget of $17.6 million includes a deficit of $1.278 million. Largest shortfalls are in the Educational Fund ($511,299), Capital Projects ($487,500), Transportation ($484,080) and Operations and Maintenance ($372,422). As the result, the district’s fund balance is expected to decline from $13,258,864 to $11,980,292.

Chatterton said that federal ESSER funds were listed on last year’s revenues but expenses related to those funds are on this budget. Part of the deficit is also due to construction of the elementary research center.

The board also approved adding a junior high wrestling program at a cost of around $10,000 per year for a coaching stipend, travel and officials. The school plans to post a job for a coach soon and hopes to have someone hired by September or October, Chatterton said.

At its next meeting, Farmington is also looking to enter a co-op with Cuba for high school wrestling. “They have at least one wrestler,” Chatterton said.

Farmington also increased pay rates for substitute teachers. Certified subs will now get $125 per day (up from $100 last year). Aides with a ParaPro license will be paid $14.25 per hour, certified subs working as aides will get $19.50 per hour and aides already working in the district who serve as substitutes will get stipends of up to $60 for a full day.

In other business, Chatterton said the district also has plans to add a “partial therapy dog.” “That means the dog will be owned by someone other than the district and that person can bring the dog to school for a couple days each week,” Chatterton said.

The dog’s owner is a Farmington school district secretary, Christie Koenig, who Chatterton said has been taking her dog for training classes in Tremont.

Chatterton said the board voted not to adopt new National Sex Education Standards, which Illinois included in legislation earlier this year. Under the new Illinois law, public schools that teach sex ed must provide lessons based on a new, expanded curriculum as early as kindergarten. As a result of the decision, sex education classes will not be taught in Farmington schools this year.

The board also authorized an intergovernmental agreement with Brimfield to loan that school district two buses to start the year. Brimfield has recently taken over its transportation program from a private business and needs two more buses.

“We think we can get by without them for now,” Chatterton said. “If we need to pull back, we can give them notice and get our buses back.”

Finally, the board agreed on a “reunification drill,” which will be scheduled for September. As part of the drill, designed to simulate an emergency situation, students will be evacuated from campus and then picked up from an alternate site by their parents.

Williamsfield considering rules for burning

By NICK VLAHOS

For The Weekly Post

WILLIAMSFIELD – Public nuisances in Williamsfield have become a burning issue. A smoky one, too.

Residents setting fire as desired to debris and other items outdoors on their properties has the Williamsfield Village Board considering changes to its nuisance ordinance, community officials said. Specificity is necessary about what can be burned and when, in their view.

“Some people want to burn every day,” Williamsfield Police Chief James Robertson said. “Usually, it’s just shrubs or material from their yards. Occasionally, someone wants to burn furniture or treated material that has chemicals in it.”

The frequency and content of one Billtown resident’s burns was a prime topic of Village Board discussion during its meeting last week. Objections from neighbors have been numerous, according to Trustee Julie Van Dran.

“He has a perpetual fire burning all the time,” she said. “(They) never can hang anything for their wash. I’ve had several complaints of ‘We can’t sit outside.’”

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has cited the offending resident, Van Dran said. But at least three local properties appear to be contributing to the pyromania problem, according to Village President Matt Tonkin. Nice weather exacerbates the burning.

“There’s one at the moment that’s driving everyone nuts, but that’s because he’s late to the game,” Tonkin said about the resident Van Dran mentioned. “The other two, usually it’s their spring cleanup, when they drag in cars and stuff and start burning. It’s amazing.”

Robertson suggested the problem isn’t necessarily constant but tends to become obvious in a when-it-rains-it-pours fashion.

Only one sentence in the village’s current nuisance ordinance addresses burning, according to Tonkin. It isn’t all that definitive, apparently. When asked about the sentence last week, Tonkin said he couldn’t remember what it was.

Robertson said nearby communities might offer Billtown a template. Galva, for example, allows outdoor burning only on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

“Days with a ‘T,’” Robertson said.

Limiting outdoor burning to certain hours on such days also might be an option, according to Tonkin. So might be augmenting the nuisance ordinance with EPA recommendations regarding what’s safe to burn.

“Having something more specific on the books would be better,” Tonkin said. “Because otherwise, it’s kind of a question: ‘Well, is it really a nuisance? It doesn’t smell that bad.’”

The outdoor-burning season is ending, so immediate action isn’t likely, Tonkin suggested. He said he’d like to see the nuisance ordinance amended sometime this year, but before next spring at the latest.

According to Van Dran, the constituents who have contacted her would appreciate it.

“That’s all they’re asking for – set some parameters,” Van Dran said.

SCHOOL BOARD: Insurance costs up 15%

One significant cost change this year is a 15 percent increase in health insurance, which led to a switch to Blue Cross and Blue Shield. The previous provider had sought a 43 percent increase.

Williamsfield purchases insurance with a group of other schools and Farquer said of the previous insurer, “they lost money on us, basically.”

Blue Cross and Blue Shield’s bid included the stipulation that costs cannot increase by more than 20 percent in the second year.

The board also approved changes to its policies, taking all but one directly from the Illinois State Board of Education. The exception is for required health, eye and dental examinations and immunizations. The board voted to approve changing the deadline for such requirements from Oct. 15 to the first day of school, which this year is Aug. 16. Failure to comply with required examinations and immunizations can lead to a student being excluded from school.

Farquer said the change will help cut down on “the number of families we have to chase down during the school year.”

Board member Lisa Hanson asked if timing of the change will allow families enough time to comply.

Farquer said the administration will be “flexible” with parents. “At the end of the day, all they have to do is have the appointment made,” he said.

The board also approved a tentative 25-year agreement with Future Green to install solar panels on the roof of the gymnasium and art and music rooms, but only if Future Green agrees to charge the district 6 cents per kilowatt-hour (kWh) for the first year of the deal, with 2 percent increases thereafter. Currently, Williamsfield pays 7.35 cents per kWh.

“We walk away [from the lease] if we don’t get 6 cents or under,” Farquer said.

In personnel, the board approved:

- Hiring Barb Shipley as a full-time custodian.
- The resignation of Sonya Cummings.
- The hiring of Jessica Fogerty as a full-time certified staff member.
- The following extra-duty assignments: Joshua Morris as assistant varsity volleyball coach; Star Yelm as Core Skill Pathway Lead; Garrett Rau, Ryan Wessling and Jaynee Bowker as freshman sponsors; and Joe Newman as junior sponsor.

The board also approved membership in the Knox-Warren Special Education cooperative and the Delabar CTE cooperative.

At its July 11 meeting, the board voted to hire Lacy Stone as district secretary and Sarah Hale as full-time substitute while accepting resignations by Melissa Ehnle and Kaiti Murphy and approving Katie Bosnich as a JV volleyball coach, Alexis Little as freshman coach and Katie Yelm as a volunteer.

CAPITOL NEWS BRIEFS

Pritzker using abortion laws to lure businesses

By PETER HANCOCK

Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – Democratic Gov. JB Pritzker said this week he is actively reaching out to businesses in Indiana and other states that have recently passed restrictive abortion laws in hopes of luring those companies to Illinois.

“Well, already I’ve reached out to companies that are affected in Indiana. I want to make sure that they know that they’re welcome in Illinois, any expansion that they may be looking to do, that we welcome their employees,” Pritzker said at a Monday news conference.

His comments came just days after Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb, a Republican, signed into law a near-total ban on abortions in that state, making Indiana the first state to enact a new law restricting abortion since the U.S. Supreme Court in May overturned the landmark 1973 decision in Roe v. Wade which had previously legalized abortion nationwide.

Indiana’s new law bans the procedure except in cases of rape, incest, fatal fetal anomalies or when the pregnant person’s life is at risk.

The day after Holcomb signed that bill, pharmaceutical giant Eli Lilly and Company, one of the state’s largest employers, issued a statement saying it would look to expand its workforce outside of its home state.

“We are concerned that this law will hinder Lilly’s – and Indiana’s – ability to attract diverse scientific, engineering and business talent from around the world,” the company said. “While we have expanded our employee health plan coverage to include travel for reproductive services unavailable locally, that may not be enough for some current and potential employees.”

That statement helped highlight the growing fallout from the Supreme Court’s decision in Dobbs v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization, the decision that overturned Roe, exposing both the political and economic consequences of the ruling.

According to the Guttmacher Institute, a research and policy organization that supports abortion rights, Illinois is one of only a handful of states – and the only state in the Midwest – with laws specifically protecting access to abortion services.

Although Indiana was the first state since the Dobbs decision to enact a new law restricting abortion, several other states had so-called “trigger laws” on the books that only went into effect once Roe v. Wade was overturned. Others, including Wisconsin, had dormant laws on the books that predated Roe and were unenforceable until Roe was overturned.

But on Aug. 2, voters in the conservative state of Kansas overwhelmingly rejected a proposed constitutional amendment that would have given their state legislature broad power to enact abortion restrictions, a response to a 2019 state supreme court ruling that found the state’s constitution protected abortion rights.

In Illinois, Pritzker has worked with abortion rights advocates to expand access to the procedure, even promoting the state’s more permissive laws to encourage patients from other states to travel here for services.

On Aug. 4, Pritzker announced the state would increase its Medicaid reimbursement rate for abortion services by 20 percent, effective Sept. 1, as a way to provide increased resources to abortion providers who are seeing increased patient loads due to women coming to Illinois from other states.

That move drew a sharp rebuke from Illinois Right to Life, a group that opposes to abortion rights, which called the action an “incredible misuse of funds by the government in Illinois.”

“Like most Illinois abortion law, this increase in taxpayer-funding of abortion is in direct opposition to what a majority of Americans believe about the issue,” the group’s executive director Amy Gehrke said in a statement.

Pritzker has also tried to make abortion rights a central issue in his campaign for reelection to a second term, contrasting his support for those rights with the views of the Republican candidate, state Sen. Darren Bailey, of Xenia, who in 2017 compared abortion in the United States to the Nazi Holocaust.

“The attempted extermination of the Jews of World War II doesn’t even compare on a shadow of the life that has been lost with abortion since its legalization,” Bailey said in a video statement at the time.

Other Illinois Republicans have distanced themselves from such remarks while still endorsing Bailey for governor. State Rep. Tom Demmer, of Dixon, the GOP candidate for state treasurer, said during a Tuesday news conference that he doesn’t want abortion to be a major issue in the election.

• Sales Tax Reduction – Through Aug. 14, the state will reduce its sales tax rate from 6.25 percent to 1.25 percent for certain clothing items costing less than $125 and school supplies.

The state estimated the sales tax reduction would amount to $50 million in savings for taxpayers.

Included clothing items: The 10-day tax reduction includes clothing items costing less than $125 individually. Clothing items, as defined by the law, include the standard items such as shorts, pants, skirts, shirts and underwear. The tax reduction will also apply to aprons, hats, caps and earmuffs, coats and jackets, belts and suspenders, rubber pants, lab coats, hosiery, scarves, bathing suits, school uniforms and neckties.

It also applies to footwear – shoes, shoelaces, slippers, insoles, boots, socks and sandals.

Included school supplies: Binders, book bags, calculators, cellophane tape, blackboard chalk, notebooks, erasers, folders, index cards, legal pads, lunch boxes, pencils and sharpeners, supply boxes, protractors, rulers, compasses, and scissors are all eligible for the reduced tax rate. So are glue, highlighters, markers, crayons and colored pencils.

Excluded items: Shoppers should not expect other art supplies to be eligible for the reduced rate, however. Clay and glaze, paints and paint brushes, sketch pads and drawing pads will all be taxed at the regular 6.25 percent rate.

Textbooks, reference books, maps and globes are all excluded from the “holiday” as well.

Electronics and computers will also be taxed at the regular rate. That includes computers and related supplies such as flash drives, memory cards, data storage, computer cases, cables, printers and ink.

Shoppers also should not expect any breaks while buying cameras, cellphones or handheld electronics.

CARLSON: Sought hoops coaching jobs at Dunlap, Limestone

Brimfield athletics director, assisted Carlson for his entire initial varsity coaching tenure.

After 32 years overall at Brimfield, Carlson retired in 2021 from court and classroom, where he taught social studies. Carlson does not plan to return to teaching.

Part of the reason Carlson retired from basketball was because he feared a repeat of the 2020-21 season, which the coronavirus pandemic caused to be truncated (only 12 games) and modified.

“Wearing masks, no crowd, no postseason,” Carlson said. “I’m like, ‘I’m not sure I want to go through that again.’”

But separating Carlson from the sport has proven impossible.

Carlson spent 2021-22 as one of Kreiter’s assistants. That also was a return to a previous role. Before he became head coach in 1997, Carlson spent eight years assisting his two immediate predecessors, Dan Sullivan and Mike Bonczyk.

Under Kreiter, Carlson didn’t sit on the Brimfield bench during games, but he provided halftime insights and helped at practices.

The assistant job appeared to be an appetizer. Not long after Carlson retired, he inquired about a head-coaching vacancy at Dunlap. He also was an unsuccessful applicant recently for the top job at Bartonville Limestone.

“When I retired, I knew pretty quickly that maybe that was a mistake,” Carlson said.

“The help that I did last year, I’m glad I did it, but I knew I was missing it. It didn’t fulfill me as I’d like it to. ... When I saw my old job was open, I decided I’ve got to jump on that one.”

Carlson interviewed with Marcy Steele, the newly hired Brimfield High principal. He said he received a good first impression. So did Steele, evidently. Carlson’s record might have something to do with it.

Only four of Carlson’s teams have finished below .500, none by more than three games. From 2007 through 2016, Brimfield was 255-33. That stretch included six regional championships, three sectional plaques and the 34-2 state-title season.

If the second Brimfield stint goes as planned, Carlson is to inherit freshman-sophomore coach Jake Lowery, his replacement as a teacher. Carlson said he plans to mentor Lowery, with the assumption he might be a successor someday.

But that day might not happen for a while.

“When I expressed my interest, I said three or four years or maybe more,” Carlson said.

“But things can change. We’ll see.

“I’m a 60-year-old who’s still pretty young. I’m still thinking (there’s) a lot of life in me as far as coaching.”

IHSA searching for best pork chop

The smell of pork chop sandwiches will again fill the air around Illinois high school football fields when the season opens on Aug. 26. With that in mind, the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) and the Illinois Pork Producers Association (IPPA) are again searching for the state’s best concession stand pork chop sandwich as part of the second Pork & Pigskins Championship.

“Tradition, community, and amazing food are the ingredients that make-up the Pork & Pigskins Championship,” said IHSA Executive Director Craig Anderson. “The folks behind these grills volunteer their time and talent to support our high school students and their schools.”

A year ago, Normal Community High School’s A-Train concession group had both the heart and the flavor to capture the inaugural state title. The A-Train honors Adam Denzer, a pork producer who worked for the Normal school district after high school but passed away tragically in a farming accident in 2008. The A-Train trailer the group cooks with at NCHS football games was purchased by Denzer’s widow, Marie.

The 2022 competition will follow a similar recipe as a year ago, featuring a mix of online fan voting and guest judges. The Savory 16 will be determined via online voting, at which point guest judges will attend games to sample the fare. The state champion will be announced on Oct. 22 and will receive a prize package from the IPPA that includes a $500 reimbursement on their pork purchase for next season, a banner, and a Golden Spatula.

The IHSA is also seeking guest judges. Learn more online at IHSA.org. Any IHSA schools interested in entering the Pork & Pigskins Championship can do so at IHSA.org beginning on Aug. 15.

Fans are encouraged to post photos and video of top pork chop sandwich contenders on social media with the hashtag #PorkandPigskins.

Carlson back at Brimfield?

School board expects to rehire retired hoops coach

By NICK VLAHOS

For The Weekly Post

BRIMFIELD – Count Scott Carlson among those guys for whom retirement didn't entirely take.

About 17 months after what appeared to be his final game as Brimfield High School boys basketball coach, Carlson is in line to return.

During its meeting Wednesday night, convened after The Weekly Post deadline, the Brimfield School Board was to consider Carlson's comeback attempt. According to Board President Steve Updyke, no opposition was expected.

Carlson

That isn't a surprise, given Carlson coached 495 victories in 700 games over 24 seasons at Brimfield, including a Class 1A state championship in 2015. What might be more surprising is how eager the 60-year-old Carlson is to get back in the game.

"It seems weird, because I'm really excited," he said Monday. "It's almost like my first opportunity is here, but obviously it's one of the last chapters in my book, I guess."

Carlson is set to replace Kevin Kreiter, who stepped down after one season and a 17-10 record. Kreiter, who remains the
